Father of Bride, Riotous Comedy, May 23 and 24

Ding Dong! The sound of wedding bells will be heard at the Virginia Beach High School on May 23 and 24, and invitations are being issued to all, but there is no need for alarm, as it will be the last Virginia Beach Little Theatre show of the season, "FATHER OF THE BRIDE."

To get the bride, Pat Wade, "all dressed in white" takes a considerable amount of hectic planning. Possibly, what happens in the Banks household has or could happen to you!

Sponsoring the bride, along with the theatre group, will be the Virginia Beach High School PTA to raise funds for the annual PTA scholarship award of $200, to be based on scholastic achievement. Tickets will be sold to both 8:30 performances by the PTA. Half the ticket sales will go toward this scholastic fund.

The bride expects no presents, only tickets, which go on sale Thursday at Jards, 25th and Atlantic, and the High School.

TEACHER DAY PROCLAIMED

Mayor Frank A. Dusch is shown signing a proclamation for the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored "Teacher Appreciation Day" which is being observed today in Virginia Beach. Dr. Geo. Modlin On C&P Board

Dr. George M. Modlin, president of the University of Richmond, has been elected a member of the board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia, according to an announcement made this week by J. Rhodes Mitchell, vice president of the company.

A native of Elizabeth City, N. C., Modlin has been active in educational and civic affairs throughout the state since he became associated with the University of Richmond in 1938. Following completion of his studies at Wake Forest College in 1924 where he received his A.B. degree, Modlin attended Princeton University, being awarded an MA in 1925 and a PhD in 1932. He also served on the faculty of Princeton during the interim 1927 through 1928. His alma mater, Wake Forest, conferred an LL.D. on him in 1947.

In assuming his new duties, Modlin becomes associated with other prominent Virginia businessmen in directing the affairs of one of Virginia's most vigorous, fastest growing organizations.

PROCLAMATION

As Mayor of the City of Virginia Beach I, Frank A. Dusch, do hereby proclaim Thursday, May 5, 1955 as Junior Chamber of Commerce "Teacher Appreciation Day."

Mrs. Gilmore Tilbrook Re-elected President of Garden Club Council

Mrs. Gilmore Tilbrook was again elected president of the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County at a quarterly meeting of the organization held Wednesday morning in the board room of the Bank of Virginia Beach. Mrs. Everett Wilson was elected recording secretary and Mrs. E. M. Rudy was chosen treasurer.

Other officers whose terms do not expire this year are Mrs. George T. Mullen, vice president, and Mrs. W. Taylor Johnson, corresponding secretary.

Representatives from various garden clubs reported on their beautification programs for the year. The Linkhorn Park Club announced that it had recently put out a hundred dogwood trees in their area. The Cavalier Club reported on the progress of their test garden. The Princess Anne club maintains a wild flower preserve and a test garden for lilies. The Evergreen club reported on its progress in beautifying the Community Center at Seateck.

Mrs. Tilbrook gave a brief report of the anti-littering campaign.

A history of the Council of Garden Clubs since its beginning was compiled and read by Mrs. Frank Burleson. This report was (Continued on Page Six)

Next Thursday "Youth Day"

Mayor Frank A. Dusch has proclaimed next Thursday, May 12, as "Youth Day" for the City of Virginia Beach and on that day Virginia Beach High School students will run the city occupying the various offices of the city government.

Mayor Dusch will speak to the "elected officials" on Thursday morning in the auditorium of the Virginia Beach High School and that evening the student officials along with the bona fide officials will be guests of the Virginia Beach Rotary Club at its regular meeting in the cafeteria of the school.

'Open House' at PA High School

An "open house" will be held at Princess Anne High School on Tuesday night, May 10, at which time the parents of the school children are invited to meet the teachers and visit in the classrooms.

The teachers will be in their respective classrooms from 8 until 9:30 p. m. Student Council members will serve as guides and distribute programs at the door.

The Science Department will exhibit projects completed by the students during the term. Refreshments will be served.

G. Scott Taylor Gains Promotion

E. H. Church, president of the Bank of Virginia Beach, has announced the promotion of G. Scott Taylor to the position of assistant cashier of the local financial institution.

In addition to being promoted to the position of assistant cashier Taylor has assumed the management of the bank's branch facility on Atlantic Avenue. He succeeds Albert W. Craft, Jr., as manager of the branch facility.

Craft, also an assistant cashier, is now located at the main office of the bank on 31st Street.

Mental Health Week Being Observed

Mental Health Week is being observed this week in Virginia and throughout the nation. It has been announced by the Virginia Association for Mental Health. The dates are from May 2-8.

The slogan of the mental health movement is—"Fight mental illness; ring the bell for mental health." The symbol of the mental health program is the bell.

Famous Food Consultant at Beach May 17

The Virginia State Restaurant Association, through the cooperation of Dr. William V. Garrett, director, and Ernest Alderman, sanitarian, of the Virginia Beach Health Department, has arranged to have H. L. "Billy" Wortz put on his outstanding program, "The Practical Side of Food Service Operation," at Virginia Beach.

Mr. Wortz is one of the nation's leading restaurant consultants and has been putting on his down-to-earth program to standing room audiences of food operators throughout this country and Canada during the past year.

"If anyone is interested in the progress of his food operation," declared Dr. Garrett, "then this Billy Wortz program is a 'must' he cannot afford to miss."

Restaurateurs, dietitians, luncheonette operators, hotel operators, institutional food service operators, are all cordially invited to attend. There will be no admission or registration fees.

Mr. Wortz speaks from twenty-five years of experience as a restaurant operator, and he says that there is something in his program for every food handler, no matter how large or how small his operation. Among the topics to be discussed will be "Training Personnel for Operational Efficiency," "How to Protect Profits and Cut Losses," and "Practical Ideas that Build Volume."

The time of the meeting will be 8 p. m., May 17, and it will be held at the Virginia Beach High School cafeteria.

"Glory" Choir Is Selected

Members of the famed choir of "The Common Chorus" have been named for the drama's ninth season which will open in on June 2.

Dr. Carl Fehr will direct the choir, as he has done each summer since the show's beginning in 1947. Also director of the College of William and Mary Choir, Dr. Fehr has gained national attention for his work with the two choral groups.

The 30-voice choir will include 18 new members this season. All singers were chosen on the basis of competitive tryouts held this spring throughout Virginia.

Newcomers to the choir include: Jay Childress, of Norfolk; George Eidehamer of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Gerald Fisher, of Charlottesville; Donald Franklin, of Arlington; Robert Hannah, of Oakton; Franklin Reynolds, of Danville; Keith Taylor, of Hanover; Ronald Ward, of Richmond.

"First Aid Squad Week" May 1-7 Proclaimed by Governor Stanley

Governor Thomas B. Stanley believes that the work of the Virginia Rescue Squads should be brought to the attention of all Virginians. Therefore, he has proclaimed this week, May 1 to 7, as "First Aid Squad Week" in the state, and is asking that everyone take time to acquaint themselves with the work these fine organizations are doing.

In his statement, Governor Stanley stated that there are forty-two volunteer life-saving and rescue squads, with a total membership of more than 800 active persons, now functioning in the state, with many other units now in the process of organizing.

Also this week a statement was released by R. O. Payman, president of the International Rescue and First Aid Association, from Toronto, Canada, in which he praised Governor Stanley for such recognition, and said "Governor Stanley has done a great service to the humanities as well as to international relations in this most welcome recognition and dedication. Our warm congratulations go out, particularly to Virginia's Tappahannock Squad, one of the finest and most energetic for good in our up-and-coming organization. Virginia's action will inspire us all to more abundant efforts to exemplify the most fundamental of all democratic principles: 'Help one another.'"

Rescue and life saving squads throughout the state are holding "Open House" this week, and requesting the public come and see what they are doing for their communities.

More Than 1,100 Visit Homes and Gardens at Beach for Tour During Historic Garden Week

By Kay Doughtie Sewell

"It was very much gratified with the tremendous success of our second Virginia Beach Historic Garden Week Tour," said Mrs. Nathan Bundy, president of the Virginia Beach Garden Club, which sponsored the tour Tuesday, April 26. "Furthermore," declared Mrs. Bundy, "I can't thank enough all the people who worked so hard to contribute toward making it such a success."

There is no question about it—it was a success. More than 1,100 people came to the Beach that chilly, overcast Tuesday. But there was nothing chilly about their response to the charm of the eight private homes and gardens especially open to the public that day.

"What I like about it most is that they all seem to be having such a good time," said Mrs. Karl A. Wunder of the visitors to her Birdneck Point home. "It's more like a big party," said Mrs. Harold C. Stuart, who had come down from Washington to open up the spectacular "Pink House" at 47th Street and Oceanfront for the occasion.

Many visitors left with the specific comment: "I'm going home with a lot of good ideas." There were plenty of good ideas to be had. For the Historic Garden Week Tours aim not only to make money toward the restoration of historic places in Virginia which would otherwise fall into decay. They also aim to give visitors practical, workable ideas on contemporary living, and how to make the most of one's own home and garden.

For those whose tastes are traditional, there were the traditional homes of Mr. and Mrs. W. Perton May and Admiral and Mrs. David H. Clark, in Bay Colony, as well as "Pine Hill," at 301 54th Street, residence of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Waters.

Something for Every Taste For those whose tastes veered toward the modern, there was the superbly equipped, highly contemporary "Pink House" and the casual, beachy, ultra-modern Coates house at 78th Street and Oceanfront.

A splendid example of a small house—perfectly appointed and eminently livable—was the "amphibious" bachelor establishment of J. Ross McNeale in Birdneck Point. Its architecture, furnishings and planting attracted more than 1,000 visitors, both men and women, many of whom went around with notebooks jotting down details.

The Wunder house, with its bona fide picture window, and its unique garden enclosed by twin lagoons, kept many visitors at that one spot for a long time. A representative of the Norfolk Museum was present, and at one point almost persuaded Mrs. Wunder to take him up to the attic to see an old altar of Chinese origin—when a new avalanche of guests arrived to circumvent the inspection.

"Coming in bunches!" At the Ralph C. Gifford penthouse, the only place on the tour which was open last year, there were even more visitors this year than last. As a janitor remarked: "Last year they came in groups; this year they're coming in bunches!"

The "Studio" and the rambling grounds at the May house enthralled hundreds. One visitor actually left the Clark home with the comment, "I'm going right home and build myself a balcony."

Mrs. Bundy had as her Historic Garden Week chairman, Mrs. James H. Waters. Mrs. Waters' committee was as follows: Mrs. Charles Eyer, Jr., vice-chairman; Mrs. Redwood Richardson, arrangements chairman; Mrs. F. Alfred Van Patten, hostess chairman; Mrs. James N. Bell, Jr., poster chairman; Mrs. W.

Irving Jordan, ticket chairman; Mrs. Joseph D. Deal, radio and television chairman; Mrs. Hampton Sewell, publicity chairman.

Assistants to Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Sewell were Mrs. James N. Bell and Mrs. D. Conrad Little, respectively.

The Virginia Beach Junior Garden Club also contributed to the success of the tour. Some members helped with the flower arrangements, which added so much to the interest and decorative appeal of the houses. Many of them served as hostesses, and with over eleven hundred visitors, roses were at a premium.

At the residence of J. Ross McNeale, there were also several excellent arrangements by his maid, Louise Carroll, which received considerable admiration.

Besides local visitors and those from other parts of Virginia and North Carolina, some came from as far away as Canada, California, New Mexico, the Midwest, New England, Georgia and Florida.

Lunches were served for visitors at the Princess Anne Country Club, Cavalier Yacht and Country Club, Sir Walter Hotel, and by the ladies of Eastern Shore Chapel. Even so, visitors overflowed into other restaurants and snack bars all over the Beach.

Prizes Offered as Incentive to "Get Out the Donors" May 19

The Tidewater Regional Bloodmobile will visit the Seateck Elementary School on May 19 from one to six o'clock in the afternoon. W. Francis Taylor, Jr., Chairman of Princess Anne County Citizens Committee and H. L. Robinson Secretary of the Committee are sponsoring this visit for the colored people of Princess Anne County. The Churches and Schools are giving their support.

A prize is offered to the classroom in the Seateck Elementary School and also in Princess Anne County Training School that brings in the most blood donors. All donors will be given free passes to the Bayne Theatre in Virginia Beach and a Red Cross Recognition pin. The quota for this visit is 60 pints of blood.

Dr. W. L. Taylor and Dr. James W. Todd will be the volunteer physicians in attendance. There is a need for volunteer Registered Nurses to work during the visit and they may call Francis Taylor at Virginia Beach 3442 or the Princess Anne County Red Cross Office at Virginia Beach 338. This is the first time the colored people have had a Bloodmobile visit and those interested in further information please call Taylor or the Red Cross office.

Wright Honored In Norfolk

James O. Wright, whose mother and family reside here, was made an honorary citizen of the City of Norfolk in ceremonies held Tuesday. Wright is the director of purchasing for the vast Ford Motor Company.

Reared in this area, Wright attended Norfolk City schools and joined the huge motor car company following World War II. He has had a phenomenal rise thru the ranks in the company.

Presentation of the certificate honoring Wright was presented at the weekly meeting of the Norfolk Rotary Club by Norfolk's Mayor W. Fred Dockworth.

Wright was one of the youngest Air Force officers the company hired after World War II. The company employed several young men and they have become popularly known as the "Whiz Kids."

Wright becomes the 14th man to be so honored by the City of Norfolk. Among those that have been so honored are General Douglas MacArthur and General Lemuel Shepherd of the Marine Corps.

While here Mrs. Wright was entertained with a luncheon at the Princess Anne Country Club

ENJOYING CAMP LIFE

These Virginia Beach Girl Scouts were recently photographed enjoying one of their favorite activities — camping. The Girl Scouts of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach are an active group and participate in every phase of girl scouting.

Eighty-five per cent of the picturesque Shenandoah National Park is covered with forests.

Spelling Honors Go to Lockwood

Lawrence Lockwood, Jr., of Virginia Beach, is the champion speller of Tidewater Virginia. Young Lockwood won out over several finalists last week in a "spelling bee" conducted in Norfolk over WTAR-TV.

Young Lockwood is a 13-year-old student at Norfolk Academy, who successfully spelled the words "pendulum" and "martyr" to defeat J. Ronald Feuer, of Granby High School, in the finals.

Judges for the contest were Lewis W. Webb, Jr., director of William and Mary College, and Dr. James B. Reese and Herbert L. Behrens, of the college's English department.

The youthful spelling champion is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lockwood, Sr., of Cavalier Park.

Local Youths Get Gold Medals

First rating gold medals went to Nicholas Karseras and Buddy Greene of Virginia Beach, in the 1955 National Piano Recording Festival, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, it was announced this week from the guild's national headquarters in Austin, Texas.

In addition to the medals, the youths each received cash prizes, as did 26 other pupils of Mr. Clifford Herzer, of the Bristol Ward School of Music in Norfolk, whose students Karseras and Greene were.

The magnitude of the achievement is better realized when it is disclosed that the local boys were among more than 37,750 competing piano pupils in all sections of the nation.

No Noise For Ted

QUIET OUTBOARDS are "tops" for angling in the opinion of Ted Williams, whose skill with a fishing rod equals that of his fence-busting bat. The Boston Red Sox star is shown running the newly-introduced "true quiet" Johnson 10-horsepower outboard he is using in his fishing trips at the end of the baseball season. The manufacturer has silenced both 10 and 25-horsepower outboards in current production models.

FT. STORY TELLINGS

A formal ceremonial farewell review on the post parade ground marked a change of command in the 3rd Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group which controls NIKE guided missile sites in the Tidewater, Va. area. Col. Millan O. Weber, who is departing for duty in Japan, was succeeded as Group commander by Col. Howard G. Smigelow, former Chief of Special Services in Europe. Damp winds and erratic gusts of rain hampered but did not cancel the ceremony.

Story's Deputy Commander, Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward, has assumed command of the post during the absence of Col. Edwin A. Deagle. The latter is visiting Washington.

The pay raise for military personnel went into effect on the monthly pay day, April 30th, and brought pleased expressions to hundreds of troops at Story as elsewhere. Pay boosts for non-commissioned officers ranged up to about $30, effecting a big increase in the pay rolls handled by the Post Finance Office.

Another source of monetary satisfaction for career soldiers at Story continues to be the new enlistment bonus. Latest to draw a hefty total in pay and allowances is 32-year-old Sgt. Ted D.

Arrington, supply sergeant of the 612th DUKW Company, a 54th T Battalion unit. Arrington, whose home is in Waynesville, N. C., drew over $2,000 this week on a six-year reenlistment. He has 14 years previous service.

Another act in the continuing battle to keep possession of Story's Best Mess trophy has just been played out, with the 54th DUKW Company of the 5th T Battalion wrestling the honor from Headquarters Company, 5th T Terminal Command B. The struggle has its comic aspects because the 54th's Co. 1st Lt. Jack J. Schwartz, formerly commanded Headquarters Company and took pride in the regularity with which his mess steward, SFC Herbert L. Ripley, got the award. Mess Steward of the 54th is Sgt. Lester Clement.

This week units of the 5th T Battalion moved into the field for a practical demonstration of experience acquired under the Army Training Program. Taking part in the exercise under simulated combat conditions are Headquarters Company, the 344th, 347th and 456th DUKW Companies and the 565th Terminal Service Company. Serving as umpires and judges of the amphibious battalion's training proficiency will be officers from Post Headquarters and the 54th T Battalion.

Story's latest Soldier of the Week is SFC Robert R. Collins, 23, of Homestead, Pa. Collins, a member of Headquarters Company,

Tour Made to Virginia State College

On April 22, our Industrial Arts instructor, Mr. Woodhouse, took 26 students up to visit the annual Open House at Virginia State College, Petersburg. The students were very much impressed at the displays of the various shops.

The trip proved to be very educational to all of the students. They had the experience of seeing many well equipped shop layouts, storage of tools and equipment, and the opportunity to gain a deeper appreciation for fine workmanship.

Seventh Grade Visits Holland Station

any, 5th T Terminal Command B, is Signal Supply Sergeant in the Post Signal Section. His Army service of almost seven years includes tours of duty in Europe and Africa.

Second Prize on the Horace Heidt Talent Show recently went to a popular young Story tenor, Cpl. Frank W. Blankenmeyer, personnel clerk of the 347th DUKW Company, a 5th T Battalion unit. Blankenmeyer, 24, whose home is in Roanoke, Va., flew to Rochester, N. Y., on short notice after receiving an invitation to Heidt to appear on the show at Station WHAM-TV.

are really making a name for themselves. The class in Social Studies made a field trip to the Virginia Truck Experiment Station. This trip was sponsored by the Social Studies teacher, Mrs. Inez Williams. While there, they were instructed in soil conservation by A. Vernon Watts.

Fifth Grade Busy

The class Sunshine Club, Florence Reid president, is still making plans for the trip to visit the "Crater" in Petersburg and many other places of interest in Richmond on May 17. This trip is to be made in connection with the Social Studies course.

Tours have been made through Princess Anne County for studying the historical background of Princess Anne. These tours were made with the other fifth grade classes, taught by Mrs. Rubie Davis, Mrs. Thelma Gatlin and Mrs. Julia Clark. Some of the places visited were: The Cross at Cape Henry, Old Donation Church, and the Adam Thorogood home, at Lynnhaven, the Francis Ackles home in Pungo and Blackwater and Princess Anne Courthouse. You can see they are very busy, not leaving out helping with the Multiple Sclerosis drive in our school.

The Fourth Grade

The fourth grade classes and their teachers, Miss A. M. Freeman and Mrs. R. E. Beckton, made an educational trip to Williamsburg on March 14. They had a lovely trip. Miss Brown, a college student who majors in history, was very nice. She told of all the events of historic Williamsburg. They also visited the Mariner's Museum at Newport News. Thank you very much for joining in with us; I hope to be with you again next week. Your reporter, Shirley Hamberry.

"What to Do With Garden Now" Told Kempstville Garden Club

The Kempstville Garden Club met with Mrs. B. R. Middleton on Wednesday Road on Monday, April 25, at 8 p. m. Mrs. Chester Bamforth was co-hostess.

Principal speaker for the evening was Mrs. E. O. Middleton, who spoke on the theme "What to Do With Your Garden Now."

The club voted to donate $5.00 to the Kempstville Volunteer Fire Department toward the purchase of a new ambulance.

Mrs. Calvin Lilley, Mrs. B. R. Middleton and Mrs. Bamforth were appointed to make arrangements for the annual luncheon in June.

Courses made by the members were judged by Mrs. Frederick Volker and Mrs. E. R. Burroughs of the Acredale Garden Club. Ribbons were awarded Mrs. W. H. Crews, Mrs. R. P. Andrews, Mrs. B. R. Middleton, Mrs. W. A. Stallings, Mrs. Bamforth, Mrs. P. A. Davis, Mrs. Roy J. Allen, Mrs. H. F. Tyler, Mrs. Harold Fuch, Mrs. R. M. Nelson, Mrs. A. W. Blackman and Mrs. I. P. Goodwin.

Baptist Church

The Friendship Bible Class, of which Swindell Pollock is teacher, will hold an outdoor meeting on Carol Anne Farm Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock. The men and their families are invited.

The Martha Hagood Circle met with Mrs. H. A. Culpepper Tuesday night. The program had Stewardship as its theme.

The R.A.'s, G.A.'s and Sunbeams met at the church Thursday night.

"Karnival" Time At Kempstville

"Karnival" time has come at Kempstville. Saturday, May 7, is the day, and from 2 until 10 p. m. is the time.

There is something for the entire family—country store, plant sale, jewelry sale, bake sale... there will be hot dogs, hamburgers, and drinks... so that you can come visit the booths, eat your supper and be ready for the auction sale at 6:30. The auctioneer will be Dan Tice, who is well known locally in that capacity.

At 8 p. m. there will be a talent show. E. H. Brachery will be there with his dog, "Little Buttons," to show how he can walk a fine wire, climb a ladder and walk on a ball.

Tommy Brewer, who is quite an accomplished amateur magician, will also entertain.

Children who took part in the recent well-received "Variety Show" will have new songs and dance routines for the edification of the audience.

A big day is planned. The backers ask that all who can attend and add the PTA raise money so that more playground equipment can be purchased for the children at the school.

Mrs. Wm. Wells Heads Club

The Kempstville Manor Garden Club has installed Mrs. William Wells as their president. Installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. H. F. Tyler of the Kempstville Garden Club on Tuesday, April 28.

Other officers installed were Mrs. T. N. Yancey, vice president; Mrs. J. N. Kilpatrick, secretary; and Mrs. G. O. Peacock, treasurer. Mrs. Agnes Jonsson gave a very interesting talk on "Early Kempstville and Early American Gardening."

The flower arrangements were judged by Mrs. Tyler and blue ribbons awarded Mrs. Earl Dyer and Mrs. H. R. Yancey. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Murray G. Ashman, 105 White Oak Drive.

"Share the Fun" Program at Oceana Tonight

The second annual "Share the Fun" program originated by the Princess Anne 4-H All Stars will be held tonight at the Oceana Elementary School auditorium starting at 8 o'clock. Joe Perkins of WTAR-TV will emcee the program.

The show will be divided into two divisions, one division coming from the Junior 4-H Clubs in the county, the other from the Senior 4-H Clubs. There will be 19 acts coming from the Junior club members and five acts from the Senior club members. There will also be an All Star extra number which will come from the high school.

In the Senior clubs division Miss Doris Humphries and Jerry P. Hudkins, the 1954 winners, will again be competing for top honors. And in the Junior division Miss Sandra Wiseman, the 1954 Junior winner, will also again be competing. With all the talent on hand, there is expected to be a great deal of competition.

Cooperating with the All Stars in the annual "Share the Fun" program are the Princess Anne County Farm Bureau and Master Auto Service Corporation of Norfolk, who are putting up the prize money for the winning acts.

Commission Rules Uniform Hunting Season

At the April meeting of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries held in Richmond, it is decided that all hunting seasons next year will be the same for year by year. That is to say, general hunting season will be in east of the Blue Ridge November 20 and close January 20. The third Monday in November, which is the 21st, and November 20, the opening date of the Blue Ridge, falls on a Sunday, which is a rest day for that the other man will do his hunting season will open on the same day state-wide this year.

There will be no open season on deer generally, except in a few limited areas where there is special provision for better deer harvesting.

Of especial significance is the fact that the commission approved a proposal for the season beginning in 1956, there will be a uniform opening date throughout the state, which date would be the third Monday in November. If this proposal is adopted at the the uniform opening date will not, if adopted, go into effect until the season after next, which will be fall of 1956. For the coming season, the opening dates will correspond to last year.

It is also noted that the commission will grant a day off for the other man will do his job, you're not an executive.

VILIFYING OWN FATHER?

Ever since he has been distributing his paper hereabouts, Old Willie Dunn has been trying to fill space by writing about the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary party held by Clarence E. Hoback and his wife several years ago. He has tried in a sneaky way to suggest there was something wrong in their having a twenty-fifth wedding anniversary by talking about people who were in attendance. No one would expect any better of Willie Dunn, but this week, and we imagine at the direction of Dunn, himself, most of it was reprinted in a pamphlet in a message provided by Roger Malbon, the Dunn candidate for sheriff.

In this article he makes quite a play about Mr. Hoback's having served as a judge of election and his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary and the article levels considerable criticism at those who attended this party. Judging from the past we knew Malbon would stoop pretty low but we never thought he would stoop so low to publicly abuse his own father.

Clarence Hoback was appointed judge of election by Roger Malbon's father, who was a member of the electoral board and the SUN-NEWS has in its possession the picture of Roger's father attending the Hoback anniversary party. Roger Malbon wants to criticize his father in an effort to take the spotlight of truth off himself. We don't think he is the type of man the people of Princess Anne County want as their Sheriff.

But, still Roger Malbon must do what Boss Dunn says.

TELL ALL

Recently at a public meeting "Butsie" Heath, the Dunn candidate for commonwealth's attorney, admitted that he has been convicted for driving under the influence of whisky along with other convictions. This newspaper has been suggesting for sometime that Heath tell ALL, not just one or two convictions because, as it has been reported, his own turning mate said he has a record as long as your arm.

This newspaper also calls on Roger Malbon to reveal his record to the public and to advise the public who made cash contributions to him when his now associates were trying to have him removed from office for failing to do his duty.

It's time for the Dunn candidates to reveal to the public their past records.

ALMOST OUR OWN

When James O Wright was made an honorary citizen of the City of Norfolk the past Tuesday many residents here felt a degree of civic pride in the honor bestowed on Mr. Wright.

Mr. Wright can almost be claimed by Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, although he is a native of Norfolk his family is quite prominent here and while he was being honored at a luncheon in Norfolk Tuesday Mrs. Wright was the honoree here at the Beach at a luncheon at the Princess Anne Country Club.

Mr. Wright's mother, Mrs. Lina Cameron, lives here as do several other close relatives. Mr. Wright is the young executive of the Ford Motor Company, who has enjoyed a phenomenal rise in the vast automobile firm. He is at present director of purchasing for the company and resides in Detroit.

We here take pride in the success of Mr. Wright and certainly extend our congratulations to him and to his family here who must be equally proud of a local son who has made good in a big way in a big business.

MENTAL HEALTH WEEK

Virginia is observing National Mental Health Week this week and it is a time that we should devote to serious thought on the subject of mental health. It is, according to statistics, one of the nation's pressing health problems.

Mental illness among children has been on the increase to add to the plight of the nation. Only recently here in Virginia a special commission studying juvenile delinquency recommended to the State that it establish a mental hospital for children.

The problem of mental health has, in the past, been a problem that has occupied the minds and efforts of far too few of our people. It is time more of us became interested in this vital subject, not just those among us who have been affected by it.

Mental Health Week in Virginia this year will cover a three week period, according to officials of the Virginia Mental Health Association. We suggest that it cover every day of every year until this problem is brought under control. To help fight this illness effectively more of us must become interested and more of us must act to improve conditions among the mentally ill.

And Tom Little Thinks He Is A 'Friend' Of Mine ... Hal Hal

AROUND

The Cracker Barrel

An unbiased member of the audience at the recent public meeting of the "Dunn Machine" ticket in which that group played what is purported to be a telephone conversation between two "friends" came away from the meeting with his mind definitely made up to vote for the straight organization ticket in July.

This person wrote a letter to this newspaper this week in which he condemned a crowd that would stoop so low. We thought his last line was particularly good. It went something like this — "TAPEWORM WALKER'S RECORDING FAILS TO MAKE 'HIT PARADE'."

Ladiesman Leslie A. Weary, the mad who moved here from Ohio and immediately knew all the answers to our problems, was reported to have said at the recent Dunn Machine meeting that "he was sorry that he was such an ass from the North and that if anyone would give him the right of his house here he would go back to the North to join his brother, 'D'... 'Yankee.' Someone said that was a pretty good idea. In fact, he said it was the best he had heard from Leary, who means Weary.

Someone pointed out to us the other day that Roger Malbon is listed as the father of two sons in a pamphlet distributed by the Dunn Machine ticket. This same person, who is much more familiar with Malbon's background than the Cracker Barrel, immediately questioned whether Malbon is ashamed of a daughter or does he deny being the father of a daughter?

Walker's recording of a telephone conversation between himself and a "friend" has become a joke to most people, although it is a serious thing for a man to do. One person thought that the reference to stopping to take a drink in one of the statements was the origin of Walker's first name. This person thought that Walker was called "Lit" for obvious reasons.

One of the best slogans we have heard recently comes to us from an organization supporter. He says the organization candidates will win the election hands down. He says they are running on their own record, not a "tape" record.

We would like to ask Willie Dunn a question. We feel it is only fair to ask him just one question since he is always asking questions. Willie, have you ever visited Mrs. "Blackie" Saleeby?

It is a well known fact that Willie Dunn and his family were once on very friendly terms with Mr. and Mrs. Whitey Howard. This is the same Whitey Howard that Dunn is constantly attacking in his newspaper. We wonder if Dunn ever thinks back to the kindnesses these people rendered his family in the past.

"Butsie" Heath is very proud of his drinking record by his own admission. He admits to being arrested and convicted for driving under the influence and says he is not ashamed of it. Wouldn't he be a commonwealth's attorney?

Heath is such a four flusher even the newspaper reporters can't tell his moods. They can't tell if he is crying or if he is angry.

Ever since Lit Walker stooped to recording a telephone conversation with a "friend," the saying goes that the telephone does not have a "telephone receiver," but a telephone "Discorder."

This really happened. A man with several yards of gay paper streamer ambling down the street was brought into court and charged with being intoxicated. The officer explained to the judge that he knew the man was intoxicated, knowing the streamer as evidence. The judge felt it was just a way of celebrating the New Year. The policeman agreed, but said when he asked the man what he was doing carrying it down the street he told him he was taking it home to play on his tape recorder. No, it was not Lit Walker.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
 SUGGESTED "BANNER"
 April 29, 1955

The Editor,
 Sun-News,
 Virginia Beach, Va.
 Dear Sir:
 I went to the political meeting of the Ticket for Princess Anne last night with an open mind. I left the meeting with the definite decision that I would vote the straight organization ticket in July.

If I were to write a rebuttal article to the farce I witnessed last night at the High School my "banner" or lead line would read: "TAPEWORM WALKER'S RECORDING FAILS TO MAKE 'HIT PARADE'."

A Reader

ARRESTED DEVELOPMENT?
 Editor,
 Sun-News,
 Virginia Beach, Va.

Dear Sir:
 Well, well, well — what would they think of next? Now Willie Dunn and his cohorts have even added electronic snappers to their staff. It would seem that tape recorders should get a lot of free publicity out of this drivel and I'll just bet that the people who make records won't take it lying down, either!

Seriously, though, this business of the phone conversation between Walker and Little tops even the infamous charges hurled at Judge Floyd Kellam. Willie and his boys are getting so well versed in histrionic ability I expect to hear any day that the whole cast will receive an offer to play on Broadway... SRO of course. Take it! You'll enjoy longer careers, boys! There'll be more money in it, too!

The recording of the purported telephone conversation between Mr. Walker and Mr. Little played at the high school last Thursday night fell flat on its face to anyone attending the meeting with an unbiased mind, and it was apparent to the recording itself that there was no way anything that would be detrimental to the organization or its followers. It is now a matter of record that it was merely used to enable Willie and his boys to distort facts and read in meanings to release to the press. However, all was not lost by this action. It clearly shows, without a shadow of a doubt, that Mr. Walker (like all of Willie's boys) will just as quickly knife a bosom friend in the back as he'd down a glass of monkey. Is that why his nickname's "Litry"?

Friends are more valuable than money in the bank. This is proved every day. Apparently Mr. Walker prefers not to have friends and to have money in the bank (and funds, of course). His methods show that even his own friends cannot trust him and yet he expects US to trust him with hundreds of thousands of dollars of our money. This is too one-

Trailways Tour Visits Dixie's Own Cape Cod

Although it may be denied in Provincetown, America has a baby Cape Cod and Dixie is the owner.

A "new" and "decidedly different" Trailways vacation tour will visit gala Virginia Beach, the unsolved mystery of lost Colony and the unspoiled outer banks of North Carolina. Along this strip of golden sand and lonely barrier of islands of this Eastern Shore Area are found stimulating recreational opportunities and rewarding experiences in history and nature. Many a seaman has been shaken by its wildness but comparatively few travelers have visited it because nature blocked all but the adventuresome.

The outer banks mean Kitty Hawk of Wright Brother's fame; Fort Raleigh and the waterside theatre production of Paul Green's "Lost Colony"; Jockey Ridge and the highest sand dunes in the East; Cape Hatteras, proud owner of the tallest lighthouse in America with grapefruit and orange trees within its sights.

Ocracoke is the island of Blackbeard the Pirate and the land of storied shipwrecking, sea shells galore and wild ponies. Here you're far away from everything commonplace — No licenses for automobiles, no police, no jails and no telephones. Life on this unique island moves by the tides and not by the clock: Here the sea, sand and sky come together — unspoiled.

Trailways eight day independent tours will operate daily except Sundays — June 8 through September 3rd — At a cost of $44.97 per person, which includes round trip motor coach transportation, accommodations at first class hotels, sightseeing by "Jeep", admission to lost Colony drama, all Federal, State and City taxes.

Your first day will take you to Norfolk, via the New Jersey turnpike and the Chesapeake

Miss Joyce Fulton Graduates Smith College in June

Miss Joyce Palmer Fulton, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Robert F. Fulton of 307 Chewink Court, Birdneck Point, will be among the 431 members of the Smith College class of 1955 who will be candidates for the bachelor of arts degree at the 77th commencement exercises at Smith College, Northampton, Mass. on Monday, June 6.

Adial Stevenson, lawyer, former governor of Illinois and 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, will be the 1955 commencement speaker.

These exercises will climax a weekend of commencement activities which will begin with the 1955 class supper on Thursday, June 2, and include the traditional Ivy Day ceremonies on Saturday, June 4, and the baccalaureate service for seniors on Sunday, June 5.

Miss Fulton, who has graduated from the Putney School in Putney, Vt., is taking the honors program in history at Smith College and is on the dean's list.

She has been chairman of the curriculum committee, an undergraduate group which acts as liaison between the faculty and students dealing with matters concerning courses of study.

Active in athletics, Miss Fulton has been a member of Life Guards, a group of precision swimmers who present water ballets and serve as lifeguards at the college pool, and in her junior year received the Smith Blazer award, given for participation on four All-Smith teams. She has also been a member of the Debate Club and Gold Key, an honorary association of student guides who conduct visitors about the campus.

Miss Fulton was recently honored by the award of an "S" pin, presented to members of the senior class by the Athletic Association on the basis of scholarship, sportsmanship, leadership and superior character.

Community Park Is Dedicated

The Ocean Park Woman's Club held a dedication ceremony of their Lockhaven Community Park, Sunday May 1st at 4:00 P. M. The park is situated on a quiet, lovely site overlooking Lynnhaven Inlet. The park is as yet in a dream stage but it is the hope of the club that in the near future it will become a reality. This project was started by the club a couple of years ago. As of today the park consists of a concrete area with concrete bench and table and fire place, for picnics.

In the future the club is planning on providing swings, slides, tennis court, skating rink and basketball court, as soon as funds are available.

A parade led by the club president, Mrs. R. G. Holloman and guest speaker, Judge Floyd Kellam, of the Circuit Court of Princess Anne County, followed by Girl Scouts from Troop 202, sponsored by the Woman's Club of Ocean Park; and Browale troop 225, also sponsored by the club; and a band of boys and girls of the community furnished music. They were followed by the Fire Trucks, Jeep and Ambulance of the Ocean Park Fire Department. The parade circled around the community and went on to the park where they disbanded.

At the start of the dedication ceremony the Girl Scouts led the pledge of allegiance, this was followed by the Star Spangled Banner. Judge Kellam gave a talk dedicating the park. He emphasized that the park was for the children and youth of the community. He congratulated the club on what they were doing in making a better community for children to be brought up in. He said there were three things that should be guarded with zealous care: First the home - which is the place where our children are reared. Second the church and Sunday School where the spiritual upbringing of our children is in the hands of capable people. Third - the schools where they are educated and spend so much of their time. He also said the club has an opportunity to build and strengthen community spirit and if they do we will have a brighter and safer community.

Judge Kellam, assisted by Mrs. Holloman cut the ribbon leading to the park. Hot dogs, barbecue, and soft drinks were sold to the many adults and children who helped to celebrate the dedication.

The Diamond Springs Homemakers will meet May 17th at the home of Mrs. Lynne Brunnenmeyer on Argonne Drive. Lieut. and Mrs. M. Ladner had a baby daughter born April 18th at the Portsmouth Naval Hospital.

Local Sports Fans to Witness Offshoot and Baring Golf Shots

Saturday, May 14, is the day for sports fans in the Virginia Beach area. Paul Hahn, international famous golf showman and trick shot artist from the Elmhurst Village Country Club at Ormond Beach, Fla., will appear at 4 p. m. on that day at the Pinecrest Golf Range.

Consisting of thirty (30) trick shots with a serious golf clinic and a line of rapid-fire jokes in his one-hour show, Hahn will give local sports fans a look at some of the most difficult and daring shots of all time.

Spots include driving golf balls from ten up to three feet high, the "triple pendulum" shot in which he hits three swiping balls with a driver, each sailing 250 yards down the fairway, hitting four balls at once, two go up (Hahn catches them before they hit the ground) and two go out down the fairway. His toughest shot is driving a dozen balls, with a club in each hand, alternating left and right handed shots and not stopping as he goes down the line of balls.

For relaxation, Hahn cracks out a few sitting down, a few more while kneeling and even stands on a sports seat, on one foot, and drives a ball off a three-foot tee over 200 yards.

Camera fans are invited to bring their lens boxes out and have a field day photographing Hahn's antics.

Non-golfers will enjoy the performance as well as the enthusiasm. Since the entire exhibition is done from one spot, there will be no walking for the gallery's comfortable enjoyment.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dill of Carolina Avenue have as their guests for several days Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McMahon, of Westfield, N. Y.

Fund Appeal Being Made For Hermitage

It is the annual custom of the 1280 Methodist churches in the Virginia Conference to take a special offering for Hermitage, the home for the aged, which belongs to the conference and is located at 1600 Westwood Avenue, Richmond. An appeal to the 600 pastors to lead in this effort has gone out from Bishop Paul Neff Garber, resident bishop of the Richmond area.

Two dormitories are under construction at the home, the cost of which will be nearly one million dollars when finished and furnished. The buildings are now about one-third complete and the construction work is progressing rapidly. There are now 77 men and women in the home, but the capacity will be 250 when this additional dormitory space is ready for use. In addition to 147 bedrooms there will be a dozen rooms for occupational and physical therapy, providing an outlet for activity for those interested in ceramics, weaving, sewing, handicraft, art and other hobbies. Each floor will have a spacious solarium for lounging and social visiting.

Chevrolet "Turbo-Fire V8"!

This is the engine that's writing a whole new chapter in the book of automobile performance records. This is the engine that has stock car timers doing a "double take" at their stop-watches wherever experts gather to compare the abilities of the 1955 cars.

For example, in the recent NASCAR stock car competition at Daytona Beach, Florida, Chevrolet literally ran away from every other car in its class - and a raft of others besides. In the one-mile straightaway run for low-priced cars, the first two places - and six of the first ten - went to Chevrolets. And in acceleration runs from a standing start against all comers, Chevrolet beat all other low-priced cars - and every high-priced car except one!

What's behind this blazing performance? A compact honey of a V8 that only the world's leading producer of valve-in-head engines can build. Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry (that means less piston travel... longer engine life!) And it delivers the highest power per pound of any V8 in the low-priced field. It's so efficient that it requires only four quarts of oil instead of the usual five... needs less radiator coolant, too. It's the most modern V8 under anybody's hood!

It puts a new kind of fun in your driving life. You're in charge of 162 high-spirited horsepower - or if you're looking for even more excitement, the new "Super Turbo-Fire V8" (optional at extra cost) puts 180 h.p. under your toe!

Pick the one you'd rather have fun with, then come in and get behind the wheel. You'll see why the Motorama Chevrolet is showing its heels to everyone else on the road!

No other low-priced car has any - no high-priced car has all - of these great Chevrolet features!

Body by Fisher - Nine engine-drive choices in any model - 12-volt electrical system - Anti-Dive braking - Outrigger rear springs - Ball-Race steering - High-Level ventilation - Double-Arch cowl construction.

1000-foot Fishing Pier Announced For Park; Work to Begin Soon

Plans for the construction of a fishing pier which would extend 1,000 feet into Chesapeake Bay, from the Ocean View Amusement Park, were announced this week by Dr. Dudley Cooper, president of the Ocean View Improvement Corporation.

Dr. Cooper said that construction on the pier will begin as soon as necessary clearance has been received from the Norfolk District office of the Army Engineers and the city.

The proposed pier will be located at the foot of the Hammett Parkway, Ocean View. It will extend from the beach owned by the corporation and the Bay Front Associates.

According to plans submitted to the Army Engineers, the pier will be of pile and timber construction and twelve feet wide, extending 1,000 feet into the bay. The head of the pier will be in the form of a "T" with three "finger piers" provided at the off-shore end. Architectural engineers for the structure are Tubien McGaughey and Associates.

Bath House Opened

The Ocean View Amusement Park has opened its bath house for the new season due to the large crowd on hand last week. It will be open on a daily schedule beginning at 9 a. m.

Special Program for Mother's Day

Mother's Day will be observed at the park with an entertainment program and prize competition at 2:30 p. m. on the outdoor stage. There will be cash prizes for the oldest and youngest mothers.

COLONY RESTAURANT
"BEST AT BEACH"

"The person who told us your food was the best on the Beach knew exactly what they were talking about," said Esther Jolly, of Salem, Virginia, after a recent meal at the Colony Restaurant on Atlantic Ave. in the Jefferson Hotel building.

This patron's remark is typical of many who have discovered the enjoyment and fine food to be had at the Colony. (ADV.)

thers present, the mother with the most children, and the most attractive mother between the ages of 20 and 35 years. Mrs. Thelma Gaba will be mistress of ceremonies.

The program will be preceded by the free circus act, Pat and Tanya, who do a high perch act 137 feet above the ground, without the benefit of safety devices. This team will give its final matinee performance the day following Mother's Day.

Lions Club Has Special Program

A special Mother's Day program was held by the Ocean View Lions Club on Monday of this week. Wives and mothers were guests at an annual dinner.

A nominating committee was named to submit a slate of officers for consideration at the next meeting. Serving on this committee are Bill Herman, Herb Pittress and H. B. Barba.

New Officials Are Named By Methodists

Newly elected trustees, named at the Quarterly Conference of the Methodist Church on Friday evening, April 29, were Dr. Walter L. Taylor and Aubrey Holmes. H. E. Savage, chairman of the Board of Trustees, was re-elected at the session.

Fifteen new stewards were also named at the final quarterly meeting of the church year. They are: William Ferrell, Reid F. Digges, Jr., Dr. Leslie B. Gore, Russell S. Marshall, Sr., Edmund W. Creekmore, Emmett W. Fogle, John Glover, Oscar K. Mahon, Dr. T. Roy Jarrett, Andrew T. Moore, C. H. Nelms, William J. Robshaw, Dempsey Wallace, Mrs. Leonard H. Barrell and Mrs. Ada Wilson.

Named to the commission on finance were: J. W. Wood, C. Hall Snellings, William H. Darden, E. W. Smith, William Ferrell and Clyde F. Hill, Sr.

Mrs. J. C. Lindsey was elected to the commission on education and to the commission on membership and evangelism, Vernon Tillet, Comdr. E. S. Friedrick, Comdr. M. C. McClanahan and Mrs. J. E. Wright.

Aubrey Holmes was re-elected superintendent of the Church School with Ben Wroton and Richard M. Dillon as assistants.

Divisional superintendents for the coming year are to Mrs. E. L. Applegate, Mrs. Mahlon P. Dempewolf, young people, and Richard F. Dyer, adults.

B & PW Club
Elects Delegates

The 34th annual convention of the Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., convene at Hotel Jefferson, Richmond, May 6 for a three-day session. The convention sessions will be presided over by the State president, Mrs. Mary S. Etter, of Waynesboro. National representative will be Miss Marjorie Rawall, of Washington, D. C., president of the National Federation, who will be the speaker at a formal banquet in the ballroom of the Jefferson on Saturday evening.

Miss Irma Bell, newly-elected president of the Princess Anne club, will represent the local club on the state board of directors, and Miss Ruth Newell on the nominating committee.

Delegates from the local group include, besides Miss Newell, Mrs. M. F. Strickler, Mrs. Mabel Strohm, Mrs. Mark White, Mrs. Agnes Mabry and Mrs. Clyde Gayle. Elected alternates are Mrs. Virginia Holland, Mrs. Jack Gibbs, Miss Margaret Yeoman, Miss Helen Gresham and Miss Jewell Whitlock.

Some minds are like concrete: All mixed up and permanently set.

most interesting since it brought out step-by-step progress of the Council, particularly in its beautification of the Atlantic Parkway and 31st Street entrance. There are now 10,000 plants, trees and shrubs along the parkway. Before the undertaking by the Council of Garden Clubs it was such an unsightly area with car tracks and an accumulation of rubbish and in such an unattractive condition that it had become known as "Garbage Gulch." Since the "face lifting" and transformation by the Council it has become known as the world's largest garden club project, consisting of 47 blocks, beginning at the Cavalier and going all the way to Fort Story. Visitors to the Beach may now look forward to seeing a roadside beautification program that is unprecedented and has no parallel in Virginia, truly one of the major attractions of the Old Dominion.

Mrs. Tilbrook stressed the importance of each club having a beautification project and pointed out the beauty of dogwood trees in this vicinity.

Committee chairmen will be announced at a later date.

Concert Assn.
Preparing For New Season

The Civic Concert Association, sponsored by the Virginia Beach Music Club, has just completed the series of three concerts by artists from the National Music Association of New York. With the enthusiastic reception and success of these concerts the members of the Music Club feel that music lovers here want more of these fine artists.

Beginning at once, the membership drive for the sale of tickets for the 1955-56 season is getting under way. Letters with subscription blanks will be mailed to all former subscribers and prospective new members.

Mrs. Roland Thorp, of 201 78th Street, is in charge of the advance ticket sale, and is now receiving checks for next season's series. No single tickets are to be sold, only memberships for the whole series of three concerts, at $5.50, tax included.

Plans are being made now to select the finest musicians for the second season and these choices will be announced as soon as arrangements and dates can be completed.

VIRGINIA:
At the regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County, in the Supervisors' room of the Clerk's Office, on May 23, 1955, at 10 o'clock A. M., persons will be heard for or against the following proposed ordinance:

AN ORDINANCE FOR THE ISSUANCE AND REVOCATION OF PERMITS FOR CLUBS AND OTHER PLACES OF RECREATION OR AMUSEMENTS, PRESCRIBED LICENSES, FEES THEREFOR REGULATING THE INSPECTION OF SUCH ESTABLISHMENTS, AND ENFORCEMENT OF THIS ORDINANCE, AND THE FIXING OF PENALTIES.

BE IT ORDAINED by the County of Princess Anne, as follows:

Section 1—Definition: A club within the meaning and application of this ordinance shall include any room or place operated by any person, corporation, or association, voluntary, cooperative, or otherwise, to which the membership or guests of such club, or the public in general, may resort for recreation or amusement, except places licensed by the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board to sell, store, keep or possess alcoholic beverages.

Section 11—Permit required: It shall be unlawful for any person, association, or corporation, or the officers, agents and employees of any person, firm, or corporation, to maintain, conduct or operate any club in the County of Princess Anne, without first obtaining a permit from the Planning Commission, so to do, by and with the approval of the Board of Supervisors.

Section 111—Application for

such permit: Any person, association, or corporation desiring such permit, shall make application therefor to the Planning Commission of Princess Anne County, on a form to be prescribed by said commission, which application shall state the name of the club, the location where the same shall be maintained, conducted or operated, the name and address of all persons interested in the ownership thereof, if privately owned, and the names and addresses of all officers and or trustees thereof, if owned by a non-incorporated association, the purpose for which such club is organized, the name and address of the person who will be in actual charge of the operation thereof, and such other pertinent information as the Planning Commission may require. The Commission will not issue such permit without the concurrent approval of the Board of Supervisors. All applicants shall tender with said applications a certified or cashiers check in the amount of $500.00 dollars, payable to the order of the County of Princess Anne County for said permit, which said permit shall expire on the 31st day of December, of the year of which said permit is issued. No part of said license fee shall be pro-rated or refunded in any case.

Section IV—Investigation: Grant or Refusal of permit: Transfer of permit: The Planning Commission of Princess Anne County shall promptly investigate the facts stated in such application, and if it shall appear to it that such club is to be maintained and conducted for a lawful purpose, that the person who will be in actual charge of the operation thereof, is of good moral character and a proper person to operate the same, and that the operation of such club will not disturb or tend to disturb the public peace, and that the same will be operated at a location permitted by the Zoning Ordinance of Princess Anne County, the Commission shall grant the permit, and if it shall appear to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Princess Anne, otherwise, it shall refuse the same. Any such permit shall not be transferable.

Section V—Permit conditioned upon right of entry by police: Any person who shall obtain such permit, shall be deemed to have consented, for himself, his officers, employees, and members, as one of the conditions of its issuance, that the club may be entered and inspected at any and all times, when open to its members or patrons, or by the Police Department, without the procurement of any special or other warrant therefor, for the purpose of ascertaining whether such club is being maintained, conducted and operated in a manner permitted by the ordinance of Princess Anne County, or in violation thereof.

Section VI—Unlawful to operate behind barred doors: It shall be unlawful for any person, association or corporation, or the officers, agents and employees of any person, association or corporation, in the County of Princess Anne, to operate any such place described in Paragraph 1 of this Ordinance, with barred or locked doors.

Section VII—Suspension or Revocation of permit: The Planning Commission of Princess Anne County, after due hearing, and upon not less than 5 (five) days notice in writing to the permittee, such notice to be sent by registered letter to the address given by the permittee on the application for such permit, which shall constitute sufficient notice on the premises, may suspend for such length of time as it may deem proper, or revoke, any permit issued hereunder, for the following causes:

a. Fraud or misrepresentation in the procurement of such permit.

b. A final conviction after the issuance of any such permit, of the permittee, or of the officers, agents, or employees of the permittee, or any member or guest of such club, as described in Paragraph 1, of a violation of any Federal or State statute or ordinance of the County relating to

SOCIETY DOINGS IN VIRGINIA BEACH AND PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY

Mary Alexander Becomes Bride Of Anthony Konstant Saturday

The marriage of Miss Mary Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander, of Virginia Beach, to Anthony N. Konstant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Konstant, of Baltimore, took place Saturday afternoon at five o'clock at the Greek Orthodox Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Hadjilampros. The church was decorated with palms, aisle vases of white gladioli and lighted candles. Miss Nikki Forch, of Norfolk, played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of satin and lace styled with Empire lace bodice, trimmed in sequins, long sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion was arranged from a seed pearl tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis.

Miss Catherine Alexander, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of blush pink Val lace and white, long sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion was arranged from a seed pearl tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis.

Miss Joan Konstant, of Bel Air, Maryland, cousin of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. She wore a ballerina length gown of light blue Val lace and tulle with a matching headpiece like that of the honor attendant. She carried a cascade bouquet of pale pink roses and ivy leaves.

Miss Paula Ann Spero, of Baltimore, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a white organza dress with a pink sash. Louis Fano was best man and the groomsmen were Ansel Alexander of Virginia Beach, brother of the bride; James Paris, of Baltimore, cousin of the bridegroom; and Stanley Feldman, also of Baltimore.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Sir Walter Hotel, Virginia Beach. Later Mr. and Mrs. Konstant left for a wedding trip. They will reside in Baltimore. The bride chose for traveling a navy blue and white checked suit with white coat and hat and navy accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage.

BOSTON MACARONI BAKE

The lively flavors of frankfurters, onion and mustard combining in Boston Macaroni Bake to make a budget-balancing main dish with blue ribbon taste-appeal.

to find a prominent place on every homemaker's market list. Macaroni, spaghetti and noodles are such foods, so be sure to keep a supply of each on your kitchen shelves.

BOSTON MACARONI BAKE

(Makes Four Servings)

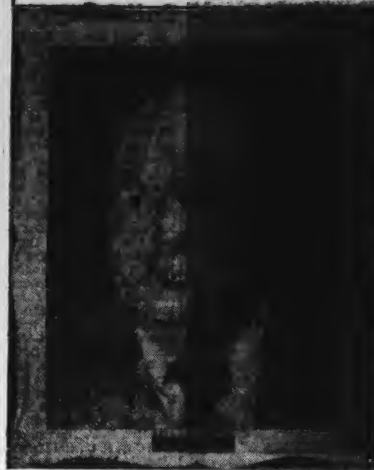

4 oz. elbow macaroni
3 tablespoons fat or drippings
1-2 pound sliced frankfurters — about four
1-4 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley
3 tablespoons enriched flour
3-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-3-4 cups milk
1 cup shredded American cheese — one-fourth pound
1-2 teaspoon prepared mustard
Buttered bread crumbs

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender (about 8 minutes). Drain and rinse. While macaroni is cooking, melt fat or drippings in heavy skillet. Add frankfurters, onion and parsley and brown slightly. Stir in flour, salt and paprika. Add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add cheese and mustard and mix until well blended. Fold in the macaroni. Pour into 1-2 quart casserole and sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 30 minutes.

And why not "devil" some eggs? They make a pretty-as-a-picture garnish for macaroni casseroles. Bye, now...

Craftsmanship in Wool

This portrait of Sir Winston Churchill, made entirely from wool carpet, has been presented to the Prime Minister by British carpet-makers. It was hand-woven by J. C. S. Varney of London in honor of Sir Winston's 80th birthday. By using high quality worsted carpet yarns in a wide range of colors, Mr. Varney was able to create the wool portrait without resorting to dyeing or shading.

Doctor Advises: Walk on Wood

Save your feet, walk on wood. That's the advice of Dr. William J. Stickel, one of the nation's leading chiropodists, who praises wood floors as a walking surface because of their resiliency. The extra bounce in wood, Dr. Stickel reports, helps to cushion the shock transmitted to the skeletal system when walking. He explains that walking on wood helps tone up the nerves and muscles of the feet, and points out that many of our physical disorders begin with our feet. Our feet act as shock absorbers for the rest of our body. Dr. Stickel offers this advice on how to walk: Your toes should point straight ahead, but it's all right to walk slightly pigeon-toed if that feels more natural.

NEW RACKET

In Richmond, an out-of-state pedestrian was accosted by a woman in a type of khaki uniform (Richmond police wear khaki) and "fined" for jaywalking. Police officers, of course, cannot convict nor collect fines. The importer was not located.

GARDEN GUIDE

By BARTOW H. BRIDGES, JR.

SPRING GARDEN CHORES

Now that our azalea season is almost over, there is a job that should be done. It is often neglected by gardeners, but azaleas will benefit quite a bit. With a pair of hedge clippers, trim off ends of the branches. This does three things: first, it removes the dead flowers and the unattractive calyx and immature seed pod; second, it prevents the formation of seeds, and third, the plant develops a more compact and attractive type of growth because of the pruning.

Preventing formation of seeds is probably the most important reason to trim azaleas. Much of the strength of the plant is utilized to form the seeds, so by reducing the number of immature seed pods through trimming, the azaleas will grow more vigorously. The better wholesale azalea nurseries trim their plants when the flower buds are just forming so that the plant does not bloom at all. This prevents some of the strength of the plant to be used for flowering and the consequent seeds. Of course, when the wholesale nurseryman decides to sell a portion of his azaleas in the spring, he leaves the buds on so they will bloom and help sell the plant.

Other Plants

Other plants in the Virginia Beach area that might need attention at this time of the year are Euonymus and Gardenias. Check the stems of Euonymus for Euonymus scale. It is an insect with a scale covering over its body about 1-16 inch long and is pale gray. Another insect pest that is just beginning to be active again is the Gardenia white fly. It is also about 1-16 inch long and is white. It hatches from eggs on the underside of Gardenia leaves and the small egg shells remain on the leaves for some time afterwards, so that even if the insect cannot be seen, if small, translucent, circular deposits are seen on the leaves, it can be assumed that a white fly is peering at you from behind a stem.

The Euonymus scale sucks plant sap from branches and the Gardenia white fly partially drains the leaves of their food and water. Both cause their hosts to look weak and unattractive if the infestation is severe. Gardenia white fly is responsible for the black soot that often is found on Gardenia leaves. When the insects are feeding, the plant produces the soot deposit to repel the insects. However, nature's control in this case is not effective.

The better way is to spray with insecticides recommended for the purpose. Both the Gardenia and Euonymus should be sprayed 3 or 4 times a year during the warm months to keep the pests under control.

$4.00 per 100-pound sacks of No. 1 grade.

Heavy supplies of snap beans after May 20 will probably bring price declines to $1.75 to $2.25 per bushel.

Good quality sweet potatoes are short in demand. Expect to pay or sell for around $5.00 per bushel.

Strawberry prices should drop to $6.50 for crates of 24 quarts of U. S. No. 1 by the end of the month as the quality of the crop declines.

Maxton says that vegetables should recover generally from the freeze by late May, and you can look for the supply situation to be on the heavy side after that.

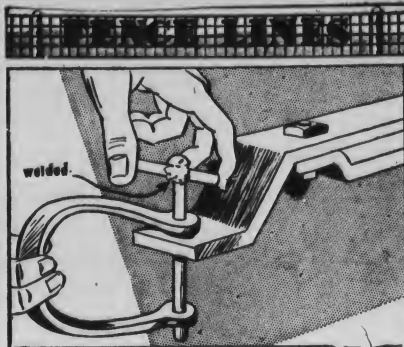

Use Reflective Lighting On Farm Equipment

If there's a chance you'll be driving or towing equipment on the highway after dark, be sure it is adequately lighted at the rear, say officials of the Virginia Rural Safety Council.

The Council urges that farmers equip unlighted machines with reflective materials to supplement regular lighting provided by the equipment manufacturers.

Many serious and sometimes fatal accidents occur when fast-moving trucks or automobiles crash into the rear of slow-moving tractors or equipment. Reflective materials on the rear of this equipment can prevent these unnecessary tragedies.

In Virginia, 4-H and FFA members have been given the opportunity of selling the reflective materials. They will be contacting farmers this month, and will apply the material when bought.

Turkey Situation Deemed Critical for Producers

It looks rough ahead for turkey producers.

Another warning of possible downturns in the market comes from Dr. R. J. Krueger, associate agricultural economist at VPI.

Virginia is the third largest turkey-producing state in the nation, and her markets substantially affect the rest.

Dr. Krueger's tip is to watch the situation carefully as the season progresses. Unless production prospects change, Virginia turkey producers stand to lose money.

Pea Aphid Damage Still Reported Heavy

Severe damage to alfalfa fields throughout Virginia from the pea aphid still holds the spotlight in the insect world.

Arthur P. Morris, associate entomologist at VPI, says the pea aphids are teaming up with such insects as the alfalfa weevil and clover leaf weevil to make heavy inroads on the state's alfalfa plantings.

Stands have been reduced and growth delayed or stopped. The alfalfa crop suffered from the late freeze and in many cases plant diseases have further complicated the problem. This office can give details on control.

Vaccine in Drinking Water Satisfactory for Chickens

Newcastle disease can be prevented satisfactorily by placing vaccine in drinking water for young chicks.

The researchers suggest using the regular intramuscular vaccine in one quart of water for every 100 chicks when the chicks are from 4 to 10 days old. The directions of the manufacturer should be followed carefully.

Home Demonstration Clubs Will Have Bake Sales Friday, Saturday

The County Committee of the Princess Anne Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs met on Monday, April 18, at 10 a. m. at the Agricultural Building, with the president, Mrs. Thomas C. Hunter, presiding.

Mrs. R. W. Couch lead the devotional by reading a poem entitled "Dreaming." Mrs. Deal announced that with the addition of the Lakeview Park Club, a newly organized club, the Princess Anne County group now boasts 19 Home Demonstration clubs.

The amount of profit realized from a recent serving of lunches at the Tidewater Bird Dog Association Field Trials at Roanoke was reported to be $52.

It was agreed on by the members to discontinue the Harvest Festival this year. Instead, a bake sale will be held on Friday, May 6 and Saturday, May 7, by each club in the county in their respective areas. This is being done at this time in connection with National Home Demonstration Week, which is from the 2nd thru the 7th of May. Various television and radio programs are featuring the club theme this week, telling and showing what members of these clubs do in Princess Anne County as well as all over the nation.

The 19 clubs in Princess Anne County have a membership of 461. County Federation is a member of District No. 1 Federation, and of the National Home Demonstration Council, which is a member of the international organization called Associated Country Women of the World. Home demonstration work is a part of the Cooperative Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Land Grant College which passes on to the people knowledge gained thru research. It is a part of the largest adult educational system in the world.

Achievement Night
Mrs. R. W. Couch, Achievement Night chairman, announced members on this committee with her will be Mrs. Ashville W. McClanahan, Mrs. Finley C. Paxton, Mrs. N. B. Perry, Mrs. B. L. Brickhouse, Mrs. J. B. Yon, and Mrs. F. C. Mote. The committee will meet May 9 to make tentative plans for the Achievement Night program, which will be held this fall.

Mrs. A. W. McClanahan told about the community center which the Pungo club is working hard to get under way. She asked the moral support of all the clubs on this project, and their cooperation by attending a barbecue supper the club will serve to the general public on May 14 from 5 until 8 p.m.

SAVE EXCESS FORAGE IN EARLY GRASS

Excess forage saved early in the growing season will come in handy next winter. VPI agronomists advise. Silage or hay saved in this manner also may help to provide feed during dry summer weather when pastures are short.

There is generally plenty of pasture in May and early June, since most forage plants make half their yield in the first two months of the growing season.

at the Agricultural Building at Princess Anne Court House.

Residents in all sections of the county are asked to patronize the bake sale in their area tomorrow or Saturday, and do their share in helping celebrate National Home Demonstration Week by purchasing some delicious home-baked goodies.

COMMERCIAL and INDUSTRIAL BUSINESS REVIEW SECTION

"Automation" Magic Word Of Today, Used In Home Building

"Automation" has become a magic word in American industry.

Because of automation many factories are rapidly becoming push-button operations. Because of automation there's talk of a 36-hour work week and a guaranteed annual wage.

Even the home-building industry is borrowing tricks from the assembly lines of industry in order to reduce construction costs. More and more materials are arriving at the construction site cut to size. Cutting and fitting has been done many miles from the home site in a factory or mill where the job could be done more accurately and more economically.

Advancement of the modular principle of home construction has helped increase automation in home construction. Under the modular principle which calls for all home dimensions to be divisible by four, much material can be assembled before it reaches the home site. Thus the builder gets the advantage of mass production and mechanization. The home buyer gets a lower-priced product of higher quality.

Many modern building materials are cheaper to use than old type materials, not because they lack quality, but because they have been made in a factory with precision machinery. Machines have done the work instead of hands.

In this category of materials belong products like insulating siding, insulating sheathing, exterior and interior gypsum board.

dry-wall plaster, panels, and the many hardboard and insulation board panels used for interior finishing.

These materials come in lightweight panels that are easy to handle and they go into place quickly. Moreover, many of them do several building jobs at once. Insulating siding, for example, insulates the sidewall, strengthens it, decorates and helps reduce noise.

Insulating siding is made with precision machinery according to specifications set up by the American Society for Testing Materials and according to procedures specified by the Federal Housing Administration. It's a good example of what results when the principles of "automation" are adapted to modern home construction.

Import-Export Trade on Gain

Virginia ports gained a whopping 10.9% in import-export trade during 1954 as compared with the previous year, while the nation as a whole dropped 7%, according to figures released by the Virginia State Ports Authority.

Tonnage figures for 1954 show that Virginia ports moved a total of 18,209,183 tons, as compared with 16,425,475 during 1953. The nation's total for 1954 was 197,854,150 tons, while 1953 was 223,000 was moved in and out of the country during 1953.

Exterminating Co. Boasts Long and Enviably Record

The world's human population would look small, indeed, if compared to the number of termites, powder post beetles and other insect pests exterminated by the Tidewater Termite Exterminating Company since they opened for business back in 1934.

And hundreds of homes would look different, too, had this company's trained experts not rid the premises of these undermining pests. Homes that still proudly stand four-square would lean and tilt with sagging beams and pithy joints had these folks gone to work.

The old saying that "you never miss the water 'til the well runs dry" has a parallel in that you may never suspect termites at their destructive work until the house starts to sag. To prevent such occurrences, Tidewater Termite sends its experts out at your request to look your property over — before the foundations begin to give way.

J. B. Rose, company manager, estimates that this free inspection service has saved thousands of dollars for home owners by stopping damage before it reaches the dangerous stage.

"It costs only from $85 to $125 to rid the average home of termites and their ilk," Mr. Rose says, "and, what with our five-year guarantee, this has prevented many, many expensive reinforcing and foundation replacement jobs, which run into the big money."

Food And Raw Materials Reserve Resolution May Aid Free Nations

What may prove to be a historical document was introduced in the Senate recently in the form of a Senate resolution, which would authorize the President and our international representatives to negotiate a plan with other free nations setting up an International Food and Raw Material Reserve.

Such a plan is designed to eliminate agricultural and other commodity surplus in all countries; to prevent fluctuations in prices; to permit full scale and abundant production; to eliminate quotas and acreage allowances; to provide food, clothing and other essentials in have-not countries; to strengthen democracy; to prevent famines and starvation; to provide adequate methods of distribution and purchase of foods and other raw resources to tens of millions of people; to provide for orderly marketing of national surpluses; to prevent agricultural depressions; to demonstrate the ability of the free world nations to work together for betterment of life.

Springfield Avenue, and can be easily reached by telephone, day or night, by calling Norfolk, KI 5-5611.

Measures is Bi-Partisan

The resolution was introduced by 23 senators from agricultural states, headed by Senator Murray of Montana, and is known as Senate Resolution 86. It is bi-partisan in nature.

Authors of the plan go back some 3,500 years in world history for the precedent of such an organization — to the time when Joseph warned King Pharaoh that a time of famine and scarcity was coming and urged him to buy up all the surplus food crops against an emergency. At the time, the warehouses and storage bins of Egypt were bulging with grains and other surplus crops.

So the Biblical story goes on that Pharaoh did buy, for seven years, an annual 20 per cent surplus of the land and stored them away, that they were used to feed the peoples of Egypt when the lean years came, and the surplus placed were divided and sold to the peoples of foreign lands.

Senator Murray says of such an international reserve: "It will provide a continuously stabilizing factor in international raw material markets. Through the administrative machinery of the reserve, the stabilized prices of each raw material that enters importantly into international trade would be negotiated and agreed upon. The reserve could thereafter stand ready at all times to buy those raw materials at an agreed upon price and would stand ready to sell such commodities when they rose above the agreed upon stabilized price. The reserve would thus reduce the extreme ups and downs in both domestic and international markets to the benefit of the raw materials producing nations and consumers as well."

"HYDE'S MY NAME"
Georgetown, in Washington, D. C., is a quaint village within the city which has been restored in many sectors and reflects a complete architectural history of the colonial days. Typical of the restorations is the "Hyde House," built in 1798 by a merchant who wrote: "Hyde's my name and hides I buy; be wet and be dry." Some 20 coats of paint were removed from the brick to restore it to its original condition.

STRAIGHT TALK

Jesus said: "Swear not at all; ye shall be as your communication be. Yea, say, nay, . . ." When He forbade swearing He did not refer to cursing. He meant that His disciples' devotion to the truth should be so unquestioned that their simple statement would carry its own credence. When they said a certain thing was a certain way, everybody should know that was the way it was.

In those days things were far different. Cheating was the daily practice. Lies were in the air men breathed. When truth was really essential, therefore, the speaker would call God to witness and express the hope that if his words did not prove true, his house might burn to the ground and his children be afflicted with demonic insanity. This oriental practice survives in the case of children who feel free to lie if they have crossed their fingers and did not prove true, his house might burn to the ground and his children be afflicted with demonic insanity. This oriental practice survives in the case of children who feel free to lie if they have crossed their fingers and did not prove true, his house might burn to the ground and his children be afflicted with demonic insanity.

Jesus had no use for this folklore. He insisted that the simple affirmation or negation should be enough.

Doctors and Truth

Obviously, truth is an important commodity. If people could not be trusted business would come to a standstill and society would break down. But should one always tell the truth? I recently read an article by a physician: "Should a Doctor Tell the Truth?" Not always, is the answer. There are times when the full truth might be harmful to the patient. Cancer patients, for example, may lose any hope of recovery in the terror they experience when they are told of their condition. There is no doubt something in this doctor's point of view. On the other hand, I have dealt with many persons who were convinced they had cancer but really didn't have it at all. They had heard that people weren't told about it if they had the disease. Hence, they suspected their doctors were holding out on them.

It is a knotty question. To tell the entire truth at a given moment may not be advisable. Yet any deviation from the truth is dangerous. The result of lying is always the collapse of confidence.

Should preachers tell the truth? Of course they should. Yet the whole truth may be very unpleasant and people do not want to hear what is unpleasant. If you tell the whole truth it may make them mad. This can be a good thing if they don't get too mad. You want them to follow up their anger with change, but if they never get beyond the anger stage, nothing has been achieved.

Should politicians tell the truth? It's getting a little tougher now. Campaign oratory is essential to politicians and in its fulsome play truth is apt to suffer. Yet politicians, too, can find worthy counsel in these words: "Let your communication be Yea, yea; Nay, nay, for whatever is more than this is of evil."

Every Day Deceptions
There are numerous little deceptions that are practiced every day. Some of them seem innocuous, others not. When asked to play bridge a woman may say: "Oh, I'm stupid at cards." Then she plays with all the sharpness of a professional. Or the man who laughs apologetically when golf is mentioned and says he can't hit his hat. Then he goes out and throws a 78 at you. It was something like this that prompted converts in the old revels to tell lurid stories about their past unrepentant lives. The man who always talks about the hypocrites in the church is, of course, trying to hide his own meanness by pointing out the shortcomings of others.

It is important that we face the facts about ourselves as John Wesley did in his daily periods of self-examination. It is more important, still, that we arrive at truth within ourselves. "Thou desirest inward truth," said the Psalmist. Well, we can all start with this: "Swear not at all. Let your communication be Yea, yea; Nay, nay, for whatever is more than this is of evil."

SPITE HOUSE
Many things have been done out of spite—including the building of a house. Among the fascinating sights in Washington, D. C., is the "Spite House" in quaint old Georgetown. A resolute gentleman built the 11-foot wide house in order to cut off a neighbor's sunlight. It was once occupied by Dr. Pearson, but he did not build it.

Tomorrow, May 6, is May Fellowship Day. This is one of three days sponsored by the United Council of Church Women. May Fellowship points up the need for a more united church and shows what it can do, beginning in the local community.

By REV. ERNEST K. EMURIAN
STORIES OF BEST-LOVED HYMNS

GOD MOVES IN A MYSTERIOUS WAY

"To the river, driver," ordered William Cowper as he entered the carriage.

"The river?" asked the driver, as he picked up the reins. "Where and why?"

"Anywhere along the river bank," answered the deranged poet. "God has ordered me to take my own life, and I prefer to drown myself rather than hang myself."

"Did you say God ordered you to take your own life?" the driver asked, as he headed for the Quae River, three miles away.

"Yes," replied the confused lawyer. "God hates me. You see, I am not one of God's elect. And because I have not been elected to salvation I am to be eternally damned. And as my punishment God has ordered me to slay myself."

The driver quickly realized the unbalanced condition of his passenger's mind and breathed a prayer of thanks when a sudden fog enveloped the area. "This will help," he said to himself as he purposely "lost his way" in the dense fog. Several hours later he was still jogging up one road and down another, when he looked back and saw his passenger lying in a deep sleep. Stopping in front of the house where he had picked him up, the driver called, "Here we are, sir; here we are."

Roused from a deep slumber, Cowper stepped from the carriage, paid his fare, turned toward the house and said, "We're back home. How is that?"

"What lost in the fog, sir. Sorry."

"Where did I order you to go?"

"To the river, sir, so you could take your life because you said God told you to," replied the relieved driver.

"Then God be praised for having spared me," Cowper said. "God be thanked for having overruled my foolish designs. I must have been in one of my melancholic moods, but I'm all right now, thanks to His great mercy."

Dismissing the carriage he went into his home. That same evening in 1774, his 43rd year, reflecting upon his narrow escape from death, he wrote an autobiographical hymn which contained these majestic lines:

God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants His footsteps in the sea
And rides upon the storm.

Cowper (1731-1800) spent the last 25 years of his life convinced that God "was determined to betray him at every turn in this life and to torture him eternally in the next."

The death of his mother when he was but six was quite a shock. Then, entering an English boarding school when still a young lad he was subjected to severe hazing and ill treatment at the hands of older boys. Because of what his biographers call "an intimate deformity" he was mauled and mistreated to such a degree that the madness which haunted his later years may be traced to this source.

At 21 he entered the legal profession, and was nominated for a clerkship in the British House of Lords. The strain and worry accompanying the examination for this appointment so unnerved him that he suffered the first of a series of fits of insanity. He bought poison but could not take it; he purchased a large knife but was afraid to plunge it into his heart; he hung himself but the garter broke! There followed 18 months in an asylum, where he suffered from the delusion that God "had it in for him" and was wreaking His vengeance upon him in a peculiar way.

At 33 he gained his senses long enough to experience a Christian conversion, and the consciousness of forgiven sin. A visit from a brother during his confinement to St. Alban's asylum, led to his conversion, and inspired him to write "O for a closer walk with God." When his only romance terminated almost before it began, only the friendship of Rev. John Newton kept him from taking his life. The two men worked together on their "Cinque Hymns" and its publication, with outstanding contributions from them both, was a landmark in the history of Christian hymnody.

The last decade of his life was plagued with more "haunting visions and strange voices" until he cried out in desperation, "Wretch! To whom death and life are alike impossible!"

From his earlier years came his majestic hymns and from the lucid hours of his declining years such outstanding poems as "The Task" and "John Gilpin," as well as thousands of "eloquent cheerful letters." While he felt that God had damned him "below Judas Iscariot," the Heavenly Father, in love and tender mercy, took him back to Himself in 1800. And his hymns, written from a tortured mind and confused soul, now are a source of comfort and strength to millions of others such as was denied their author.

YOUR CLOTHES WASHER DOES ITS BEST...

When you have automatic ELECTRIC WATER HEATING

A WEARY HOUSEWIFE once said that it takes such a long time to cook a dinner and such a little while to eat it. The same reasoning applies to the weekly wash.

ALL THOSE SHIRTS, children's clothes, table linens, bath towels, blouses . . . so fresh and clean last week, are ready to be washed, dried and ironed over again.

YOU KNOW YOUR ELECTRIC WASHER does its best work when there's plenty of clean, hot water ready and waiting. With an Electric Hot Water Heater there is a never-failing source of supply . . . and four gallons cost but a penny. So see your Electric Appliance Dealer or Merchant Plumber NOW!

THEY DON'T FORGET HER

How dear she is to her sons and daughters and her grandchildren. On this, her birthday, they don't forget her. These flowers are just a token, but in each blossom there is love.

She it was who taught them their first words... and their first prayers. She it was to whom they came with their childhood hurts. She it was who stood ready to console them when everything had gone wrong. She it was who taught them how essential religion is to a happy life—how vital it is that they belong to and take part in the activities of a church. On her birthday they remember all of this anew. Men and women now, they are living their own lives and accomplishing their own successes. But the great truths she taught them about faith, hope, gratitude, love and forgiveness will remain with them forever.

Grandmother has indeed made a great contribution to their lives. Little wonder each week in church they say a special prayer in her memory.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

West Point's "Long Gray Line" Is Heart-Line Of All America

The United States Military Academy at West Point is little more than 150 years old, although West Point itself has been a military post since 1778. The story of West Point's recent history, half a century of it, is heart-warming, told by four-time Academy Award director John Ford in his spectacular new film, "The Long Gray Line," starring Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara in Cinemascope and color by Technicolor. Filmed almost entirely on location at West Point, the Columbia picture, which comes to the Beach Theatre next Wednesday for a four-day showing, is based on the true-life drama of a retired Army sergeant, one Marty Maher, who served as athletic trainer and as friend to generations of cadets.

In telling his unforgettable true-as-life story, Mr. Ford found room for such major and minor moments of history as the Army-Notre Dame game of 1913, when an unknown named Knute Rockne "bombed" the Army to defeat with his surprising new tactic, the forward pass; the graduation of the Class of 1915, which included a cadet who was to become President of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and the Sunday morning chapel service at which the Corps of Cadets learned that, at that very moment, the Japanese were staging their "sneak attack" on Pearl Harbor.

Robert Francis, Donald Crisp, Ward Bond, Betty Palmer, and Phil Carey star with Power and Miss O'Hara in the picture. The first steam schooner built, and put into service on the West Coast is said to have been the SS Beba, hauling lumber, machinery, food and mail between Oregon and California.

MOTHER'S DAY CARDS

SUNDAY, MAY 8th

Down the Line with Johnny Bell

So much pleasure costs so little!

There is someone, somewhere, whose whole day would be brightened just by an unexpected telephone call from you. Wherever that special person may be, your Long Distance call can be put through quickly, easily, and at less cost than you might imagine. And right now is the perfect time to do it!

Pulling together!

Long before today's tractor was thought of, the "team" did the heavy work around the farm. And hard-working animals, trained to pull together, were cherished by the farmer. Co-operation was all-important, if any chores were to be done at all. Co-operation is all-important, too, on your party-line telephone. When you think of the other fellow, and try to remember little things like hanging up properly after each call, then service gets better and faster all along the line.

Long Gray Line

Tyrone Power plays a non-com at West Point in John Ford's "The Long Gray Line," which comes to the Beach Theatre for a four-day run beginning next Wednesday. The Columbia production also stars Maureen O'Hara and is in color and Cinemascope.

Rehabilitation Program Gains Momentum

A seven-point attack on the problem of rehabilitating and discharging long-term patients so they may return more quickly to community life as useful citizens is gaining momentum in Veterans Administration hospitals.

No problem arises from the fact that the number of veteran patients with chronic disabilities has been increasing in recent years, resulting in more "frozen" beds for long periods of time. These patients are older World War I veterans.

VA said it is attempting to meet this problem by assigning local treatment with the following programs:

- (1) Medical rehabilitation of the "whole man" so he will be ready physically and mentally to leave the hospital.
- (2) Vocational counseling to determine what job he may fill successfully when finally out of the hospital.
- (3) Trial visits outside of the hospital to determine whether he is ready again for community life.
- (4) Foster care in a home other than his own where he can adjust himself to community living as a stepping stone to independence.
- (5) Work experience in the hospital as part of his medical treatment so he may develop work skills or acquire work experience in preparation for outside employment.
- (6) Arrangements for home nursing care for the eligible veteran so he may leave the hospital earlier.
- (7) "Day" or "night" hospital for the patient who still needs hospitalization but who may leave the hospital during the day to look for work or who may leave the hospital at night to stay at home.

The medical rehabilitation program is directed not only to the prescribed treatment of a patient's disability but also to restore him to productive living in the community. By using all components of physical medicine and rehabilitation (physical, occupational, educational, corrective and manual arts therapies), the patient is helped to overcome his disabilities and to make use of his capabilities.

Wildlife Essay Scholarship Rules Clarified

A number of queries have been received by the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries and the Virginia Division of the Isaac Walton League, co-sponsors of the eighth annual Wildlife Essay Contest, as to whether the $400 college scholarship to be awarded the senior high school winner must be used at a Virginia college.

William C. Kellner, chairman of the contest, has explained that while it is intended for use at an educational institution within the state, if the winning student has elected a major field of study which is not available in the curriculum of a Virginia college, the scholarship may be used at a suitable institution out of the state.

The final phase of the judging is about to start and the Governor will make the presentation of awards to top winners in grade 5 through 12 during special ceremonies at the Capitol on May 20.

TEMPERATURES

Lowest temperature recorded in the United States was at Riverside Ranger Station, Yellowstone National Park, February 9, 1933, when the mercury fell to 66 below zero. The highest temperature was at Greenland Ranch, Death Valley, Cal., July 10, 1913, when it soared to 134 degrees.

Commissions In Navy Offered College Women

This year's women college graduates, members of the junior class and past graduates have again been offered the opportunity of obtaining commissions as WAVES officers in the United States Navy.

Through the officer candidate program for women, the Navy is provided annually with a group of trained officers who are capable of leading large groups of women in event of mobilization.

Senior students and college graduates who apply for and are accepted in the program will be ordered to Newport, R. I., for 8 weeks of officer candidate training. Upon completion, they will be commissioned Reserve officers with the rank of ensign, and will undergo eight additional weeks of officer training at Newport.

Juniors who enter the program will be required to take the officer candidate training during their summer vacation. They will return to school in the fall and will be commissioned ensign upon graduation from college. They will then be ordered to Newport for their officer training.

Commissions are offered to women in both the general line and Supply Corps. Supply officers receive five months of training at Athens, Ga.

The WAVES officers will be required to spend 24 months on active duty following their commissioning. They will be assigned duties inside the continental United States.

Further information concerning the program may be obtained by contacting the nearest Naval recruiters or Officer Procurement office.

2nd Annual Teen-Age Road-e-o Will Be Held At Beach Saturday

Plans to conduct the second annual Teen-Age Driving Road-e-o at the Surf Club parking lot on Saturday, May 7 at 9:30 a. m. have been completed by the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Road-e-o will consist of a written examination and a skill test involving driving through prescribed exercises such as parking, smooth stopping and others.

The local winner in this National Teen-Age Road-e-o will be eligible to compete in the state Road-e-o on June 11 in Roanoke. State winners compete for $3,000 in scholarships in a national contest July 25-29 in Washington, D. C.

Seaside Park Opens May 28

Seaside Park, popular amusement center at Virginia Beach, will launch its 1955 season on Saturday, May 28, with a gigantic fireworks display.

Carpenters, painters and various ride mechanics have been working all winter in preparation for the re-opening. Many physical changes are planned and also two new rides are being ready for the area at the present time. One of the new rides has already been placed in position at the corner of the park at 31st Street and Atlantic Avenue. It will occupy the former site of the carpet golf, which is being eliminated this season.

There are 70 parking overlooks on the Skyline Drive.

Dignitaries From Various Oriental Countries May Be Guests at 1st Annual Lotus Festival Here in July

If all goes well, dignitaries from various Oriental countries will be interspersed among the honored guests at the first annual Lotus Festival to be staged at Virginia Beach July 22-29.

Festival week will coincide with the annual blooming period of the wild American Lotus which blooms in great profusion in a large marsh area less than a mile inland from nearby Sand Bridge.

The Lotus Festival, to be sponsored by the year-old Cape Henry Woman's Club, is designed to conserve the unusual lotus garden, perhaps the largest remaining growth of its kind in America.

The Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce is lending a hand in arranging the festival program, which will be climaxed with a Lotus Ball at the Surf Club on the night of July 29.

A diversity of other events, including the selection and crowning of a Lotus Queen and periodic excursions to the gardens, will be interspersed on the eight-day program.

James L. Kitchen, Chamber president, sees no reason why the festival should not attract flower fanciers from all over the nation. On invitation will be extended to diplomats of Far Eastern countries, many of which hold the lotus in high reverence.

Mrs. Cecil H. Reed, club historian, who is serving as general chairman of the festival, is convinced after a year's research, that the gardens contain the last substantial growth of the American Yellow Lotus in the country.

The Cape Henry Woman's Club has interested State Conservation authorities in perpetuating the lotus to the point that a transplanting project will be undertaken later this year.

Hospital Day Being Observed

The staff of Virginia Beach Hospital will observe National Hospital Day — May 12 with special exhibits for members of the "Future Nurses' Club" of Princess Anne High School.

The "Future Nurses' Club" is composed of students from the eighth grade and High School who are interested in the profession of nursing as a career.

Exhibits will be prepared by the Nurses of the Hospital in the following departments: X-Ray, Laboratory, Operating Room, Emergency and Diet Kitchen.

A moving picture "Career, Medical Education" will be presented at the Virginia Beach High School by Joseph Killen and Mrs. Peggy White, Technologists at Virginia Beach Hospital with the hope of interesting High School students in the career of Laboratory Technology.

Miss Alstock, Superintendent of the Hospital, announced that the nursing staff will be pleased to receive any visitors and acquaint them with the facilities of the Hospital.

Mrs. A. T. Moore Elected to Head Garden Club

At the May meeting of the Bay Colony Garden Club Mrs. A. T. Moore was elected to the office of president for the coming year.

Other officers chosen were: Mrs. L. O. Clark, Jr. first vice-president; Mrs. James Van Loon, second vice-president; Mrs. Harold Ritter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Gilliam, recording secretary; and Mrs. Emma Fogle, treasurer.

Mrs. Louis Guy introduced Mrs. Gilmore Tibbott, president of the Virginia Beach Chapter of Garden Clubs, who gave a talk on the progress of the Bay Colony Garden Club along with some new ideas for the club for the coming year.

The newly-elected officers will be installed at the club's annual luncheon meeting in June. At this meeting all members will wear hats made of or decorated with flowers.

Mrs. Carl Forberg and Mrs. Preston Hix judged the modern and miniature arrangements exhibited by members. The following ribbons were awarded:

Mrs. A. T. Moore, gold; Mrs. Henry Euler, Mrs. William Tibbott, Mrs. R. C. O. and Mrs. E. H. Henn, blue; Mrs. Hail Snellings and Mrs. William Womack, red; Mrs. Nere Day and Mrs. John Matthews, yellow.

Honors for the meeting were Mrs. Tignor, Mrs. Snellings and Mrs. Fogle.

Local Chapter Stresses Need for Work Among State's Mentally Ill

Those interested in mental health are convinced that too few people have concerned themselves with the problem in the past, and they are calling attention to that fact this week and the next two weeks as the nation observes Mental Health Week.

The need for caring for the mentally ill has been particularly great in Virginia and it has been only in recent years that vigorous steps have been taken to relieve the situation.

Only recently a special state committee making a study of juvenile delinquency came up with the recommendation that the State Capital Outlay Study Commission give top priority to the allocation of funds to establish a mental hospital for children.

As one person who is interested in mental health pointed out, one out of every ten children born in the United States will, at some time during his life, need treatment for a mental disorder.

While chapters have yearly planned special programs to spotlight the problem during Mental Health Week, the Norfolk-Princess Anne Chapter of the Virginia Mental Health Association has constantly fought for more state (Continued on Page Two)

Cavalier Garden Club Gets National Award

The Cavalier Garden Club has received a national award for their Christmas flower show "Christmas All Thru The House," according to an announcement made by Mrs. James H. Adams at the annual meeting of the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs held in Roanoke last Friday.

The Cavalier Club will hold its final meeting of the year on Monday, May 16, at the Sir Walter Hotel. Luncheon will precede the meeting.

Junior Women Seek to Re-stock Welfare Bank

The Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County will collect used clothing all this week thru Sunday 15th, to restock the "Welfare Bank". Mrs. James Johnson of the committee has announced.

Clothing of all kinds and bed linens are needed. However, children's clothing in all sizes are especially needed.

Please check your clothes while storing your winter things and bringing out your summer apparel. The bank needs all those discarded and out-grown clothes. All clothes should be clean and in good wearing condition.

All churches in the county and Virginia Beach will have containers for the clothing brought to the church on Sunday 15th. All Super markets have containers also for donations made during the week. Any other contributions made will be picked up by calling: Mrs. James Johnson - 1807, Mrs. John Dennis - 3977, Mrs. James Batchelor - 2732-M, for the Va. Beach and County Area.

Mrs. E. Larsen - 2749-J, will arrange pickup of donations for the Oceana Area.

The club urges you to help! Today! The Welfare Bank is low!

Johnson Warns Of Inspections; Asks Cooperation

Chief of Police Reeves E. Johnson today issued this warning and invited Virginia Beach motorists to cooperate with the statewide inspection program to put the city's automobiles in good mechanical condition.

The official vehicle maintenance program is being conducted for passenger cars from May 1 through June 15. "A motorist has no more right to drive a mechanically unsafe car than he has to walk down the street brandishing a loaded revolver," the chief said. "In fact," he continued, "the unsafe car could be the greater menace, since its lethal nature is less obvious." Johnson pointed out that the alibi, "I didn't know my brakes were in such bad shape," doesn't excuse a fatal automobile crash any more than the alibi, "I didn't know the gun was loaded," excuses a fatal shooting.

"It's every driver's duty to know exactly what condition his automobile is in, and there's no excuse for ignorance on this point," Johnson said.

According to Chief Johnson a driver should check his car constantly for the more obvious danger points. This is easy and simple, he said. A quick walk around the car can show if the lights are working. The windshield wiper, the horn and the mirror can be checked from the driver's seat. A brief examination of his tires will disclose excessive wear. Loss of brake efficiency shows up in ordinary driving.

But no driver, the Chief said, should be satisfied with these surface checks. He should have his car checked regularly by a qualified mechanic. On these checks Johnson said the following: (Continued on Page Seven)

Impressive Cast Will be Seen in "Father of Bride"

Playing the title role in "Father of the Bride," the comedy by Caroline Franko, based on the novel by Edward Streeter, which will be presented by the Virginia Beach Little Theatre May 23-24. Comdr. Andrew Reid, known to the theatre as Andy, continues an interest in amateur theatricals begun during college days. He has worked with the Little Theatre in Monterey, California, and in Pensacola, Florida.

Where he played in "Night of January 16th." At the Quonset Point Little Theatre he appeared in the Footloose Musical Review, and with his wife Madeline, who plays the mother of the bride, he organized the Little Theatre at Quantico Bay. Among the plays in which he appeared at Quantico Bay was "Aren't We Old Lads," which wife Madeline directed, and in which he played the role of Teddy. Reid has a definite flair for comedy, which he is given ample opportunity to demonstrate in "Father of the Bride."

Madeline Reid, in the role of Mother, has an impressive background of experience. As a sergeant in the Army during the war, she played in the Maxwell Field Recruiting Show, touring the southern states. She has played with the Norfolk Little Theatre in "Trial of Mary Dugan," the Pensacola Little Theatre in "Twin Beds," "Stage Door," and a number of one-act plays, with the Monterey Little Theatre, and with Don Totheroh's Wharf Theatre in Monterey, California. With the Quonset Point Little Theatre she directed such shows as "Fumed Oak," and "Ladies in Retirement." This is the third show in which Andy and Madeline Reid have appeared together.

"Father of the Bride," directed by Mr. Arthur Mastury, is a riotous comedy about the ups and downs of the Banks family during the preparations for the marriage of May Banks. The bride, played by Pat Wade, will be authentically dressed by Cynthia Lee, Bridal Consultant of the Bride's Shop, Rice's.

One-half proceeds from the advance sale of tickets will go to the Virginia Beach High School PTA for its annual scholarship award of $200.00. Tickets may be purchased from members of the PTA, at the High School and at Jar's, 25th and Atlantic.

Mrs. H. A. Hedley Honored by Club

The Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club elected Mrs. H. A. Hedley, of Lake Bradford Drive, its outstanding club woman of the year at a meeting Tuesday at the Chesapeake Beach Community Center.

Mrs. Hedley was cited for her work in the community but especially for her work in the Girl Scout organization. During the club's youth program, she is assistant chairman of the Princess Anne District of Girl Scouts, a volunteer trainer in Girl Scout Leader's program, training chairman of the Virginia Tidewater Area Council of Girl Scouts, and among other activities, leader of Girl Scout Troop 202 for the past (Continued on Page Two)

FOUR CANDIDATES TO BE HEARD TONIGHT AT ORGANIZATION RALLY

Beach Youth Dies In Car Crash

Nineteen year old Allen Lee Cason, of 212 Fifth Street, Virginia Beach, was dead on arrival at the Virginia Beach hospital late Monday night as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Camp Pendleton.

Young Cason was a passenger in a car driven by Donnie Von Allen, a member of the Armed Forces. According to investigating police Von Allen lost control of the automobile and crashed into a utility pole.

Von Allen suffered minor bruises about the face and body. Leo Allen, of Virginia Beach, another passenger, is in the Virginia Beach hospital with leg and hip injuries. His condition is reported as fine.

Cason was a native of Virginia Beach and attended Oceana and Virginia Beach High Schools. He was a member of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church.

Surviving are his parents, Clifton S. and Mrs. Sadie Allen Cason; three brothers, Clifton W. Cason, USAF; Ronald Rue Cason and Aubrey W. Cason, of Virginia Beach.

Funeral services will be conducted today at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church by the Reverend C. Stanley Lowill, pastor. Burial will be in the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Norfolk.

The following winners have been announced in the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored Road-e-o contest held May 7 at the Surf Beach Club: First Place—James D. Hage, Jr.; Second Place—Julian Lee Perry; Third Place—Robert George Ross.

The first place winner received a $25 savings bond and the second place winner received a car's award.

Beach Host To Trade Meeting October 12-13

The Virginia World Trade Conference will be held this year at Virginia Beach on October 12-13. That was the decision yesterday of the World Trade Committee of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

One of the State Chamber's big annual undertakings, the event brings together foreign and domestic trade representatives from throughout the country.

Troop 61 Takes Camporee Honor

Boy Scout Troop 61, of Virginia Beach, demonstrated its progress at the Camporee recently held at the May Farm on Little Neck Road in a competition of 41 patrols from throughout Princess Anne County.

Patrols were judged on camping, cooking, pack, uniforms, appearance, leadership, discipline, etc. Patrol scores were:

Panther Patrol, Billy Cox, patrol leader, score 440 points, blue ribbon first award.

The Honor Court honored Larry Reece of 408 52nd Street, senior patrol leader, with the Star Scout award last night. It was announced by Harvey D. Patterson, Jr., scoutmaster.

Motorists Are Urged to Have Cars Inspected in Advance of Deadline

With the opening of the official spring motor vehicle inspection May 1, Captain R. B. King, State Police Officer, again urged motorists not to wait until the last minute before presenting their vehicles for inspection.

"We have approximately 2,000 official stations and 5,000 certified mechanics to do the job," he said, "but even these will not be enough to take care of the owners who usually jam the stations during the last few days of the period."

Passenger cars will be inspected until midnight June 15, and trucks during the entire month of July. Captain King was emphatic in that there could be no extension of the period in either case. Persons driving motor vehicles without the new red sticker after their deadline will be subject to arrest.

The reverse of the sticker will bear a message in keeping with the national "Slow Down and Live" program directed against speeding and other hazardous moving violations in accordance with a proclamation signed by Governor Stanley and the other 47 Chief Executives. This will

The first public meeting sponsored by Organization candidates is scheduled for tonight in the Virginia Beach High School auditorium and in rest is running high among followers of the group.

The battle for offices in the county will be decided in the Democratic primary to be held on July 12th and anti-organization candidates have held several public meetings.

Opponents of the organization have attacked the group from several angles but have not touched on the qualifications of the candidates, themselves. The first anti-organization attack was leveled at Princess Anne County Circuit Court Judge Floyd E. Keam.

Late the anti group made public a purported recorded telephone conversation between one of its candidates, L. B. Walker, who is running for treasurer, and Thomas F. Little, a Virginia Beach realtor. These attacks have gained widespread publicity in the press, but its value to the opposition group has been questioned in many quarters.

Tonight's meeting gives promise of retaliation by the Organization forces and all four candidates for constitutional offices are listed to speak. Indications are that the 517-arat school auditorium will be filled to capacity and that the meeting will be a standing room only affair.

In addition to the four organizational candidates, E. Almer Adams of the Eastern Shore, who is seeking nomination for clerk of the court, will speak on the platform. Also on the platform are V. A. "Doc" Etheridge, candidate for treasurer; Ivan D. Mann, candidate for commissioner of the revenue; John E. Marr, candidate for sheriff; and Robert S. "Bob" Watson, Jr., candidate for commonwealth's attorney.

Pre-School Meeting

A pre-school clinic and registration for children who will enter the Wiltonway T. C. School next September, will be held on Monday, May 16, from 10:30 to 12:00 o'clock.

The clinic is for all children due to enter the school at the beginning of the fall term, that is, who will be six years old or over on or before October 1.

Appointments will be made on May 16, for the pre-school clinic held on May 18-19.

Miss E. M. Robinson, public health nurse, will be on duty at the school May 18-19 to give immunizations or booster shots to those who need them before they start school in the fall.

Restaurateurs To Meet in Norfolk

Some 300 restaurant owners, managers, employees and other food service operators in Tidewater Virginia are expected to meet in Norfolk for the district meeting of the Virginia Restaurant Association on Monday and Tuesday. Sessions of the meeting will be held during the afternoons of both days at 2:30 p.m., with a night session at 8:00 p.m. Monday night. Headquarters for the meeting will be the Canary Room at Burrough's Granby St. Restaurant.

Headline speaker will be H. L. Worts, director of food service education for the Vulcan-Hart Manufacturing Company of Louisville. Worts will have the full program for the two day district meeting conducting a refresher course on "The Practical Side of Restaurant Operation."

The meeting is expected to be one of the largest of its kind in the State, and all food service operators, whether they are association members or not, are invited to attend. Worts is nationally known food consultant. In the past year he has appeared in 30 states and Canada to present his illustrated demonstrations to thousands of food service owners, managers and employees. He was a featured speaker at the Virginia Restaurant Association's state-wide convention at Richmond last fall.

Mr. Worts will be accompanied by the Norfolk District meeting by Archie F. Parrish, of Roanoke, president of the State Association, and Walter F. Witt, the Association Executive Vice President.

In addition to his appearances in Norfolk, Mr. Worts has accepted a special invitation to address the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne County food service operators on Tuesday night at 8:00 p.m. at the Virginia Beach High School. While Mr. Worts is in Virginia, he will present his demonstrations at Virginia Restaurant Association district meetings in Richmond, Colonial-Heights, Petersburg, Roanoke and Bristol.

IN DANCING SCHOOL RECITAL

Shown above are pupils of the Martha Carr School of Dancing who will be presented in a recital May 20 at the Virginia Beach High School sponsored by the Virginia Club of Virginia Beach. The show will be repeated on May 17 at the Shelton Park School in Haystack. Gerald Goldberg Of Beach Wins "Today" Contest

Gerald M. Goldberg of the staff of the Virginia Beach Theatre-Go-Round, has been declared the winner of the Dave Garroway "Today" contest which concluded April 28 under the sponsorship of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and television station WVEC of Hampton.

Goldberg's letter, which dealt with the many historic shrines, naval population, the mammoth port of Hampton Roads, and the wonderful sun and bathing at Virginia Beach, was climaxed in his closing statement: "Tidewater is the Old and New Dominion, the grand heritage and the bright future that symbolize America."

J. Leo Hoarty, chairman of the judging committee, also announced the second place winner to be William M. Snider of 404 22nd Street, and third place winner Billie Dawley, of London Station.

Goldberg received a $100 savings bond on a television program at 12 noon Tuesday, which was broadcast over WVEC-TV. At the same time all other winners in the Tidewater area representing Norfolk, Portsmouth, Hampton and Newport News, also received their awards. The winning letter from each vicinity has been forwarded to Dave Garroway in New York for his judging and the winning Tidewater entry will receive a vacation for two and appear on the "Today" television show. Second and third place winners received $50 and $25 savings bonds.

VMI Glee Club Sings in Norfolk

The Virginia Military Institute Glee Club will return to Norfolk for a concert at 8 P. M. at Blair Auditorium.

In the 75 men unit are John O. Trafton, III of Virginia Beach, Don W. Cuthrell, Jr. of Virginia Beach and Richmond and Harry E. Bennett of Haystack.

The group, conducted by Colonel Herbert Nash, Dillard, sings almost every type of choral music. It's repertoire ranging from operatic and oratorio choruses, to folk songs, popular numbers, musical comedy selections, operetta, spirituals and school songs.

In February the club was invited to perform at the annual banquet of the Radio and Television Correspondents Association in honor of President Eisenhower, who greeted each member personally and complimented the ensemble. The President has requested a repeat performance in the Fall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Leslie Richardson will have as their guests for the week end, their nephew, Donald W. Cuthrell, Jr. and six of his fellow cadets, who will sing in concert with the V. M. I. Glee Club on Saturday in Norfolk.

On Friday, May 13th the Defra Tri Hi Y will sponsor a Bermuda Hop in the School Gym from 8 to 11. The admission is 25c per person. The dance is being given to raise money to send a boy to the Y.M.C.A. Day Camp for two weeks.

The Defra Tri Hi Y was organized this year the girls are learning to take their places in the school and community. They hope to do even more next year in their organization.

OPEN HOUSE AT LOCAL HOTEL

The Martha Washington Hotel and Apartments will hold an open house next Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 5 P. M. It has been announced by J. Wenley Gardner, president.

Letters have been mailed out to local as well as out of town guests. The open house is being given to give the guests an opportunity to observe the improvements made during the winter to the hotel and particularly the new all-weather air-conditioning equipment.

Careful creel counts show that less than 10% of all anglers catch practically all trout taken.

Oceans to Hold Pre-school Clinic Tuesday, May 17

The Oceana Elementary School will hold its pre-school clinic for all prospective first graders on Tuesday, May 17, at 1 p. m. in the school auditorium.

To be eligible for enrollment in September, each child's sixth birthday must occur on or before October 1, 1955. Members of the school PTA will assist the nurses and doctors. Children may be vaccinated for small pox, given tracheotomy for diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus, in addition to receiving a physical examination. Each child attending the clinic will also complete his registration.

ANSWERS NEEDED

In the past this newspaper has asked many questions of Roger Malbon, the "Dunn Machine" candidate for sheriff, but all of the past questions remain unanswered. We have asked these questions in the public's interest and we believe they should be answered in that same interest.

Since Roger Malbon has refused to answer these questions, we, and the public, must assume that to answer them honestly and truthfully would place Malbon in an unfavorable light. This we feel to be true and we believe the public agrees with that conclusion.

However, we will again give Sheriff Malbon an opportunity to answer these questions and we repeat herewith a few that must be answered and must be answered truthfully:

1. Who made cash contributions to Malbon to help defray legal expenses when his now associates attempted to have him removed from office?
2. Was he not driving a borrowed automobile when he "missed" the road and wrecked the car against a tree? And, did he not have someone else sign as the driver of that car to take the blame off himself?
3. Whether he or his close associate, Frank Dixon, ever "gave" or sold to "Spot" Ferguson, one roulette wheel?
4. Whether or not A. E. "Speed" Fantress moved a cottage for him for which he would normally charge $1800 and whether or not he (Malbon) paid him, and if not why not and what did he (Malbon) expect "Speed" Fantress to do for him? Or, if "Speed" Fantress moved the cottage for he (Malbon) and his Deputy Ed Ames and if they paid him and if not, why not?
5. Whether or not the insurance company refused to pay claim after Malbon broke his leg in a bus free-for-all incident last fall and what was his condition at the time he broke his leg?

This record of Malbon's along with that of "Buts" Heath should be answered fully and at once in order that the good people of Princess Anne County can intelligently judge between these men and those who are opposing them in the July primary election.

MORE SUBTERFUGE

In an effort to confuse the county treasurer's orderly conduct of his office and to take the spotlight of truth off themselves, Willie Dunn led his four candidates by the hand last week visiting the treasurer's office at Princess Anne and demanding to see the poll tax lists at a time when the office staff and the treasurer, himself, were at their busiest.

And then, in furthering their attempt to take the spotlight off themselves they did not follow procedure in securing a writ to view the lists although one of the candidates is an attorney and should know legal procedure. This was the second time that "Buts" Heath has failed to follow legal procedure in recent weeks.

And, if there be guilt in the block payment of poll taxes of others then apparently these same "Dunn Machine" candidates are the guilty ones since it is understood one of them made the largest single payment of poll taxes last week.

Let's fight together for "WHAT IS RIGHT" instead of fighting against each other to prove "who is right."

DALE CARNEGIE

If you young men think America's best opportunities have been used up, why not try the methods of those whom you may think have got ahead of you.

Here's one: Franklin Knudsen was a bookkeeper out in Denver, Colo. that is, he was aiming to keep books but no job seemed to be coming. There were more bookkeepers in his vicinity than there were openings. Finally when he applied for the last time he was told, "Franklin, you were low in spirit, getting rather desperate."

His hopes for boss looked him over carefully and evidently saw something there. But it was not a bigger and a column of figures. When Franklin's voice had trailed off hopefully toward the last word, the Big Man said, "I can give you a job, not doing what you want, but keeping this place running. Franklin looked around. A pretty dirty place, reduce all

DALE CARNEGIE over the floor, old refuse at that; grease that could be removed only with soap and a good stiff brush, plus a lot of counteracting grease that could be found only around his elbows. But he needed money, so he took the job "until he could find what he wanted," saying to himself, "Well, whatever I do, I'm going to put my best into it."

A month later he had another job with that same firm; six men working for him. Two months after that, he was transferred to another department, at a raise in salary. A few months after that he went into another department at more money. Now he suspected what his boss was aiming at, giving him a chance to learn the business.

Twenty-eight years later he was still with the firm, happy that he had made his decision to "put his best into it." Like opportunities exist today—always will exist.

That Fellow Heath Will "Dive" In Anywhere

The Cracker Barrel

Does this sound like the "Dunn Machine" candidates present a solid front?

Roger Malbon, the candidate for sheriff, was overheard to say that "Buts" Heath, his running mate for commonwealth's attorney, would not get many votes in areas where he is known, but that he will do better in those areas where he is NOT known. What kind of a candidate is that?

In speaking of his own deputy, Ed Ames, Malbon said that he would not do very good anywhere in his bid for membership on the Democratic committee. In reflecting, however, Malbon thought Ames would do very well in Sealeck.

Someone said while Lt. Walker uses a "tapeworm" to get suckers, that Ed Ames uses "fishworms" to try to lure suckers into the Dunn camp.

The Cracker Barrel has a question for Roger Malbon: Does he still owe some money to the man he succeeded as sheriff for personally owned furniture in the home he occupies that is provided for the sheriff by Princess Anne County? We believe the sum is $36.

Although he complains about block payment of poll taxes it is understood that Roger Malbon apparently made the largest single block payment of poll taxes last week. He must think everyone is a fool, or so it would seem that is his way of thinking.

Last week when we referred to Leslie A. Weary as "Ladiesman" Weary, we hardly expected old Weary to take it so seriously. We understand he really believes he is a "Ladiesman" and, of course, we know he feels he is the savior of our prosperous county and city.

wish to express our thanks for, and appreciation of, your splendid editorial in May 5 issue of the Sun-News.

You suggest, the crusade "should cover EVERY day of EVERY year until this NUMBER ONE health problem of our nation is brought under control." You made the statement, too, in your editorial that the problem of mental health has, in the past, been a problem that has occupied the minds and efforts of far too few of our people. It is time that more of us became interested in this vital subject, not just those among us who have been affected by it. So very true! (We, individually, must have the interest of our "brother" at heart.) That is only Christian.

When the individualized fact becomes aware of the fact that mental illness respects neither person nor class; that you, or I, or the "other fellow" might, at any time, be stricken with this living death; then I am certain that we all shall "get down to brass tacks" and do something constructive in the way of working with our local group in their preventive objective plan of establishing a clinic in this locality.

The fact is that ONE out of every TWENTY persons now living will, at some time in their lives, need hospitalization for mental illness. ONE out of every TEN babies being born now is a potential mental case. The juvenile authorities of our state are crying out now for a hospital for mentally ill children who are being committed at present with mentally ill adults.

We cannot combat the problem by avoiding the issue. No cause has ever been won by "beating a hasty retreat" when the subject is broached. We need to drag out these stark realities into the limelight and face them for what they are: THE NAKED TRUTH. Then, we need to do something drastic about it all, immediately! Surely, mental health is everybody's business!

Most sincerely,
 Grace McF. Mitchell
 Treasurer, Norfolk-Princess Anne Chapter, Virginia Association for Mental Health.

587,000 Korean Vets Training

Veteran enrollments under the 3-year-old Korean GI Bill training program reached an all-time high of 587,000 in April, about 10 per cent above the previous record of December, 1954, and nearly double the figure of a year ago, Veterans Administration said.

College enrollments rose to 325,000 on April 1, after a slight winter decline. This figure surpassed by 31,000 the former peak of 294,000 veteran college students at the close of 1954.

The number of GI students in schools below college level increased to a new high of 178,000 on April 1 — 14,000 above the December, 1954, level of 164,000.

On-the-job and on-the-farm enrollments — rising fairly steadily month after month — showed larger than average increases last month.

The Korean GI training program, VA said, has been moving ahead steadily, with increases in each fall and spring.

The usual trout stream is a succession of comparatively quiet pools with wide, shallow riffles between — a pool may be very long or merely a break in faster water.

"skutlout" concerning the Organization.

I wonder why some newcomers listen to such trivial. Why do some of them not investigate both sides of the situation and then come to a decision? No, apparently some are content to go along with the rabble rousers and burn a deaf ear to the truth.

Virginia Beach was originally started as a summer resort, a place where people come to play and relax. It has now grown into a beautiful city. However, we do have with us the so-called reformers such as Willie Dunn, who apparently thrive on embarrassing their families—in my book charity begins at home. Certainly Willie Dunn lives by no such code of ethics, as a matter of fact he has NO ETHICS.

Newcomers to Virginia Beach beware of those who come calling in sheep's clothing but are really wolves.

Sincerely,
 A Newcomer

Seed Sudan Grass For Summer Pasture

Guard against the summer slump in permanent pasture production by seeding sudan grass is the tip from John F. Shoulters, associate agronomist at VPI, who warns the slump can become really serious when aggravated by dry weather, as it has been the past two years.

Sudan grass, seeded early to give grazing during July and August, is one solution to the problem. In years when regular pastures are adequate to meet grazing demands, sudan can be cut for silage or hay. Also, having a field of sudan to graze in mid-summer may make it possible to save on early cut forage, or prevent having to graze alfalfa when you need it for winter feed. Sudan is one of the crops that can help make up the losses now being suffered in the first cutting of alfalfa as a result of the late freeze, diseases and insect attacks.

Seed early on deep fertile soil. A good corn soil is a desirable soil for sudan. Seed after the soil has warmed up, usually about two weeks after the average date for planting corn in the area. Use a good variety. Sweet sudan has proved superior in Virginia. Drill or broadcast the seed at the rate of 20 to 30 pounds per acre. If soybeans are used, seed one bushel of soybeans per acre and reduce the seeding of sudan to 15 to 20 pounds.

Fertilize well. A fast growing plant such as sudan needs a good source from which it can rapidly get plant food. Use from 600 to 800 pounds per acre of a 10-10-10 fertilizer, or equivalent. Prepare a good seed bed much as you would for corn.

Sweet sudan will usually be ready for grazing in six to eight weeks. Rotational grazing will give best results. Begin grazing when the sudan is 18 inches tall and stems down to 6 to 10 inches. Let it recover to 18 inches before grazing again. When sudan is grazed properly there is little or no danger of prussic acid poisoning.

Further details are available in Leaflet No. 1, "Sweet Sudan Grass for Summer Pasture." Get your copy from this office.

Executive Mulching Bad Practice
 Mulches of straw, pine needles, buckwheat hulls, sawdust, etc. serve a useful purpose in the home grounds IF USED PROPERLY, say horticulturists at VPI.

However, when such materials are heaped around trees, shrubs, roses and other plants, there may be severe injury.

Boxwood and other shallow-rooted plants are most apt to suffer from too much mulch. Heavy mulches of leaves are especially harmful in seasons of wet weather.

About one inch of mulch is all that is needed. Spread it evenly to avoid dams which catch too much water, or ridges which shed the water away from the plants.

Virus Free Berry Plants Available

Gardeners and commercial growers in the eastern part of the United States now can buy virus-free strawberry plants in 24 varieties.

John M. Amos, associate plant pathologist at VPI, says virus-free strawberry plants were first offered to growers last year. Varieties of the 1954 virus-free list included the following recommended for Virginia: Albion, Dixieland, Pocahontas, and Tennessee. This year, the following recommended varieties have been added: Tennessee Beauty, Blakemoor and Tennessee Shipper.

Amos pointed out that most strawberries grown in this country at present are affected by viruses. In fact, no strawberry varieties known are immune to the viruses. Nursery plantings, to be safeguarded, should be isolated from other wild or cultivated strawberries by at least 3,000 feet and the plants should be dusted every two weeks until late fall with parathion, or malathion dusts, for aphid control. Aphids are blamed for carrying strawberry viruses from plant to plant.

Broad Sports Program Planned by Lynnhaven-Little Neck League

John A. Broughton was named chairman of the athletic committee of the Lynnhaven-Little Neck Civic League at its May meeting last week, and was given authority to appoint two others to serve with him in promoting sport activity among youth of the area.

This step was taken in connection with making use as quickly as possible of a 20-acre tract recently made available by the estate of R. F. Trant as a community and recreation center. It was agreed to cooperate with the Police Athletic League in the program to foster more baseball and other sports activity for county youngsters.

League to Incorporate Benjamin B. Burroughs reported on a conference held by a league committee, of which he is chairman, and R. F. Trant, Jr., regarding this land. It was suggested by Mr. Burroughs that the league be incorporated for better handling of the project and the league president, Dr. John Lippincott, was authorized to proceed with incorporation.

Some discussion was held concerning possible future annexation of Princess Anne County areas by the City of Norfolk, following a report by President Lippincott of a meeting of the Princess Anne Civic Council at which this subject was presented, and at which he represented the Lynnhaven-Little Neck league. It was decided not to take a definite stand now but to consider specific proposals as they may be brought up.

R. O. Carroll, J. A. Seaman and Henry Hunt were named on a nominating committee to draw up a list of prospective officers for the league to be voted on at the June meeting, scheduled for June 6.

Galilee Building Fund Drive Nears $250,000 Goal

The building fund drive of Galilee Episcopal Church (Bishop Tucker Memorial) reached $213,000 Monday night at its sixth report meeting. During this fifth and final week of the campaign, the canvassers will attempt to call on all those members and friends of the church who have not yet had an opportunity to contribute. The estimated cost of constructing and furnishing the new sanctuary and educational building is $250,000.

Work on the new edifice, to be erected at the corner of Pacific Avenue and 40th Street, will begin when the results of the financial canvass are known. The architect's plans are completed. The new church will be of modified colonial design, with a seating capacity of approximately five hundred.

Local Company Has TV Program

A Virginia Beach company is sponsor of a weekly television program that can be seen each Saturday afternoon over Norfolk's WTAR-TV. The program deals with lawn problems and the care of plants and grass.

The interesting program which is televised in conjunction with the work of the various garden clubs in the area is sponsored by the Organics Company, of Virginia Beach.

This week's program is scheduled to be televised about 1:15 p. m. this Saturday just prior to the major league baseball game. Those interested in lawn problems and garden work should tune into this program.

Deeper horizontal shadow lines which enhance the appearance of an asbestos-cement sided house can be obtained by using shingle backers as an underlayment. Another method is to use wood strips over the top of each course of shingles, nailing the shingle bottoms in the next course above the wood strips.

Beach High Netters Place Second To Princess Anne in Tournament

District tennis matches were held in Suffolk on May 3. Those sending representatives were Virginia Beach, Deep Creek, Princess Anne, Great Bridge and Suffolk. Representing the local high school were Emanuel Katsias, Bill Culverhouse, Ashley Haycox, George Ouellette and Myrtle Woodward. They were accompanied by Coach Walter Parker.

The majority of the singles matches were held in the morning. All of the Virginia Beach boys did exceptionally well, winning out in the first round. They fared not so well in the second round, but all played their hearts out. Bill Culverhouse went into the semi-finals of the singles.

Suffolk High was host for a pleasant luncheon hour, following which the doubles matches took place. Katsias and Haycox, Virginia Beach's "number one" doubles team, put up a game battle but lost to a much better team from Princess Anne.

The "number two" team of Culverhouse and Ouellette went all the way to the finals of the tournament before losing to Princess Anne. They beat the "number two" team from Deep Creek, the "number one" team from Suffolk, but could not pass the great play of their county rivals.

This is the first time a Suffolk team has not appeared in the finals, according to reports.

The Beach team took second place in the tourney by virtue of playing in the finals.

Other members of the Virginia Beach team are Tim Davis, Bill Everett, David Watts and Manager Dan Proulx.

Next on the schedule is Cradock, being played today. Friday with Deep Creek, and May 17 with Norfolk Academy. On May 20 the state matches will be held in Charlottesville, and Virginia Beach hopes to be represented.

Barbecue Supper At Courthouse

A barbecue supper will be served by the ladies of the Pungo Home Demonstration Club this Saturday, May 14, from 5 until 8 p. m., at the Agricultural Building at Princess Anne's Court House.

Besides the supper, many other articles will be sold, such as pies, cakes, candies, hand-sewn items, preserves and a variety of plants. Free prizes will be given all afternoon and the grand prize, a Westinghouse 18-foot upright freezer, will be given as the finale. All proceeds will go to the building fund of the Sandbridge Community Center, which the Pungo Home Demonstration Club is sponsoring. The public is cordially invited to attend. The price will be $1 per plate.

Lotus Festival

out to from four to ten inches when open and stands from two to four feet above the water's surface. The leaves, of a blue-green hue, vary in diameter up to 24 inches.

Mrs. Reed credits Mrs. Louisa Venable Kyle, a feature writer for the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, with focusing public attention on the spectacular beauty of the unusual flower in articles published during the blooming period in recent years.

Grown by Indians

In 1607 when the first colonists landed at Cape Henry, the native wild American Yellow Lotus was found growing in water gardens tended by the Indians, who used the starch tubers and seeds for food. As the colonists depended on the food supplies brought from England, or upon the grain and vegetables they could barter from the Indians, it is believed that they likewise got to know the value of the lotus for its edible parts.

While there are lotus to be seen in isolated places from Ontario eastward and southward to Florida, and west to Michigan, Illinois and Nebraska, only at Sand Bridge is it known to flourish in any quantity. In season, the lotus blooms cover more than a mile of marshland and extend almost a half mile at its greatest width.

A hurricane in the late summer of 1933 flooded the Sand Bridge area with salt water, following which the lotus almost disappeared. Fortunately enough rootstock and seed survived that in the past few years it has spread rapidly. Two factors favor its growth, the first being the peculiar behavior of the seed as they ripen and germinate, and secondly, the quiet stillness of the stream.

Any sudden change in the water level, Mrs. Reed points out, is unfavorable for lotus growth. A quick rise will submerge and drown the plant, while a sharp fall in the water level collapses and, exposes them to death by drying.

One of the primary objectives of the Cape Henry Woman's Club, of which Mrs. W. W. Connell, Jr., is president, is the conservation of the American Yellow Lotus, which has been selected as the club flower. Mrs. Lucile Clark and Mrs. Robert Steinhilber, along with Mrs. R. W. Spruill and Mrs. E. L. Cooper, are among the other club principals now shaping up the festival program.

PILLS CAN'T CURE CANCER

No cancer has ever been cured by pills or powders, by quacks or "wonder doctors." The American Cancer Society urges all cancer patients to seek competent medical help.

New L.C.F.
(Low Cab Forward)
Chevrolet
Task-Force
Trucks

! by the most modern V8 in any truck . . .
Chevrolet's new Taskmaster V8 engine!

Chevrolet's great new L.C.F. models bring you all the advantages of a C.O.E.—plus a long list of important new advances you won't find anywhere else.

For example, the cab is a full seven inches lower than former C.O.E. models. And it has only two steps instead of the usual three for C.O.E.'s. Just think of the time and effort this will save the driver! Also, the low L.C.F. is handsomer by far than any C.O.E. ever built!

Inside, the L.C.F.'s new Flight-Ride cab has a level floor with plenty of "stretch-out" leg room and offers new driver comfort. The driver has a commanding view of the road—both far ahead and close up front—through the big, broad panoramic windshield.

Quicker, simpler maintenance is another big advantage offered by the new L.C.F. Everything's easier to reach in the roomy engine compartment.

In an L.C.F. you still get the easy maneuverability of a C.O.E. plus—new frames, new suspension, a whole truck-load of modern features!

Year after year, America's best selling truck!

Shortest Stroke V8 of All! The new Taskmaster V8—the most modern V8 your money can buy—powers the new L.C.F.1 With a 12-volt electrical system for faster starting!

Democratic National Committee Chairman Will Speak in Norfolk

PAUL M. BUTLER, Chairman, Democratic National Committee

Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will be the featured speaker at a Jefferson Day luncheon at the Monticello Hotel in Norfolk on May 28. Miss Blair Stewart, president of the Woman's Democratic Club of Norfolk and vicinity, states that invitations have been sent by the club to Senators Harry F. Byrd and Willis Robertson, Representative Porter Hardy, Jr., Governor Thomas B. Stanley, former Governor John S. Battle, Lieutenant Governor A. E. S. Stephens, Attorney General Lindsay Almond, State Treasurer Jessie Dillon, State Democratic Chairman Thomas Blanton, Women's Democratic Committee Chairman Mrs. John Garland Pollard, Mrs. Katie Loughm, Director of Women's Activities, Democratic National Committee, and Miss Kathryn Folger, Director of the Speakers Bureau, Democratic National Committee.

Trade Meeting

Also invited are State Senators Edward L. Breeden and Robert F. Baldwin; Delegates Delamater Davis, James W. Roberts, Theodore Picher, John S. Rixey, Toy D. Savage and many other office-holders.

Trade Committee, said that a group of students and faculty advisors from colleges in Virginia and nearby states will be invited to attend this year's conference

Home-Building Prospects Bright For Beach in '55

Judging by inquiries in recent weeks, more new homes will be built in the Virginia Beach area this summer than ever before, according to R. B. Taylor, local building materials dealer and a member of the Public Affairs Committee of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"In addition, local families seem to be planning a record-breaking volume of home improvements such as new roofs, remodeled kitchens and finishing off extra rooms," Mr. Taylor said. "Nationally, it is believed that total expenditures for residential construction and improvements will approach $25,000,000,000, or slightly more than the estimated total for last year.

"The fast rate of new home construction is due to the fact that mortgage terms are especially attractive and down payment requirements never have been lower. It is much easier for young married couples to finance new homes than it used to be.

"Moreover, new homes offer many added comforts and conveniences which appeal to older couples who want to take things easier."

"In the country as a whole," Mr. Taylor stated, "86 out of every 100 families now own or are buying the home in which they live." He added, "It is believed that the figure in this respect is fully as high here in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County."

The conference was held last year in Norfolk. It originated as a project of the Norfolk Port Authority.

Great Interest in Demonstration Program

IN SPITE OF ALL that has been said about today's "pushbutton" housekeeping, demand for home demonstration work has increased greatly in recent years, according to reports from states and counties to the Federal Extension Service. Nearly 537,000 homemakers have volunteered and been trained as the selected leaders of these groups. Many women turn to this educational work to help their families adjust to changing times. Those with the double job of wage-earning and homemaking ask for help in efficient management, especially time and labor-saving methods.

The shift from home production of goods to purchasing as brought a demand for training in wise buying. The increasing numbers of young children and elderly people in our population has caused many women to ask for special programs on their care. Farm families whose incomes have dropped in recent years want the latest methods of production, preservation and conservation of food or other "do-it-yourself" training that will stretch the family dollar.

These are only a few of the many lines in which home demonstration work helps the homemaker and thus her family and community.

Milk and Fruit Drinks
AS MILK PRODUCTION increases seasonally, many wise homemakers start collecting raw milk recipes to wheat the family appetite for this valuable food. For everybody in the family, but especially the very young children, the elderly, convalescents or others on a "soft diet," the Missouri Experiment Station has developed nutritious and appetizing recipes for milk blended with various fruits and their juices. The station has tried making these with various mechanical blenders.

Of Interest To Homemakers

By MRS. ELIZABETH D. DEAL Home Demonstration Agent

Some general tips for making: Pour milk into the blender, then add other ingredients. Use high speed for blending. Serve immediately if possible. If one drink must be stored to call, reblend for ten seconds before serving. If ice cream is added for extra nourishment, cut in pieces and blend until the mixture is creamy. The capacity of blenders for milk drinks is about two cups of milk plus fruit or other ingredients—that is, about enough to make three drinks.

Missouri Apricot-Milk

Ingredients: 1/4 cup dried or 1/2 cup canned apricots; 2 teaspoons sugar; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 2 cups milk. To make: Add apricots, sugar and salt to milk. Blend at high speed — 10 to 20 seconds for canned apricots and 30 seconds to 1 minute for dried apricots. This makes 3 servings. To plump the dried apricots in advance, pour boiling water over them and let stand 5 to 10 minutes.

Banana-Milk

Ingredients: 2 cups milk; 2 ripe bananas; 2 tablespoons sugar or 2 tablespoons molasses. To make: Blend all ingredients 1 minute at high speed. If bananas aren't soft ripe, increase the blending time. This makes three servings.

Pineapple-Milk

Ingredients: 1 cup milk; 1/2 cup crushed canned pineapple; 1 teaspoon sugar; 1 tablespoon lemon juice. To make: Blend all ingredients 20 seconds to one minute, depending on coarseness of pineapple. Fresh cooked pineapple makes a fine-flavored drink, but requires straining to remove fibers. (Uncooked pineapple will curdle milk.) This recipe makes one large serving.

Package, Temperature and Time

THE NEED for good packaging increases with the length of time chicken is to be held frozen and decreases with the temperature of storage. Thus, for chickens held at 30° below zero F for only a few weeks, a package of semi-moisture-proof material is satisfactory. But when held at zero degrees F for six months or more, a completely moisture-vapor-proof package is required.

The problem of forming the package to the shape of the product to exclude all possible air is especially difficult with cut-up chicken. Heat-shrunk, moisture-proof bags solve one problem, but because the bags are likely to get punctured and are difficult to pile or wrap up, they are placed in cartons to facilitate handling and stacking. This amounts to double wrapping.

THE NATION'S ATTIC

Every year over three and a half million people wander through the Smithsonian Institution's main buildings which house an overwhelming pot-pourri of rare treasures. It is reported that tourists come away from the "nation's attic" most reluctantly and wish they had more time to see everything. It is said that if they were to spend one minute at each item it would take 66 years to see the total of 36 million catalogued items in the Smithsonian.

Let Turner says those low-cut gowns must be a sign of intelligence — all those girls on the quiz programs wear 'em.

A new use for asbestos-cement siding shingles has been found by interior decorators. They are utilizing the attractively colored shingles as plaques for flower vases and on walls behind floor arrangements to mask off clashing background colors. Because they are made in many pleasing colors, it is easy to choose shingles to harmonize with the flowers.

Kempville Baptist Church Scene Of Milner-Barlow Wedding

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Helwell Barlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Barlow of Kempville, to Harry B. Milner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Milner of Knoxville, Tenn., took place Saturday, April 30, at four o'clock in the afternoon in the Kempville Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arnold Blount. The church was decorated with fern, white flowers, palms, and lighted candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of bridal satin styled with standing collar, embroidered with sequins, with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt with a train outlined in hand-applied insets of Chantilly lace. Her veil was arranged from a caplet of tulle, sequins and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Mr. William C. Barlow, as master of ceremonies, introduced the bride and groom. The bride's father, Mr. Garland Barlow, was best man and groomsmen were William C. Barlow, Robert L. Davis, Robert Schindler and Peter Greene. Miss John A. Hutchinson was mistress of ceremonies.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church social hall. Later Mr. and Mrs. Milner left on a southern wedding trip. They are residing temporarily with the bride's parents.

from Arlington to spend two weeks with Mrs. Leoman's sister, Mrs. Florence LeMoine.

Grayson Whitehurst, Jr., who is stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C., is spending a two weeks leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Whitehurst, at their home in Cavalier Shores.

Mrs. J. Elmer Johnson left last week to spend several months traveling in Europe.

Mrs. Robert B. Taylor is spending several days this week in Richmond with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Tenner Rose, and Mr. Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Barr have recently returned home after a motor trip through the Valley of Virginia.

Dr. and Mrs. Wickham Taylor and four children, of Norfolk, arrived recently to spend the summer at their cottage on 79th Street.

Mrs. William Royter has returned to her home in Cavalier Shores after spending several months in Florida.

Mrs. Mac I and Marie Gherty have moved from Norfolk and are making their home on 19th Street, here.

Mrs. Loretta Hitchens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hitchens of Oceana, recently spent the weekend in Norfolk and attended the spring dances at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. She is a student at Mary Washington College.

Mrs. Harry Lowman and her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Moorehead and her young son have arrived.

Barbara Branch Chooses June 4 For Nuptial Day

Miss Barbara Faye Branch, daughter of Mrs. Victor Elmo Branch and the late Mr. Branch, has chosen Saturday, June 4, as the date for her marriage to Walter Maher Wales. The ceremony will take place at three o'clock in the afternoon in the Park Place Methodist Church, Norfolk.

Miss Branch has chosen as her matron of honor, Mrs. John M. Pool of Richmond. Miss Shirley Mae Donnelly will be bridesmaid, and junior bridesmaids will be Miss Claudia Ann Pardin and Miss Judith Ann Gray, both cousins of the bride.

James Cofer Wales will be best man for his twin brother, and the groomsmen will be John M. Pool and Frank Robinson of Richmond. Charles Brown of Norfolk, and George Barco of Virginia Beach.

Peanut hulls have many industrial uses. They are used as a grinding and polishing abrasive and sound insulation. They are also sold as poultry litter and for roughage in poultry feed.

Betty Harris To Wed Jas. Warren

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ervine Harris of London Bridge announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Betty Juanita Harris, to James Cletis Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Lewis Warren, of Waynesboro, Tenn. The wedding date has been set for June 26.

Opens Offices Dr. J. A. White

Dr. J. A. White, a Virginia Beach resident of long standing, has opened his office for the practice of medicine in the Mayflower apartment building.

Dr. White has recently had his resignation accepted by the U. S. Navy after serving thirteen years as a flight surgeon. He left the service as a Commander, having been appointed to that rank in 1949.

Dr. White received his B. S. degree from Wake Forest College in 1938, and his M.D. degree from the Medical College of Virginia in 1941. He served his internship at Norfolk General Hospital, and was surgical resident at the time of entering the service.

Birth Announcements

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Rust Cotton announce the birth of a daughter, Nancy Josephine Cotton, on Wednesday, May 4, at the University Memorial Hospital, in Chapel Hill, N. C. Mrs. Cotton is the former Miss Betty Duganery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Duganery. Mr. Cotton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Wunder.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Littlefield, of London Bridge, announce the birth of their first child, a son, William Clyde, Friday, April 15, at D-Paul Hospital. Mrs. Littlefield is the former Miss Margaret Duke Smith, daughter of Mrs. Virginia W. Smith, of Virginia Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben F. Tranter, Jr., announce the birth of their second son, Alexander McQueen, born April 26 at DePaul Hospital. Mrs. Tranter is the former Miss Mattie Edwards Bishop of Columbia, S. C.

The MIXING BOWL... IT'S Fun TO COOK!

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN - NEWS FOOD EDITOR

FROZEN SOUPS

From the Campbell kitchens come some interesting news, and I want to share it with you. Recently, we've been hearing a lot about frozen soups — shrimp, green pea with ham, cream of potato, and oyster stew — and all most delicious.

Our great, great, great grandmothers who braved the cold of northern winters would probably hoot at the idea that frozen soups are new, and rightly so. For many a homemaker of "days gone by" kept most of her family's food supply (from soups to apple pie) in cold storage — buried deep in snow-covered caves or piled on snow-covered porches. You may ask, "Why freeze soup?" We all know that some foods retain their flavor better when frozen than when heat-processed. On the other hand, some soups are "better eating" when canned in the traditional way.

Only the best goes into the frozen soups. Oysters, gathered from cozy beds in shallow waters off the East Coast, are shucked and packed in ice, huge trucks transport them to the plant, where they are blended with whole milk and creamery butter, salt and seasonings. The soup is then frozen and ready for distribution.

Sweet-tasting shrimp, dubbed the "prince of seafoods" by the Chinese, come from Southern waters. Fished from the depths, the shrimp are frozen and trucked to the plant. There they are skillfully blended with rich cream, butter, sautéed and spices for a blique type shrimp delicacy.

Only Grade A potatoes go into the cream of potato soup, and these are grown in many sections of our country. They are washed, peeled and trimmed, first by machine and then by hand. Next the potatoes are diced and poured into kettles with milk, onion, butter, seasonings and other fine ingredients. Through freezing, the cream of potato soup retains its original texture and delicate flavor. It is elegant when served as a hot soup and "extra special" as a cool smooth vichyssoise.

Hams especially prepared for Campbells, go into the green pea and ham soup. From the perfect "porkers" raised in the Midwest, the hams are chosen for size and leanness. Those that pass rigid qualifications are scientifically cured and smoked. They are then tested for flavor and aroma. Only the highest quality hams go into this special blend of ham and peas, to make a soup that boasts real old-fashioned flavor and heartiness.

After the soups are cooked, they are sealed in cans which are speed along like toy soldiers to a huge freezer. Once inside the freezer, the cans travel spiral style thru a maze of twists and turns until the soups are frozen solid. From here the cans are carried on conveyor belts to the end of the line, where they are packed into cases and delivered to frigid storage rooms.

Frozen condensed soups are the latest boon to 1955 homemakers who, for the most part, rely on "quick-fix" foods. For more than one-fourth of the wives in the United States have jobs outside the home. And of the 26 million full-time homemakers in this country, many are active in community affairs or are kept busy with small children.

These busy wives and working women use remarkable ingenuity in turning out tempting dishes with packaged mixes, canned and frozen foods, and a wealth of imagination.

Frozen soups open the door to a whole new world of recipes. New flavors come to the foreground. Oyster stew, rich with butter and oysters. Cream of potato, smooth and satisfying, with sturdy chunks of potato. Cream of shrimp, pink and shrimp. And green peas and ham, thick and hearty, with fresh pea flavor. All possible with the twist of a can opener and a bit of heating.

Now Mrs. Homemaker can have smooth, savory seafood sauces by using frozen soup. What could be easier than placing a can of unthawed frozen soup (shrimp or oyster) in a casserole with an unthawed frozen vegetable... then sliding the casserole into the oven to bake for an hour? While milady tends to other tasks, the dinner makes itself.

Have you tried the frozen soups? If you haven't... I hope you will. Bye, now...

VPI Gives Tips To Babysitters

Tips on ways with children and what to do in emergencies are forthcoming for babysitters from home economists at VPI.

The economists advise babysitters to know where the parents are and what they want them to do. In an emergency ever arises. If the baby is hurt, call the physician which the parents have designated for you; then call the parents.

A good babysitter should know the general floor plan of the house, location of the telephone, light switches, and where the baby's clothes, bottle, etc., are kept.

Some general do's and don'ts are to keep the outside doors securely locked and not open them for strangers. The telephone line should be kept open for important calls, since baby sitting is really a business transaction like any other job.

Babysitters will be more relaxed and develop a better sense of humor if they keep in mind the difficulties children have, and learn to adjust to the children's environment.

Smallmouths are seldom found in trout streams.

GARDEN GUIDE

By
BARTOW H.
BRIDGES, JR.

GROUND COVERS AMONG FOUNDATION PLANTINGS

Many gardeners in this area are completely unfamiliar with ground covers as a part of the foundation planting; however in the north, they are almost a basic necessity. These ground covers are low-growing evergreens that are planted between and among the shrubs and trees in order to beautify the unplanted areas, and give them a uniform appearance. They also would tend to produce many of the benefits that a mulch would as discussed earlier this spring in "Garden Guide."

Periwinkle

One of the best of all ground covers is Vinca minor or periwinkle, also frequently called myrtle in some localities. This is an evergreen vine with small leaves that have a very dark lustre like large-leaf Japanese holly. The vine prefers shady areas with a good bit of moisture and good drainage. It will grow quite vigorously under these conditions and will give complete coverage in a short while. The vine does not climb nor does it twine so that one will not be troubled with it becoming entangled with the other plantings. The plants are dotted with beautiful pale blue flowers in the spring and are a joy to grow.

Fachysandra

Fachysandra or Japanese spurge is Vinca minor or periwinkle as it is frequently called, is almost totally unfamiliar to the Beach. It is an excellent plant for a groundcover and should certainly be considered. It is not a vine but a dwarfed shrubby evergreen plant growing to a height of approximately six inches. It grows well in sunny and partially shaded areas and requires very little care once established. In the spring the plant will produce small white flowers at its terminal bud. An unusual variegated form is occasionally seen. An excellent example of the proper use of this plant is seen in the beautiful Longwood Gardens at the DuPont estate at Kennett Square, Pennsylvania.

Everyone is familiar with Hedera helix, English ivy, and its various varieties. This plan has dozens of uses in any landscape and is ideal for a groundcover. The large leaf form of the straight species is not always tastefully adapted for use among small plants; however the smaller leaf forms such as baltica, are excellent. It grows well under any and all conditions, is easy to propagate, and quick to give complete coverage. Like any other plant, occasional fertilization and training will prove quite beneficial.

Ivy

Some other plants suited for groundcover but which are seldom seen, are Galox aphylla, native from Virginia to Georgia; Eurythmus radicans species such as colorata, turning a beautiful bronze in the fall; Virginia creeper, native to this area, and in some cases even varieties of honeysuckle.

How? What? Where? When? All your garden problems are answered by the writers of this column—if there are answers, and there usually are. Just write Garden Guide, the Sun-News, and your answer will be promptly forthcoming.

POTTING TABLE IDEA

Gardeners who grow plants from seed or are interested in house plants, should have a handy potting table where work can be done sitting down. Covering the table with asbestos-cement board, a material that is not damaged by contact with soil, will give the table an easy-to-clean surface and protect it against rotting.

Students Chosen For Boys State

The Junior Boys elected Aubrey Holmes and Bill Everett as delegates to Boys State at VPI in July. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Everett.

Bobby Creamer and Bill Costenbader were elected as alternates.

Post 113 of the American Legion will sponsor these two delegates.

Food Survey Being Conducted

The U. S. Census Bureau will conduct this month a national survey of household purchases of selected food items, according to Supervisor Ralph Peary of the Bureau's district office in Richmond, which will participate in the survey.

The food survey is being conducted by the Census Bureau for the Department of Agriculture, which will use the information collected in the analysis of the consumer market for the items covered. Information about purchases of these items will be related to population data such as the size of the family and other characteristics obtained in the current population survey.

Most of the survey will be conducted during the week of May 16 and will relate to purchases of food during the previous week. Items to be covered include frozen orange juice, fresh oranges, butter, oleomargarine, flour, coffee and fresh lamb.

STORY TELLINGS

Prepared by the 54th and 54th Transportation Battalions, including the 54th Duke Company, are preparing to take part in this year's SUNECE.

Units of the 54th and 54th Transportation Battalions, including the 54th Duke Company, are preparing to take part in this year's SUNECE. (Supply North Sea Command) at Goose Bay, Labrador, and Prother Bay on Baffin Island. An advance party from the 54th Terminal Service Company departs late this month, to be followed in July by the main body and also the 54th Heavy Boat Company and the 54th Duke Company.

Work Simplification Course Completed

Sixteen supervisors of Story headquarters section, both military and civilian, completed a Work Simplification Course this week, devoted to distribution and flow process charts, work count, motion economy and layout studies. Top man was M/Sgt. Levin M. Marshall of Cambridge, Md., supervisor of the Post Processing Overseas Replacement Board and AG Audit team. Certificates of course completion were presented.

Some people go years without much attention to health. Others may need the Doctor on hand to start the day every day. Between these two extremes are great numbers of thinking people caring for their health in an orderly manner. They see their Doctor at regular intervals for guidance. They take the medicine he prescribes according to directions. They report unusual symptoms promptly. All these are common sense precautions and intelligent steps in health care, as is the practice of bringing your Doctor's prescriptions to this fine pharmacy.

Story's deputy commander, Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward, is a specialist as well as a "Barracuda." Lt. Col. Ward, who won the distinction for the second time in less than a month. The 22-year-old Birmingham, Alabama, soldier teaches operation and maintenance of the amphibious trucks in the 54th "Barracuda" Ship Company, a unit of the 54th Transportation Battalion.

New Officers Personnel Take Command

New additions to Story's officer personnel include Capt. John C. Reddon, who is Post Ordnance Officer, replaces Maj. William F. Marney, Jr., recently departed for a Formosa assignment. Replacing Lt. David Quale as Post Exchange Officer is CWO Darwin Owens of Pittsburgh, Pa., a graduate of two Army FT schools in Japan and at Fort Lee, Va., formerly worked in retail merchandising for Gimbel Bros. Another chief warrant officer assigned to Story recently is Mr. Robert S. Andrews of the 8-1 Section, and a third is CWO Jack L. Hastings, maintenance officer of the 54th Heavy Boat Company.

Story Equipment in Armed Forces Day Parades

Story amphibians will be prominent features of Armed Forces Day activities in the nation's capital as well as in the Tidewater area. One Buro, a Duke and the new Superduck, its modernized cousin, will go to Washington for the celebration at Bolling Air Force Base. A second Buro will be a highlight of the annual static display of Armed Forces equipment at Hampton Roads Sub-Park of Embarkation. A third will take part in the day's open-house activity at Fort Eustis.

Colonel Baker Leaves For Operation Sagarush

The big Southwestern maneuver, Operation Sagarush, will take Story's 8-3 Officer, Lt. Col. Harold P. Baker, from his regular duty for an unspecified number of weeks. Colonel Baker departs shortly to report to Fourth Army Headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. He will be a member of the Sagarush planning staff.

Non-Comm Filled Positions

Story non-commissioned officers again filled all command and staff positions at the latest garrison review held on the post parade grounds. Reviewing Officer was Story's sergeant major, M/Sgt. Elise Bebeck, Jr., with a staff of M/Sgt. George C. Watkins, Jesse W. Beddingfield and Levin M. Marshall. Commander of Troops was M/Sgt. Robert H. Smith, with a staff of M/Sgt. Paul N. Sweeney and Carl E. Wilson and Sgt. Joseph A. Tribble, the latter serving as Adjutant. Commanders of the 5th and 54th Transportation Battalions were, respectively, M/Sgt. Cecil D. Ralston and Jesus R. Saenz.

612th Duke Company Marches Off With Honors

A 54th Battalion unit, the 612th Duke Company, walked off — or, rather, marched off — with the distinction of Best Marching Unit in this review. It was led by its first sergeant, M/Sgt. Jacob Miller, acting as company commander. Before the troops marched in review, another 54th Battalion unit, the 605th Duke Company, received the blue streamer for its guidon as the unit judged best at the last parade. Col. Edwin A. Deagle, Fort Story's commanding officer, made the presentation.

GOOD RECORD

The Giles County "Virginian" reports that at long last Lynwood Ferguson, whose case has been pending since March of last year, has come to justice and received six months' Unsupervised sentence and $100 fine on the charge of driving on a revoked license. He will be tried later for drunken driving but already has four convictions for this to his discredit. In the same issue, it is reported that another man who was convicted for both drunken driving and driving under a revoked license received a total of four months' Unsupervised sentence and $150 in fines. Incidentally, the county has seen but one traffic death since December 6, 1953.

W. Harley Ross Commissioner to Church Assembly

W. Harley Ross of Virginia Beach was last week officially certified by Dr. E. C. Scott, Stated Clerk of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., as a commissioner to the General Assembly of the denomination, it is announced from Atlanta, Ga.

The Assembly, which Mr. Ross will attend as an official voting representative of the Norfolk Presbytery, will be held in Richmond June 2-7. It is the highest court of the Presbyterian Church and meets annually. Some 460 commissioners from 17 states attend and review the work of the church for the past year, and set in motion the program for the coming year.

Mr. Ross, who is an elder in the local Presbyterian Church, was selected as a commissioner by the Norfolk Presbytery, and is one of ten commissioners — five ministers and five laymen — from the presbytery.

Church Dinner Well Attended

One hundred seventy-three members and friends of Community Methodist Church gathered at Pine Tree Inn on Wednesday night of last week for dinner.

The Rev. Carol Freeman, pastor of Miles Memorial Methodist Church, was a guest at the dinner.

Ray Walker, Jr., introduced the chairman of the canvass committee. A history of the church since its first meeting three years ago was given by William Fitzhugh.

Other speakers were Charles Pirrung, Frank Samson, Francis Paxton and Mrs. Douglas Newman.

Clark Graves sang a solo, "The Blind Flowerman." He was accompanied by Miss Pat Goodman, organist at Community Church.

Francis Paxton was master of ceremonies.

Miss Donna Leigh Dorer, a student at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, was also at home and attended the Milner-Barlow wedding. Miss Dorer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dorer.

Cavalier Club Sponsors Party

The Cavalier Junior Woman's Club is sponsoring a fashion show and card party to be held at the Norfolk Woman's Club on Fairfax Avenue, Friday, May 13, at 8 p. m.

Reeds of Norfolk is furnishing the fashions to be modeled. Mrs. J. C. Commander, Jr., will be the commentator.

Mrs. M. Bruce Jones, chairman of the club's Ways and Means committee, announces that proceeds from the event will be used for the club's clothing bank.

NEW BROWNIE TROOP IS ORGANIZED

A Brownie Troop has recently been organized in Kempville, with Mrs. M. E. Jones as leader. The quota for Troop 231 was 20, which has already been filled, and there is a waiting list.

The troop will take part in the rally to be held at Kempville School May 21 and quite a few of the members are planning to attend the day camp at Virginia Beach at Camp Linkhorn July 18 through July 28.

Mrs. Hugh Moore and Mrs. W. B. Baker are assistant leaders.

PTA Officers Are Installed

The Kempville Parent-Teacher Association met last Wednesday night for the last meeting of the school year.

Mrs. Charles Hodgman, president of the Princess Anne County Council, installed the new officers for 1955-56.

Mrs. Chester Bamforth, Hospitality chairman, served refreshments in the cafeteria at the conclusion of the meeting.

Mrs. W. E. Wood received a gift in appreciation for her services as president for the present school term.

JUNIOR WOMEN MEET TONIGHT

The Cavalier Junior Woman's Club will meet tonight, May 12, at the Baptist Church. The club chorus will sing several selections.

Plans will be discussed for the installation dinner dance to be held at Pine Tree Inn on May 21.

SO LOVED

We read that "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son . . ." God not only loved the world; He loved the world in a particular way. He did not love the world with some kind of wobbly, sentimental, mummy-pummy love. He did not say to its peoples: "Go right ahead, folks, do anything you like. I love you so much it won't make any difference." No: God loves us "so." He loves us according to basic principles of honor and justice. If God did not love the world honorably and ethically, He would not really love it at all.

Parents who do not love their children responsibly do not love them, period. When a parent lets a child "get away with anything" that does not mean the parent loves the child. It means the parent doesn't care what the child does. The parent who permits the child to grow up an uncouth barbarian, devoid of the guidance and discipline his developing personality requires, does not love the child. Love is responsible; it does not shirk the steady, day-by-day tasks of discipline.

And Vice-Versa

The love between parents and children must be ethical as well as responsible. There is a famous ballad which goes:

If I were hanged on the highest hill,
I know whose love would follow me still —
Mother o' mine, mother o' mine.

Now that is so much poppycock. It may well be that a mother's love would follow a son even through a life of crime. But the point is that if the son really loved his mother he would not have gone into a life of crime. He would not have to be hanged on the highest hill — or even a lower one. Love must be ethical or it is not love. God "so loved" the world and we must "so love" one another.

It's Love, Love, Love

Here is a young, starry-eyed couple who sigh deeply and tell you that they are in love. There is obviously a strong emotional attraction between the two — so strong that for the time being it seems more important than anything else. They are in love all right, but what is love? Love must be built on something besides emotional attraction. It must be built on mutual respect, on beliefs and devotions shared.

REVISED BIBLE BEING PUBLISHED

The Rev. Carl R. Key of Durham, N. C., regional director of the Committee on the Use and Understanding of the Bible, is visiting 50 communities in Virginia in the interest of the revised standard version of the Bible.

Practical ways of teaching the use and understanding of the Bible through community inter-church programs are being discussed at the meetings. They are being sponsored by the National Council of Churches as well as the Virginia Council of Churches. The projects being considered include Bible reading, a hymn festival, daily devotions, leadership education and the use of films.

I could not love thee, dear, so much
Loved I not honor more.

Emotional fondness is not enough. There is an ingredient of faith and honor. A love that tries to deny or forget this is doomed to fail.

How can you tell if it's the real thing? Watch for the small things. Remember that what he is now he will be ten years from now — doubled and redoubled. If he drives up for a date and honks the horn without bothering to come to the door — there's a screw loose. Be careful of him!

If he doesn't have enough sense to walk on the street side of the pavement or to carry your books and parcels — if he refers to your father as the "old man" — if he is afraid to come in and visit with your family — the chances are he doesn't have it. If she is never ready for the date — if she's sloppy in her appearance — if she never helps her mother with the dishes or anything else — if she always orders the most expensive item on the menu — better forget her. She may be a good looking but that isn't enough in this day and age. The person who is worth marrying must have character. That is basic.

"Go so loved the world . . ." He didn't love the world any old way. He loved the world both well and wisely. He loved utterly, yet responsibly and ethically. We are to love that way, too.

By REV. ERNEST K. EMURIAN

ABIDE WITH ME

All through his life, Henry Frances Lyte felt that one day he would write something immortal. But when the inspiration finally came, he almost let it slip through his fingers. So weak was he from the ravages of tuberculosis that he nearly postponed polishing up and putting the final touches on his last poem.

"I can do it better when I come back," he thought, as he planned a trip to Italy for his health. "I will feel more like working then." But the inner compulsion was not to be denied. So, on September 4, 1847, his 54th year, he finished the poem he had begun many years earlier, and set forth on his final and fatal journey.

Life Not Easy

Life had not been easy for Lyte. Poverty plagued his youth, but he managed to complete his training for the ministry, take holy orders, and settle down, at 21, in a small parish in Ireland. But even there doubt haunted him and uncertainty dogged his footsteps. He every began questioning the call to the Christian ministry and wondered why he had not followed the medical professional instead. A visit to a dying brother-in-law wrought a marvelous transformation in his life, and inspired him to pen his spiritual autobiography in a remarkable hymn which began with these lines:

Jesus, my cross have taken,
All to leave and follow Thee;
Naked, poor, despised, forsaken,
Thou from hence my all shall be.

In that spirit he plunged into his work with increased devotion. In 1833 he was appointed perpetual curate of Lower Brightham, Devon, England, where he labored tirelessly, relinquishing hopes and ambitions to be a "good soldier of Jesus Christ." But even there peace and quiet were denied him. During his frequent absences from the parish in the fruitless search for good health, dissections arose in the church, members withdrew, and finally even the choir refused to sing.

"I must get away to a dry climate," he often said. "My feeble frame cannot endure much more." But he pushed himself to complete a small booklet, "Spirit of the Psalms," which he published in 1834. This volume included, among other poems, one entitled, "Praise, my soul, the king of heaven." Little did he dream that after the passing of more than a century a future Queen of England, Elizabeth II, would choose this as the opening hymn for her wedding to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, because it had been sung at the wedding of her own parents, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

"Twenty-four years is a long time to stay in one parish," the pastor said, as he prepared for his trip to the south. "I must put everything in order before I leave because I have no idea how long I will be away," he continued. As he went about the task of packing books, and sorting accumulated papers, sermons and miscellaneous manuscripts, he suddenly discovered in the bottom drawer of his desk, a poem he had written nearly a quarter of a century earlier.

"Strange how appropriate these words are now," he commented, as he read a few of the lines to members of his family. "I remember the night in my first parish, Wrexham, when I was called to the bedside of William Augustus Le Hunt. As he lay dying he kept repeating the words, 'Abide with me, abide with me,' possibly from the story of Jesus and the two disciples on the road to Emmaus. After leaving his bedside I wrote this poem and had completely forgotten it until the pages came to light today."

On Sunday, September 4, 1847, he administered the Lord's Supper for the last time. His gardener recalled that after tea at the parsonage, "Berry Head," he walked in the garden in front of the home for a while, and then went down on the rocks by the sea and sat for a long time, working over his manuscript. After the sun had set he returned to his study. His family thought he was resting, but he was putting the final touches on his finest hymn. Later, as they listened reverently, he read them eight stanzas which began:

Abide with me, fast falls the eventide;
The darkness deepens, Lord with me abide.
When other helpers fail, and comforts flee,
Help of the helpless, O abide with me.

He left with his family the very next morning, September 5, and arrived soon after at Mentone, near Nice, in France, at the foot of the Maritime Alps, in a climate of perpetual sunshine. There his life slowly ebbed away; he died on November 20, 1847. His last words being, "Oh, there is nothing terrible in death. Jesus steps down into the grave before me and I have both peace and hope." On his gravestone these words are carved:

Heaven's morning breaks, and Earth's vain shadows flee,
In life, in death, O Lord,
abide with me.

STAIRWAY TO GOD

Since the beginning of time, man has recognized the need for divine worship. He has ever sought a stairway to God. • For nearly two thousand years the Christian religion has pointed man to such a stairway. And through the centuries millions have climbed it. • But millions have not! And the reason they have not is the most serious problem that faces the Church and the world today: • You see, the only stairway to God is FAITH IN JESUS CHRIST, HIS SON. And Faith is not something which men can possess collectively, as all Americans possess freedom. Faith is something we can only possess individually like life itself. The man who lacks it is dead, even though millions around him possess it. • The faith of your wife, or your father, or your son, or your nation is not—for you—a stairway to God. Christ has given you the Church to plant and cultivate faith in your heart. But the Church must have your heart—in person!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a schoolhouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Gregory Peck Has Demanding Role In Dramatic "Purple Plain" Film

Reports from those who have seen Eric Ambler's screenplay of "The Purple Plain," which opens Sunday at the Beach Theatre for a three-day run, say that it has all of the drama and conflict which made the book a best-seller. In addition to which the magnificent Technicolor production boasts a sterling performance from a truly great actor — Gregory Peck.

In what can easily be called his best role to date, Peck brings to Forester, distinguished as pilot fighting in Burma and deliberately trying to get himself killed, the frightening cynicism and moresomeness of a man no longer in love with life. He stands out powerfully in his scenes of explosive temperance, yet handles with delicacy the transformation brought about by love for an exquisite native girl.

Beautiful Win Min Than, who means "Brilliant a Thousand Fold," as Anna, the young girl who brings Forester back to reality, establishes herself as a rising star with a sliver of acting as well as a delightful appearance.

Shot on location in the jungles of Ceylon, the desperate humid heat, the fierce sun and waterless plains, combined with the terror of surprise air raids, brings an atmosphere of despair that accentuates the characters of the brave men and women who fought there in World War II.

Others in the cast of "The Purple Plain" include Brenda de Banzie, Bernard Lee, Maurice Denham, London Brook and Ram Gopal. John Bryan directed and Robert Parrish produced the film.

PURPLE PLAIN

Josephine Griffin is cast as Gregory Peck's wife who is killed in a London air raid shortly after marriage. Scene is from the Technicolor drama, "The Purple Plain," a United Artists release, opening at the Beach Theatre Sunday for a three-day showing.

E. Power Biggs In Organ Recital Next Tuesday

E. Power Biggs, nationally famous organist who is largely responsible for the revival of interest in the organ at a concert instrument, will appear in recital at Epworth Methodist Church in Norfolk on Tuesday, May 17, at 8:15 p. m., under the auspices of the Norfolk Chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

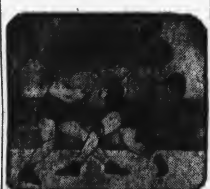

Mr. Biggs was born in England and attended the Royal Academy of Music in London, from which he graduated with highest honors. After touring England, appearing in many of the historic cathedrals and in Queens Hall, London, he came to the United States, settling in Boston. He is now an American citizen. Acclaimed as the creator of a modern renaissance of the organ, Mr. Biggs has personally built up a wide audience in this country through appearances in the concert hall, with symphony orchestras and on the air.

For a number of years, M. Biggs has performed over the CBS radio network and Sunday mornings in many of the historic cathedrals and in Queens Hall, London, he came to the United States, settling in Boston. He is now an American citizen. Acclaimed as the creator of a modern renaissance of the organ, Mr. Biggs has personally built up a wide audience in this country through appearances in the concert hall, with symphony orchestras and on the air.

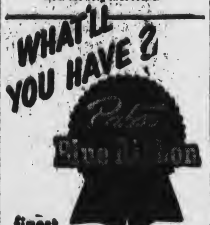

With the millions reached by world-wide programs for the Columbia network plus his Voice of America, and with frequent broadcasts of his recordings, it may be said that E. Power Biggs is heard regularly by more listeners than any organist in history.

There is no admission charge for the recital at Epworth on May 17 and the public is cordially invited. An offering will be received to help defray expenses.

The Ford Rotunda in Dearborn, Mich., entertained 1,503,136 visitors during 1954.

Postal Vehicle Safety Program Paying Off, Summerfield Reports

The number of accidents involving postal vehicles is being drastically reduced by the Post Office Department's safe driving program, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announces.

Although the program is still in its early stages, preliminary reports show specific improvements in many areas, he said. Marked reductions are being found not only in the number of accidents but also in the resulting cost of repairs to postal vehicles and in accident rates. Decreases in accident rates approach 50 per cent while repair costs have dropped approximately three-quarters in some cities.

"Such spectacular results in so short a time are most unusual in a new safety program," Mr. Summerfield said, "and although we are pleased with progress to date, it must be realized that the Post Office Department has a long way to go in this direction."

For years the department held the unpleasant record of the highest accident rate in the Federal government. With nearly 100,000 regular drivers on the streets and roads, the postal service has the largest fleet in the world. Obviously, the high accident rate was a serious matter. This fact was already troubling us when President Eisenhower, early in 1954, challenged his White House Conference on Highway Safety to cut what he termed the nation's shocking highway death and accident toll.

"By early fall of last year we had our safe driving program under way and now our safety people are preparing our first progress report by digesting statistics comparing our record for the last quarter of 1954 with that of the same period a year before. This, by the way, is the busiest time of the year for post offices since it includes the Christmas holidays."

Statistical proof of improvement is shown by the following examples:

In the last quarter of 1953 Los Angeles postal authorities reported 146 accidents, while the figure for the same period in 1954 — after the new program was put into motion — was 84. The cost of repairs to postal vehicles in that period was $2,238.72; in 1954 it dropped to $443.21. The accident rate per 100,000 miles was 13.63 in 1953; down to 7.60 the next year. The improvement in the accident rate was 44% in the cost rate, 72%.

In the region for which Boston is postal headquarters the cost of repairs dropped from $9,992.90 in 1953's fourth quarter to $4,423.87 in 1954. In the Chicago region, which includes many heavily congested and industrialized areas, such as Detroit and Milwaukee, there were 1,029 accidents in 1953, but 894 in 1954. The cost of repairs dropped from $32,034.35 in 1953 to $21,318.53 in 1954.

In Kansas City the accident frequency rate of 3.2 per 100,000 miles in 1953 was cut in the last quarter of 1954 to 1.7 per 100,000. "There is every indication that the statistical digest of the reports from the field will show the same improvement pattern across the country," Mr. Summerfield added. "However, I want it clearly understood that this is only the beginning. Even though we are off to a good start we must intensify and redouble our efforts. We are perfectly aware that we are a long way from the national average of 1.64 accidents per 100,000 miles, established by large fleet organizations which have spent years on their safe driving programs."

The Post Office Department's program actually started in June of 1954 when the Bureau of Personnel initiated a motor vehicle and traffic accident prevention instructors' training program.

Trainees were nominated by their local postal officials as the best qualified to learn the safety program techniques and to teach them to the drivers in the local installations. A full five-day week of 40 hours was devoted to each class until 8000 trainees had qualified to become instructors.

The program was decentralized to the regions with the appointment of regional safety officers starting in July, 1954.

A wide variety of training and testing materials is provided both to instructors and trainees through the national office in Washington and the regional offices. These include motor sensory training aids, training films, text books, instruction and demonstration guides, a chronological outline for a continuing sustained program, and a clear set of policy rules and regulations for the training program now being prepared for insertion in the Postal Manual.

Meanwhile the Post Office Department drivers have been entered in the National Safety Council's safe driver award program which, it is anticipated, will help the continued improvement in the department's safety record. Under this program postal people who complete 12 months of driving without a preventable accident in the Council's coveted award with a lapel pin and a card signed by the Postmaster General as evidence of their status as safe drivers.

The names of some states are projected into other states. For example, New York has a town named Alabama, Pennsylvania has an Indiana and Louisiana an Arizona. Five states have a California, three an Ohio and seven a Wyoming.

NORFOLK MOVES TO ANNEX HUGE AREA OF PA COUNTY

Preliminary Steps Ordered to Encompass 42 Square Miles

County Pledged to Oppose Move; Bitter Fight Seen to Stop "Grab"

The City of Norfolk officially moved Tuesday to begin preliminary studies with the view to annexing a part of Princess Anne County. The area under consideration would include 41,216 miles of the county.

It was evident that the City of Norfolk will face a tough fight if they should go ahead with annexation plans. Princess Anne County officials have anticipated such a move for sometime and recently included in its budget an appropriation designed to be used to fight such a move by Norfolk.

Norfolk's City Council voted unanimously Tuesday in ordering immediate technical and engineering reports showing the "necessity for and expediency of" enlarging the city.

The area now under consideration would include all of the big Kempsville Magisterial District and would extend to the Lynnhaven Bay, down Thurston Branch, past Thalia and into the tip below the Virginia Beach Boulevard crossing.

It is not known whether the formal ordinance would take in the new Princess Anne High School at Thalia, but it is felt that the school would be left in the county.

The proposed area would give Norfolk a combined land area of 89 square miles making it the largest city in Virginia in land area. The City of Warwick now holds that distinction with 62 square miles.

The proposed move by the City of Norfolk is expected to face a bitter fight from the county and Dusch in Derby?

Don't be surprised come 1957 if the nation's newspapers carry the sports headline, "Mayor Dusch Wins Kentucky Derby" for there is a distinct possibility of that happening since last Saturday night.

It was last Saturday night that a young colt was born out at Aldo Farms in Princess Anne County and the owners, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Jacobs, named the youngster after Virginia Beach's popular mayor, Frank A. Dusch.

So, if you're a betting man it might be well to remember and place smart money on "Mayor Dusch in the 1957 Kentucky Derby. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs have high hopes of racing the newest member of their stable and with his blood background stands a good chance of going places.

Polio Chapter Thanks Public For Cooperation

Mrs. Wallace Clark, Chairman of the Princess Anne County Chapter National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, has issued a statement of sincere thanks, on behalf of the local chapter, for all those who so generously gave their time and assistance in rendering the first dose of Salk vaccine to first and second grade pupils recently. Mrs. Clark stated "I have never before seen such splendid cooperation as that rendered by doctors, nurses, volunteers."

Candidates Will Fight Plan 'With All Energy'

The organization candidates for the four constitutional offices in Princess Anne County issued the following statement relative to the newspaper announcement of the proposed annexation move by the City of Norfolk in acquiring more than 41 square miles of the county.

"We have stated from the beginning of this campaign and it is included in our announced platform that we will oppose annexation of any part of the territory of Princess Anne County unless the people by majority vote in the area affected want to be annexed. We will oppose with all our energies the annexation of any part of Princess Anne County by the City of Norfolk.

"We have successfully fought this proposed annexation in the past and we believe that the

Second Polio Vaccine Shots Next Week

The second dose of Salk vaccine is scheduled to be given to all first and second grade children in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County next week. The vaccinations will be given all week at the Health Centre at Princess Anne Court-house and Thursday and Friday at Virginia Beach. This dose will be given free of charge to all children who received the first dose several weeks ago.

Beach Zoning Code May be in For Revision

Zoning and insurance matters took up most of the time at the regular meeting of the Virginia Beach City Council held Monday afternoon and as a result two committees were appointed to investigate both subjects.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch appointed Herbert Terry along with Councilmen W. C. Everett and John McCombs to a committee to make a study of the zoning code of the city with a possibility of revising the code.

A study of the insurance program will be carried out by Councilman W. W. McClanahan and Terry. The latter is at present the agent of record for the city.

The zoning matter came to the attention of the Council in the form of a complaint entered by Mrs. E. A. Clouston who called attention to two commercial signs between 34th Street and the Cavalier Club, which is zoned Residential A.

The question came up concerning the area on the ocean front and on Atlantic Avenue as to whether it should not be rezoned Residential B to permit apartments and the like.

HIGH SCHOOL JAMMED AS ORGANIZATION "OPENS UP"

'Antis' Failed For Campaign of Smear, Insinuation and Inuendo

Speaker Charges "Butsie" Heath "Unfit" to Hold Public Office

Climaxed by a fellow lawyer labeling the anti-organization candidate for commonwealth's attorney as unfit to hold public office, more than 750 persons roared their approval at the first public meeting sponsored by the organization candidates for constitutional offices held in the Virginia Beach High School auditorium last Thursday night.

The final speaker of the evening, Attorney Ernest S. Merrill, made a stinging attack on James E. Heath, the anti-organization's candidate for commonwealth's attorney, who was present at the meeting. Heath attempted to speak from the audience but was promptly shouted down by the wildly cheering crowd. It was at this point that Merrill stated that "Heath had come to the meeting uninvited, then tried to interrupt the meeting and could not contain himself, a further example of his (Heath's) unfitness for the office he seeks."

The organization opened a counter attack on the Ticket for Princess Anne by disclosing to the overflow crowd that the anti-organization group had paid the largest single lump sum of poll taxes in the history of the county. The sum was quoted as $15,500.

The organization ripped into each of the opposing candidates individually, charging that they are seeking office by "dealing in half truths and character assassination."

John E. Marr, the organization candidate for the office of sheriff, was the first speaker, and stated that if he were elected sheriff the jail would be kept in an orderly manner and only those authorized would have access to the keys to the jail.

It was left to V. A. "Jack" Etheridge, the treasurer candidate, and Robert S. "Bob" Wahab, the commonwealth's attorney candidate, to really open up on the Princess Anne Ticket group, all four of whom were seated in the audience.

Wahab opened fire by calling the Ticket for Princess Anne what he practices "political hypocrisy." He said they had told so many untruths that it was his intent "to show by fact their double standard of political morality; the hypocrites to say one thing and do another."

Wahab charged that the matter of block payment of poll taxes had been used by the Princess Anne Ticket as a means to attract attention. He said they did not tell the truth in a statement they issued stating that they had asked Treasurer D. J. Vaughan to refuse to accept such payments. "They did not tell the public," Wahab said, "that less than one hour before calling on the Treasurer, they made a payment of more than $400 in block payment of taxes."

The organization candidate for commonwealth's attorney also accused the anti group of having made the largest single payment of poll taxes in the history of the county just the day before making a great show of securing a writ of mandamus to have the Treasurer allow them to examine the poll tax list. Wahab stated the payment was for some $15,500.

Etheridge lowered the boom on the opposing candidates and stated that the voters had heard only part of the story for so long that "Does anyone think he's going to give up this business and go down to the courthouse and really be treasurer of Princess Anne County?" Etheridge asked.

He assailed the anti ticket's Heath as "well-appointed to carry the torch of righteousness through the highways and byways of Princess Anne County." He recalled that at a Kempsville rally, Heath had told of his folly as a youth.

Etheridge charged Heath with withholding things the public should know, and dared him to "give you all of it."

He said W. W. Oliver, Jr., running for commissioner of the revenue, in the past had tried to have the office abolished as an elective one through backing a move for a county executive form of government. "Since the beginning of this campaign," Etheridge declared, "the anti ticket has deserted appointive powers as a great evil, yet their candidates would change the government to one where the people would have still fewer office holders responsible to them."

He called on Sheriff C. Roger Malbon, running with the Ticket for Princess Anne, to show if there really were irregularities in the big campaign and election (Continued on Page 4)

Mrs. Hedley Chosen "First Citizen" By C'peake Beach Woman's Club

The Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach held their final meeting of the spring on Tuesday, May 16, at 1:00 p. m., in the Chesapeake Beach Community Center.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the selection of Mrs. H. A. Hedley, of Lake Bradford Drive, as the "First Citizen." She has long been associated with Girl Scout work at Chesapeake Beach and in the county. She is assistant chairman of the Princess Anne District of Girl Scouts, a volunteer trainer in Girl Scout Leaders' program; training chairman of the Virginia Tidewater Area Council of Girl Scouts, and among other activities leader of Girl Scout Troop 202 at Chesapeake Beach for the past 6 years. She was director of Camp Linkhorn, Girl Scout day camp, Virginia Beach, in 1952-53.

Besides her scout activities, Mrs. Hedley is active in the Parent-Teacher Association of the Shelton Park School. She is also a Sunday School teacher at Old Donation Church.

Mrs. E. E. Holm will be chairman for the card party in May. It will be held at the Community Center on Tuesday, May 24, and lunch will be served at 12:30, followed by bridge or canasta. Those wishing to make reservations are asked to call either Mrs. Holm or Mrs. B. V. Reynolds, Jr.

The program of the meeting consisted of a fashion show of beachwear from Blacks at Chesapeake Beach. Mrs. W. D. Brooks was the commentator. The following were models in the fashion show: Mrs. J. C. Harmon, Mrs. W. H. Fontana, Mrs. W. J. Wasahly, Mrs. W. R. Greenwell, Mrs. J. W. Grandy, III, Mrs. E. M. George, Mrs. T. E. Allred, Mrs. W. H. Etheridge and Mrs. E. L. King.

The following teen-agers were also models: Diana Drennan, Anna Bland Faison, Rose Marie Hamilton, Karen Causey, Marshall Harrington, Linda Harrell, Owen Beard, Julianne Meyerhoffer, Sue Reynolds and Betty Faison.

Mrs. E. L. King and Mrs. Gordon Oliver put on a humorous pantomime skit. Mrs. J. L. Jude was pianist.

GARDEN CLUB DECLARES WAR ON "BLACK WIDOWS"

The Diamond Springs Garden Club met May 7th at the home of Mrs. Harold McClug on Westbury Road. At the meeting they decided to war on black widow spiders and other pests in the area. Mrs. B. Cato has charge of this project and all of the residents will be contacted personally.

A membership committee was appointed at this meeting, and is composed of Mrs. Cato, Mrs. L. Tucker and Mrs. C. S. Fincher. Mrs. T. Annarino was the guest speaker.

CIVIC LEAGUE PLANS RUMMAGE SALE

The Diamond Spring Civic League ways and means committee is planning a rummage sale. The proceeds will go towards the building fund. Anyone in the area having salable items to contribute is asked to call Mrs. Vera Davenport, LO 3-8080, Mrs. P. Miller, LO 3-8088, or Mrs. Bettie Dail, LO 3-6080.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP WILL CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Girl Scout Troop 202 at Chesapeake Beach will celebrate its eighth birthday on May 21. Mrs. W. B. Meekins, who is taking over the troop from Mrs. H. A. Hedley, is planning a party for the girls in her yard on that day. The girls are looking forward to having a "big time."

The leader has just registered 24 girls in the troop. The troop committee for the coming year is as follows: Mrs. Meekins, leader; Mrs. Carl Girard, assistant leader; Mrs. Joseph Mattox, Mrs. Joel Haskins and Mrs. Hedley, committee.

Ronnie Hedley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hedley of Chesapeake Beach, and Terry Parkerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parkerson, of Chesapeake Beach, are representing Princess Anne High School at a track meet being held at Charlottesville this weekend.

Ocean Park Club Installs Officers; Hears Speaker

The Ocean Park Woman's Club held its regular meeting on Wednesday, May 11, at the Ocean Park Club. Mrs. V. E. Wornham of Hampton, budget and finance chairman of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, installed the following officers for the coming year:

Mrs. R. G. Holloman, president; Mrs. L. D. Mapp, first vice president; Mrs. C. H. Foy, second vice president; Mrs. John M. Bragg, recording secretary; Mrs. E. C. Stowe, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. J. Hiller, treasurer; and Mrs. L. D. Ledbetter, chaplain.

Mrs. Holloman appointed the following committee chairmen:

Mrs. I. F. Nook, fine arts; Mrs. P. B. Everett, American home; Mrs. C. C. Nuckles, public affairs; Mrs. P. W. Jones, international affairs; Mrs. J. O. Amburn, youth conservation; Mrs. R. P. Alexander and Mrs. P. W. DeWalt, membership; Mrs. E. F. Caldwell, hospitality; Mrs. Foy, ways and means; Mrs. Bragg, publicity; Mrs. Ledbetter, parliamentary; Mrs. R. S. Bugge, historian; and Mrs. D. B. Hill, yearbook.

Hear Talk on Federation. Mrs. I. F. Nook, president of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, was guest speaker, taking as her topic "Federation." She declared that "we as a group of 24,000 clubwomen, have a greater responsibility than we realize." She emphasized that "God obligeth no man to do more than He has given him the ability to perform" and declared that "administration of democracy is our heritage. This heritage was handed down from our ancestors and we as clubwomen should work together regardless of our diversities."

Mrs. D. W. Jones, budget and finance chairman, presented the new badge, which was adopted. The club also voted to continue to hold luncheon meetings, and Mrs. Foy, ways and means chairman, outlined plans for the coming year.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Amburn, Mrs. Foy, Mrs. Everett, Mrs. G. W. Bunn, Mrs. C. D. Horton, Mrs. A. F. Main and Mrs. Catherine McQueen.

John Keyes, Now on Radio, Will Play Leads

John Keyes, who will be one of the leading players at Theatre-Go-Round this summer, can now be heard daily on WBOF, Virginia Beach radio.

Keyes, born in Missouri, has worked in all phases of the entertainment world throughout the nation. He has been a leading man in summer stock in Mount Gretna, Penna., and Nantucket, Mass., playing such roles as Tom Pryor in "Outward Bound" and Petruccio in "Taming of the Shrew."

His screen credits include a year and a half with 20th Century-Fox and he has been seen on television both in dramatic roles and in commercials.

Radio is new to John either. He was heard as an announcer on CBS stations in St. Louis and Chicago.

He will appear in a featured role in "Picnic," which opens the Theatre-Go-Round season here on June 28.

The Britanny spaniel was first imported to this country from France in the early 1930's and is rapidly gaining favor as a gun dog.

FT. STORY TELLINGS

A Fort Story saluting battery took part in honors accorded the 15-member NATO council this week at the Norfolk headquarters of Adm. Jerald Wright, Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic. The 19th salute was fired by men of the 566th Terminal Service Company, a 5th T Battalion unit, with the 566th's commanding officer, Capt. William C. Condon, in charge. Members of the battery were: Cpl. LeRoy E. Cheadle, PFC's George A. Saverre, Cecil D. Mongold, Robert O. Krieger, Real V. Doyon and Lloyd L. Lemon; Pvt. Jack M. Randall; Eddie K. Prevost, Raymond L. Purdy, Richard G. Midwood and Otis Lewis.

New Finance Officer at Story is Maj. William P. Frelich of Detroit who joins the command after three years of service at Headquarters, Seventh Army, Europe. A graduate of the Army Finance School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., the major in civilian life worked for the Gulf Oil Corp. at Ann Arbor, Mich. He is a veteran of World War II service in the Pacific.

Story's latest Soldier of the Week, Cpl. Donald R. Aiken, also was honored as Fort Eustis Soldier of the Day where he served as aide to Brig. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln Jr., commanding general of the Transportation Training Command. The 22-year-old soldier from Fremont, Mich., is a member of Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Battalion.

The 47th Class in operation and maintenance of the amphibious truck, conducted by the 461st "Barracuda" DUKW Company, ended this week with 38 men receiving diplomas from Col. Edwin A. Deagle, Story's commanding officer. Honor student of the group was Pvt. Robert L. Francis, 21, of Salem, Ill.

A new Board of Governors for Story's Officers Open Mess was elected by club members this week at an open meeting. They are: Maj. Morris J. Katz, Maj. Martin W. Ramsey, Capt. Warren L. Green, Capt. Homer J. Sivilla, 1st Lt. Jack J. Schwartz and 2nd Lt. Philip J. Moran; with three holdovers, 1st Lt. Robert A. Decker and Vincent M. Russo, and 2nd Lt. Robert H. Fetherston.

Civilian Officials from the Department of Defense visited Story this week, accompanied by the acting commander of the Transportation Research and Development Command at Fort Eustis, Col. Harold H. Cosgray. Heading the group of five was Mr. J. B.

Macaulay, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Development in the Armed Services. He was accompanied by Messrs. G. B. Werzham, P. S. Forsyth, R. A. Ide and M. Bell. Escort officer for the group, which rode one of Story's giant BARCs off Cape Henry, was Lt. Col. R. N. Mausert of the Office of the Secretary of Defense.

A Saturday Parade at Fort Eustis honoring top scorers of the Transportation Training Command who fired in the recent Second Army rifle and pistol tournaments was cancelled because of rain, but they were congratulated individually by Brig. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln Jr. Story was represented by 2nd Lt. Whitman Cross II, who won the individual pistol championship, and M/Sgt. Jack Carpenter. Both will be members of the Second Army Pistol Team.

Story's Post Engineer, Capt. Frank F. Francisco, has departed to attend the Engineer School at Fort Belvoir, Va., prior to reassignment overseas. He will be replaced by Capt. Richard Bricker who is scheduled to report here early next month from Fort Hamilton, N. Y.

Award of Trophies in Story's Bowling League took place at the Officers Mess in a convivial get-together for league members. First place trophies for the top team went to Maj. Earl S. Pierce, Capt. Frank F. Francisco, Capt. John P. Myrdal, Maj. James A. McCaffrey, 1st Lt. Keith J. Lewis, 2nd Lt. Robert J. Korrek and CWO Robert J. Summerhill. Second place team was composed of Col. Edwin A. Deagle, Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward, Lt. Col. Harold P. Baker, Maj. David A. Duffy, Maj. Marcus A. Peterson, Capt. Thomas M. Lawler Jr., and 1st Lt. Robert A. Decker.

New Club Officer for Story's Officers Mess is Capt. John P. Cunningham of Boston. A veteran of World War II service, Captain Cunningham comes here from the European theater where he served with the 26th Transportation Battalion from 1952 to April of this year. He includes the Bronze Star Medal and the French Croix de Guerre with Silver Star among his decorations.

Century Club

6 years old

Century Club—a straight bourbon, light and mild. Since 1883, Century Club has been a whiskey made under strict quality control. Only choice, sun-ripened grains and pure-cultured yeast are used in producing Century Club. After distillation, this whiskey is stored in new charred white oak barrels under temperature and humidity known to be best for proper ageing.

At 6 years of age, its peak of maturity, this whiskey is filtered and inspected to insure that rigid quality standards have been met.

Today, as a result of improved distilling methods, plus years of patient ageing, Century Club surpasses in quality any Century Club previously offered.

Girl Scout District Committee Hears Reports on Year's Activities

The May meeting of the Princess Anne District Committee of Girl Scouts was held at Camp Linnhorne, Virginia Beach on Friday, May 6. Mrs. Lyman Clarke called on the various chairmen for reports.

Mrs. Bagley Walker reported on Camperships for Camp Matoka. Princess Anne District is sending four girls to camp on camperships due to the generous contributions of the following clubs: Princess Anne Jr. Womans Club, East Ocean View Civic League, Cape Henry Womans Club. She also announced the Net Mending get-together at Camp Matoka May 16 an annual affair for adults to mend the mosquito nets.

Mrs. E. C. Mansfield, Day Camp Chairman, announced that Mrs. Jean Snyder, Asst. Day Camp Director for Camp Linnhorne, is attending a two week training session at Camp Rockwood, National Girl Scout Camp, Bethesda, Md. in preparation for directing program at Camp Linnhorne this summer. She also announced the receipt of $400. for overnight and troop camping at Camp Linnhorne from the Princess Anne Jr. Womans Club.

Mrs. J. Cameron Brady, Training Chairman, reported the Basic Leadership Course had been completed May 3rd at Camp Linnhorne with an Outdoor Camping Session. Seven people received their leadership cards. Also five Girl Scout Leaders interested in Senior Program attended a Senior Workshop at Richmond, Va. May 13th. Those who attended were Mrs. Hazel Tucker, Mrs. Rita Hahn, Mrs. J. D. Gregory, Mrs. Mary Nelson, and Mrs. R. T. Gordin, Jr.

Mrs. George Boush, 2nd Vice Chairman reported $50.01 collected from troops for contribution to the Juliette Low World Friendship fund. A Get Well Card was sent to Mrs. Leonard A. Carter, Neighborhood Chairman Oceana Neighborhood. It was announced that Oceana Neighborhood is having a Square Dance Saturday, May 21 from 5 to 9.

It was announced that Princess Anne District now has 53 troops, 895 girls, and 210 adults registered in Girl Scouting.

The Committee passed the presentation of three 1st Class Badges and nine Curved Bars to be given at the E. O. V. - Bel Aire Neighborhood Rally, The Bayside Neighborhood Campership and the Kempsville Neighborhood Rally. The following girls are to receive the awards:

address of welcome. Judith Ann Taylor, daughter of Mrs. F. W. Israel, is class salutatorian, and will deliver a short farewell address.

The high school chorus, under the direction of J. W. Miller, will sing.

The following students were chosen by the faculty to serve as marshals at graduation: Cleve Gayle, Suzanne Hestand, Priscilla Weeden, Linda Hearne, Connie Musick, Penny Biera and Ruth Thompson. They will act as ushers and lead the processional at the baccalaureate sermon Sunday night, June 5, and also for the graduation exercises on the 6th.

Seats for both occasions will be reserved for the parents of the seniors and other special guests.

brought the insurance matter up. They proposed that a restudy be made of the city's insurance program with a view toward permitting all agents to participate.

Council directed McClanahan and Terry to survey the city's insurance coverage and report both to the council and to the association.

The association proposed that someone in the city government be delegated to supervise the insurance program, with the association assisting in keeping the program up to date.

It suggested that an agent of record receive 50 per cent of the commissions, with the remaining 50 per cent being split among the participating members.

Cape Henry Club Hears Mr. Huette

"Our forefathers certainly knew what they were doing when they made their first settlement right here in our midst. There is no doubt that it was selected on account of its natural beauty. Dogwood thrives abundantly, botanists find growth in our state parks and forests that are found in no section of the country and certain species of plants which grow no further north and others no further south. Gardenias grow no further north and certainly no more beautiful than right here." These are the words of Fred Huette, Superintendent of Parks, Forests and Cemeteries for the Tidewater area, when he addressed the members of the Cape Henry Woman's Club at their final meeting of the season held last Thursday at the Princess Anne Country Club. Further quoted Mr. Huette, "in my opinion, you people could not have selected a more appropriate name for the name of your club than 'Cape Henry Woman's Club.' It seems to me that Virginia Beach could easily be made a year 'round vacation land instead of only six months."

Mrs. Roy Booker gave the invocation and the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Everett Wilson, due to an illness of the president, Mrs. W. W. Connell, Jr. Mrs. Cecil Reed gave a short talk on plans for the forthcoming "Lotus Festival."

One new member, Mrs. W. C. Sawyer, was introduced to the Club.

A display of paintings done by the Art Department was on exhibit. The program was sponsored by the Garden Department. Mrs. Delmar J. Dee, Chairman, who introduced the speaker, Mr. Huette answered garden questions from members following his talk.

Beach Netmen Edge Cradock

A victory in doubles play by the team of Emanuel Katsias and Ashley Haycox made the difference Monday as the Virginia Beach tennis team edged Cradock, 6-3 on the loser's court.

Virginia Beach winners in three consecutive matches, swept three singles matches before Cradock managed to score. The hosts piled up two victories in singles play and won a doubles match to offer the serious challenge.

Emanuel Katsias (Virginia Beach) defeated Carl Hester, 6-0, Ashley Haycox (Virginia Beach) defeated Joe Tyler, 6-1, 6-2.

George Ouellette (Va. Beach) defeated Bob Well, 6-3, 6-0.

Buddy Fraleigh (Cradock) defeated Bill Porterhouse, 6-4, 7-5.

Miss Myrle Woodward (Va. Beach) defeated Bob Gray, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Bernie Kirsh (Cradock) defeated Miss Tia Davis, 6-0, 6-3.

Doubles: Katsias and Haycox (Virginia Beach) defeated Gray and Hester, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

Fraleigh and Kirsh (Cradock) defeated Watts and Everett, 6-2, 6-3.

The first transatlantic telephone cable will be completed in 1956.

Armed Forces Day Parade in Norfolk Saturday

An outstanding program portraying the "Power for Peace" strength of America's military forces will be staged in Norfolk on Armed Forces Day, this Saturday, May 21.

A parade through downtown Norfolk and an open house at the Norfolk Army Base on Hampton Blvd. have been scheduled by units of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and Air Force. Each service is contributing equipment which will be displayed in the parade and at the Army Base exhibits.

Five bands and nearly 900 marching men and women will move down Granby Street in the Armed Forces Day Parade, commencing at 10 a.m. Norfolk's Mayor W. F. Duckworth and Rear Admiral J. P. Womble, Commander Service Forces, Atlantic Fleet, will lead the column.

The parade units will form on Olney Road, move south on Granby to Main; west on Main St. to Boush and North on Boush St. to Olney Road. The parade units will pass the reviewing stand at Boush and College Place. Leading civic and military officials will view the parade from the stand.

Included along with bands and marching units will be heavy equipment, trucks, floats and other mobile displays provided by the various services. The Army will have in the parade a platoon of 12 amphibious trucks, jeeps, a 90 mm anti-aircraft gun, and a Nike guided missile in addition to marching units.

As the parade moves off at 10 a.m., the Norfolk Army Base will open its gates for a day long open house. Civilian visitors will see a Coast Guard demonstration of the Breeches buoy rescue technique and a display of navigation equipment.

A helicopter and jet fighter plane will be displayed at the Army Base along with Nike guided missile and a mobile kitchen. Many of the parade exhibits will also be brought to the open house area.

In addition to the Army Base open house, the Third Anti-Aircraft Artillery group will open its four 90 mm anti-aircraft batteries to visitors from 2-4 p.m. Three of the batteries are located in the Ocean View area and the fourth is at Diamond Springs, just off highway 13.

Fort Story Men and Equipment In Armed Forces Day Exercises

Troops, amphibious vehicles and equipment from Fort Story will be featured prominently in Saturday's Armed Forces Day celebrations in the Tidewater area.

The Cape Henry Army post will take part in parades in Norfolk, Portsmouth and at Fort Eustis, also in demonstrations and exhibits at Fort Eustis and Hampton Roads Sub-Port of Embarkation.

The Norfolk parade at 10 a.m. will include two companies of Fort Story foot troops and 12 DUKWs. Lt. Col. James F. Wolaver, commanding officer of the 5th Transportation Battalion, will lead these units, with a staff composed of Maj. Herman Nadler and 1st Lts. Albert K. Mode and Joseph G. Farrell.

In addition to a Color Guard from the battalion Headquarters Company, the participating units will be two DUKW companies, the 344th commanded by 1st Lt. Jack J. Schwartz, and the 666th, commanded by 1st Lt. Nathaniel R. Thompson. The DUKWs in the parade will be from another company, the 458th, with 2nd Lt. Hugh H. Little Jr. as officer in charge.

The same DUKWs will later be on display at Hampton Roads where a BARC from Fort Story's 554th Heavy Boat Company will be lifted by a 100-ton crane.

The Portsmouth parade will have Fort Story represented by a unit of the 54th Transportation Battalion, the 461st DUKW Company, commanded by Capt. Thomas M. Lawler Jr. His staff members will be 2nd Lts. James P. Dollard, Richard Cornick, George W. Jackson and Lloyd A. Hendrickson. At Fort Eustis 12 DUKWs from Fort Story's 347th DUKW Company, commanded by 1st Lt. Barclay M. Dorset, will take part in a parade and later be available to the public for rides on the James River. Another of the 554th Heavy Boat Company's gliders will take riders at Fort Eustis during the day's open-house festivities.

A third BARC is being sent by the Transportation Research and Development Command from Fort Story to Bolling Air Force Base in Washington for display and demonstration there. Also on view will be the Superdick, larger and more modern version of the DUKW of World War II fame.

teacher workers, school teachers and chapter members as that recently displayed when the first dose of Salk vaccine was administered to first and second grade pupils in Princess Anne and Virginia Beach. The entire program was timed so well that everything went off like clockwork. Mrs. Clinton Walker and Mrs. B. Y. Porter, co-chairmen of the operation, together with Mrs. J. D. Cassada worked night and day in order to get everything in readiness for the vaccinations to be given at a scheduled time. Mrs. Clark also stated that the children left with a broad happy smile after receiving their lollipop, a gift from J. D. Ingram Pharmacy, Powell's Confectionery and Heppie Bros.

FLAGRANT HYPOCRISY

In an effort to gain publicity which they apparently feel they need desperately by any means possible the Dunn Machine candidates some time ago visited the county treasurer's office to talk about the block payment of poll taxes. Just one hour before their visit this group had made a block payment of poll taxes totalling some $400. Later on this same group made the largest single block payment of poll taxes in the history of the county.

This clearly demonstrates, to us, the type of hypocrites the Dunn Machine candidates are and the hypercritical political campaign they are conducting. To bring this more forcibly to the attention of the public on last Saturday they issued a statement in which they said only ONE member of their group, Roger Malbon, had made any payment of poll taxes. We doubt that even this is a true statement and we expect a close examination of the record will reveal that other members of their ticket have acted as agents in the payment of poll taxes other than their own.

If the records do reveal that others of their group have made payment of poll taxes how can the public have any confidence in these men. An examination of these records should be made to determine just what the facts are. And, while they have attempted to put all the blame on one of their candidates the blame for this hypocrisy and these hypercritical methods lies with all of the Dunn Machine candidates, without exception.

HEATH'S UNFITNESS

Last week at the Virginia Beach High School a prominent attorney of this area asserted that James E. "Butsie" Heath was totally unfit to hold the position he seeks, that of commonwealth's attorney. He further stated that at his Kempsville meeting Heath had revealed just a little bit of his past record and that his evil did not cease when he moved to Princess Anne County.

Heath attempted to gain the platform at the meeting maybe to reveal some of his past. This newspaper has repeatedly called on Heath to discuss his qualifications for the office he seeks and to reveal ALL of his past record, which would include not only his arrests and convictions but the NAMES OF THE ORGANIZATIONS HE IS NOW OR WAS FORMERLY CONNECTED WITH. It seems to this newspaper that anyone who is a candidate for such a responsible position as commonwealth's attorney should welcome the opportunity to present his qualifications for this office and if he is not ashamed of his past record which he says he is not, then Heath should reveal the record to the public and be sure and tell it ALL.

MALBON - THE GOAT

Last week C. Roger Malbon, the Dunn Machine candidate for Sheriff, took another lambasting from his running mates when they issued a statement accusing Malbon of all the wrongdoings for their group in their latest publicity stunt in the block payment of poll taxes. It will be remembered that when one of his running mates announced for justice of the peace from the Lynnhaven District he gave what many considered a bitter denunciation of the things that Malbon had participated in. It is rumored that the breach among the Dunn Machine candidates continues to widen even though they continue to issue statements denying it.

Malbon could probably correct a great part of this if he would issue a forthright statement revealing his past and in order to refresh his memory the SUN-NEWS again asks him the following questions:

1. Who made cash contributions to Malbon to help defray legal expenses when his now associates attempted to have him removed from office?
2. Was he not driving a borrowed automobile when he "missed" the road and wrecked the car against a tree? And, did he not have someone else sign as the driver of that car to take the blame off himself?
3. Whether he or his close associate, Frank Dixon, ever "gave" or sold to "Spot" Ferguson, one roulette wheel?
4. Whether or not A. E. "Speed" Fentress moved a cottage for him for which he would normally charge $1800 and whether or not he (Malbon) paid Fentress, and if not, why not and what did he (Malbon) expect "Speed" Fentress to do for him?
5. Whether or not "Speed" Fentress moved a cottage for Malbon and his Deputy Ed

Notes from YOUR COUNTY AGENT
By DICK COCKRELL
County Agricultural Agent

Seed Sudan Grass For Summer Pasture
Guard against the summer slump in permanent pasture production by seeding with sudan grass.

Sudan grass, seeded early to give grazing during July and August, is one solution to the problem. In years when regular pastures are adequate to meet grazing needs, sudan can be cut for silage or hay. Also, having a field of sudan to graze in midsummer may make it possible to save on early cut forage, or prevent having to graze alfalfa when you need it for winter feed.

Fertile well. A fast growing plant such as sudan needs a good source of plant food. Use from 600 to 800 pounds per acre of a 10-10-10 fertilizer, or equivalent. Prepare a good seed bed much as you would for corn.

Some Timely Tips For Poultry Raisers
There are some tricks of the trade when it comes to making profits in the poultry business. Poultry specialists at VPI have a few timely tips on management and feeding of the growing stock at this time of year.

Resistant Hybrids Best Control of Corn Smut
Planting resistant hybrids offers the most promising way to control corn smut effectively, say VPI specialists.

BABES FOR THE WOODS

These future pine trees, only three or four days old, are so young and small that the seed coats are still on the cotyledons. They are part of the 20 million seedlings now being grown for the Governor's "Plant More Trees" program. The hand belongs to G. William King, a nurseryman at the New Kent forest nursery near Providence Forge.

commended hybrids are reasonably resistant. Plant breeders are making rapid progress in developing new hybrids highly resistant to smut.

Corn smut is not a seed-borne disease; therefore, seed disinfection does not help. Collecting and destroying galls will help some, but this is practical only in small plantings. Crop rotations in which corn is not grown more often than one year in three will help reduce concentration of the fungus in the soil. The smut fungus lives over from year to year in old smutty corn stalks. The smut spores may be blown by the wind for considerable distances. Therefore, locate the new field as far as practical from last year's smutty corn field.

The factors which determine the amount of common smut are not fully understood. Dry weather in late spring and early summer seems to favor its spread and development. Corn grown on heavily manured soils often shows a lot of smut. Plants on such soil make a succulent growth, which probably makes it easy for the fungus to penetrate. Such soils also may provide a good medium for over-wintering and germination of the smut spores. Hail damage, injuries from cultivating equipment, or detasseling, may uproot exposed tissues which will favor the start of smut infection.

Of Interest To Homemakers

By MRS. ELIZABETH D. DEAL Home Demonstration Agent

HOUSE IMPROVEMENT TRENDS SHOW NEED FOR MORE CAREFUL PLANNING

New house building, and modernization of old houses, continues at a high level in both rural and urban areas — but owners still do not plan as carefully as they should, says Miss Mary B. Settle, housing specialist at VPI.

Almost three-fourths of all homeowners made some expenditures in 1954 for material or labor to repair, improve, or enlarge their houses, according to a recent report from the U. S. Census Bureau. Farm families spent less than non-farm families, as they apparently used more family labor.

The census report shows further, Miss Settle says, that heavy expenditures are being made on two groups of houses. The first group consist of relatively new houses which do not meet the owner's present need for space. Among these are many small two-bedroom houses, built or bought by young families in the hectic years of 1945-48. The families have grown since then, and now try to get more bedroom and living space by adding a room or two to the original house. Unfortunately the design of many of these small houses, or their site limitations, do not permit satisfactory enlargement.

The second group of houses on which heavy expenditures are being made are those over 25 years old which have recently been acquired by new owners. These usually need extensive renovation to bring them up to date.

These trends in house building and remodeling have been accompanied by some improvement in the plans made for doing the work. But even in the new house of today, the kitchen, where the homemaker spends so much time, continues to be the most poorly planned room in the house. This is true in spite of provisions for modern appliances. Miss Settle says most house planners need to provide for such things as deep-sinked kitchen and utility areas, adequate storage in the right places, and either three bedrooms or provisions for adding satisfactorily the third or even the fourth bedroom.

Farmhouses, especially, need all of these, plus water systems and better heating.

Miss Settle says each individual family should set the best information available for developing or selecting good house plans. House building or remodeling with modern families is a long-time goal.

Farm families with whom the VPI Agricultural Extension Service will be working on long-time plans for farm and home development will find it to their advantage to use this help in relation to housing improvement.

The farm family's dwelling is a particularly important unit on the farm, as it is both a residence and business headquarters.

LEMONS ADD FOOD SPARKLE

Lemons can transform often-neglected but necessary vegetables into tastier foods.

VPI nutrition specialists say a dish of lemon quarters served with vegetables will add zest.

Lemon butter, made with two parts melted butter and one part lemon juice, is good with asparagus, artichokes, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and brussels sprouts.

A few drops of lemon juice on melon bring out a hidden flavor. Lemon juice also is good in prune, pineapple, tomato and other fruit juices.

For breakfast, try sprinkling buttered waffles or hot cakes with sugar and a liberal squeeze of lemon juice.

New Strawberry Packaging is Recommended

The Association of Virginia Potato and Vegetable Growers has gone on record as favoring the packing of part of this year's Virginia strawberry crop in new type containers.

W. F. McCaleb, Jr., executive vice-president of the association, has completed a survey of the types of containers most desired by the fresh market retail trade. Based on the results of this investigation, the association is advocating the use of the 24 pint crate for packing the new quality varieties such as the Pocahontas, the Massey and the Albritton, which are becoming established in Virginia. Mr. McCaleb pointed out that top quality berries such as these varieties with good color and large size will yield the farmer substantially more return if they are in the new 24 pint crate.

For the best grades of the Blakemore strawberry, it is felt that the 16 quart crate will be a more profitable pack. This pack might also be profitably used towards the end of the season with the Pocahontas and other new larger varieties. The medium and lower grades of Blakemores, most of which go to processors, will give a better return to the farmer when packed in the conventional 24 quart crate.

McCaleb stated: "To realize the greatest return on his strawberries, a farmer must be in a position to pack his berries in the container which best suits their

Giant Amphibs to Get Performance Tests in SUNEAC

The Army Transportation Corps' giant amphibious carrier, the Barc, will get its first performance tests in far northern waters this summer when it takes part in the 1955 SUNEAC (Support Unit North East Command) operation.

At Fort Story, home of the four experimental amphibians already built, plans call for them to be moved to Goose Bay, Labrador, and Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island after June.

The 554th Transportation Company (heavy boat), the Barc unit of the 54th T Battalion at Fort Story, is one of three companies from the Cape Henry amphibious training center that will participate in SUNEAC. Others are the 665th Dukw Company, also of the 54th, and the 565th Terminal Service Company of the 5th T Battalion.

In preparation for the SUNEAC move, Capt. George G. Hendrickson, officer in charge of Transportation Research and Development Command's Barc Test Team at Fort Story, will shortly assume command of the 554th. In February, 1954, Captain Hendrickson supervised the only previous use of the 98-ton carrier overseas when Barc 3-X took part in the ODEX maneuvers on the coast of France.

The Barcs are scheduled to return from SUNEAC by the end of September. Other units will be back at Fort Story by mid-October.

The big amphibians, which measure 61 feet in length and roll on times almost 10 feet high, will be shipped north out of Hampton Roads Sub-Port of Embarkation in Norfolk.

quality. Retailers want top quality berries in pints and they will pay well for this pack. Such berries should be carefully picked at proper maturity and will command substantial premiums in a normal market.

"As the season progresses and quality begins to decline, a farmer should switch back first to the 16 quart crate for the Pocahontas and back to the 24 quart crate for Blakemores.

"It is doubtful if anything but the very finest Blakemores at the early part of the season can be profitably be put in pints. We believe that top quality Blakemores can be packed profitably in the 16 quart crate."

McCaleb went on to assert that "it is the housewife who ultimately determines what Virginia farmers get for their strawberries. She will pay a fancy price for a fancy product and it is up to us, if we are to receive the best returns for our efforts, to see that she gets this. It is impossible to over-emphasize the importance of appearance, careful picking and packing in the suitability of a highly perishable commodity such as strawberries."

"The Pocahontas and other new varieties offer Virginia a great opportunity to begin meeting the demands of the quality market. Based on the experience of other strawberry growing areas, a quality product will pay off to the farmer."

Open seven days a week the year around, the Ford Rotunda at Dearborn is the world's largest permanent industrial exhibition building.

Two Tumor Clinics Operating In Norfolk Hospitals at Present

Norfolk's tumor clinic service, started in 1938 by a small group of physicians, last year registered 30 times the number of new patients that were surveyed in the first year of operation.

For 16 years, a clinic was operated in the downtown Norfolk area, then last September service was revised with closure of the old clinic, and establishment of two clinics, one at Norfolk General Hospital, for which Dr. R. L. Payne, Jr. is director, and one at DePaul Hospital, for which Dr. William E. Byrd is director.

The original tumor clinic for the Norfolk area was started in 1938 by a small group of physicians, under the leadership of Dr. Lomax Gwathmey and the late Dr. Julian L. Rawls. They appreciate the growing cancer problem and saw the need for doctors interested in the disease to be able to see patients as a group and to advise and treat them.

In the first year the doctors saw 150 patients in a total of 360 visits. In the year ending last June, 3,307 new patients were registered and a total of 11,181 visits were made.

The Junior Woman's Club of Norfolk raised the money which first put the clinic in operation. The division of the clinic and transfer to the two hospitals necessitated no change in the clinic operations and was regarded as advantageous in putting the clinics in direct association with the hospitals.

Though the bulk of the patients surveyed in the clinics are from Norfolk, many are registered from surrounding towns and counties in Virginia, from the Eastern Shore and from eastern North Carolina.

The Norfolk clinics are two of 20 serving cancer patients throughout Virginia. These are an integral part of the organization of the American Cancer Society's Virginia Division, which is now finishing up its annual campaign for funds.

The objectives of the Norfolk clinics are to see that every patient with a malignancy has the advantage of modern therapy; to maintain a cross-index file on malignant tumors in the Tidewater area; to teach the diagnosis and therapy of cancer to interns and residents; and to set up a system of securing aid for those who are financially unable to obtain the necessary studies and treatment.

Farmers are finding that a permanent and reasonably priced pre-proofing for farm buildings and storage bins can be made of asbestos-cement board. It is readily obtainable and can be easily installed.

Cavalier Juniors Will Install Officers on 21st

The Cavalier Junior Woman's Club will hold an installation dinner-dance meeting at Pine Tree Inn on Saturday, May 21, at 7 p. m. The meeting will be under the direction of Mrs. L. C. Brennan, social chairman, with the program being directed by Mrs. Jeff C. Wells.

Mrs. B. W. Baker, Junior Vice President of the Tidewater District of Women's Clubs, and former president of the Portsmouth Junior Woman's Club, will serve as installing officer.

New officers to be installed are: Mrs. E. J. Gerloff, Jr., president; Mrs. E. G. Middleton, Jr., first vice president; Mrs. W. C. Shepherd, second vice president; Mrs. Jeff C. Wells, recording secretary; Mrs. W. A. Rapp, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. B. R. Middleton, treasurer.

Mrs. Gerloff will introduce her new board of governors at this meeting and Stanley Walker will be the guest speaker.

The invocation will be by Mrs. Mary Ann Bush.

Campaign to Save Historic Home Nears Success

Success in the campaign to raise $115,000 to preserve the old Adam Thoroughgood House in Princess Anne County seems assured, according to a report released this week by a special committee which has been working on the project.

Henry Clay Hoffmeister II, Norfolk civic and industrial leader, who has spearheaded the campaign, has been elected president of the corporation being formed to administer the properties.

Other officers of the corporation are John L. Roper II, vice president; Fletcher Garlock, secretary; and Edward J. Brickhouse, treasurer.

The move to purchase and preserve the house, which is believed to be the oldest house standing in Virginia, was begun several months ago. Plans are to make the house an historic shrine for posterity.

RELIGIOUS ART TO BE DISPLAYED AT BEACH

"The Lord's Last Supper," a remarkable life-size reproduction in wax, is being sponsored by the Virginia Beach Volunteer Fire Department here today through Sunday. The three-dimensional exhibit is a faithful study of Leonardo da Vinci's famous painting. It will be open to the public at 18th Street and Atlantic Avenue.

There is no admission charge, but a free-will offering will be accepted after the exhibit has been viewed. Funds realized from the reproduction will be used to further the work of the Virginia Beach Fire Department.

H. B. Maxey, originator and designer of the display, estimates that more than 10,000,000 people have seen the $50,000 exhibit since it was first created in 1940.

"The Lord's Last Supper" follows da Vinci's masterpiece faithfully. Detailed study was made of the painting, often with a magnifying glass, enabling the artist to copy faithfully the hair styles, facial scars, coloring, and even such trivial items as the finger-nails.

The life-size figures were sculptured by Maxey and his foster son, George Edmund Reed of Atlantic City, N. J. After the figures were produced in clay they were placed in a three-section plaster of paris mold. Into this mold was poured hot melted wax, and when the wax was hardened to a depth of five-eighths of an inch it was removed from the mold.

Tedious detail work was then begun. The wax was tinted in flesh color, glass eyes were inserted and human hair implanted into the images, one strand at a time. A small broken needle was used in putting the hair in place.

Fourteen months of exacting work went into the preparation of the exhibit. The twelve figures are seated around Christ at a 16-foot banquet table. The Master and His apostles, including Judas the betrayer, are dressed in the colors and fashions of the times. The table is set with authentic copies of items used as models by da Vinci in his painting.

The exhibit is housed in a special built trailer with an interior walkway along one length. The display is behind glass and the entire room is air-conditioned to maintain a temperature of 70 degrees.

"The Lord's Last Supper" is being shown throughout the United States and 33 foreign countries. The exhibit is not affiliated with any religious sect. It is a serious study of religious art and has proven an inspiration to the millions who have seen it.

The Rev. B. D. Castor, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Concord, N. C., says, "I would like to commend it highly as a minister... it goes straight to the heart with an impression that, in many cases, will last for a lifetime."

Others have called the exhibit "a spiritual uplift," an "inspiring work of art," "a new meaning of religion," and "an inspiration to everyone, regardless of his religion."

The directors of the exhibition especially urge that the schools, churches and Sunday School classes attend this showing, especially ministers and teachers.

This exhibit was a feature attraction on the famous Steel Pier at Atlantic City, for four years. The same wax artist has a permanent display, "March of Time," on display at the pier.

The exhibit is directed by Robert W. Ward and Robert Ward, Jr., of Stuart, Fla.

Cavalier Garden Club Plans for Series of Clinics and Workshops

The Cavalier Garden Club has announced plans for garden clinics and flower workshops to be conducted periodically during the current club year. The first of a series of garden clinics will take place Friday of this week in Mrs. Gilmore Tilbrook's garden. During this program many yards will be visited with the idea of solving gardening problems, giving ideas, sharing surplus plants, and treating plants and shrubs. A committee will visit any member's garden by request to aid with any problems which may arise.

The first flower workshop will be held Monday at the home of Mrs. P. G. Barham. Members will bring their own containers and plant materials and will receive instruction on flower arranging.

Mrs. Tilbrook installed the following officers for the coming year: Mrs. Barham, President; Mrs. Rudolph Watson, Jr., Vice President; Mrs. H. B. Kellam, Secretary; Mrs. Kermit Robinson, Corresponding Secretary; and Mrs. E. A. Hoffmeister, Treasurer. Mrs. Walton G. Saunders, retiring President, was paid tribute by Mrs. J. E. Addenbrook and presented a silver flower bowl from the club members.

"Father of the Bride," Hilarious Comedy, is Fun for Entire Family

"Father of the Bride," the fun-for-the-family comedy by Caroline Francke, based on the novel by Edward Streeter, comes to the Virginia Beach High School for a two night run May 23-24. Final play of the Little Theatre's 1954-55 season, "Father of the Bride" is directed by Mrs. Arthur Masury and features Andy Reid in the title role.

Pat Wade, as Kay Banks, the bride, will shine in all her glory in a bridal gown loaned by Cynthia Lee, bridal consultant for the bride's salon. Rice's Pat has had a busy year with the Little Theatre. She has appeared in two other productions this year, "The Glass Mountain," and "Angel Street," in which she played the saucy maid. Playing the bride will call for a complete change of pace, but versatile Pat is said to take it in her stride. Her theatre background includes musical comedy work and opera, as well as professional TV appearances. She is also assistant production manager for "Father of the Bride."

Tickets may be purchased at Jarvis or at the Virginia Beach High School, or may be reserved by telephoning 2488-W.

Other members of the production staff are Allen Tyler, stage manager, assisted by Jill Trautner and Jean Arnold; Chame Grandy and Elizabeth May, scenic artists; Ann Pennington, assisted by Mary Lou Edwards and Doris Arthur, stage settings; Miles Chappell, Carpenter; Janet Lawrence, props; Kitty Manby, costumes; Betty Munford and Ann McNamara, make-up; Don Peterson, lights, and Henry Arnold, sound.

Question: How can I reduce the cost of my new home without sacrificing quality? Have you any tips?

Answer: You can save several hundred dollars alone by using the right grade of lumber for each use. Studs of No. 3 Douglas fir or west coast hemlock are more than strong enough for one-story homes. It is useless to insist on clear lumber when appearance is not the purpose, only stiffness and strength. Lower grades are adequate for sheathing, roofing and subfloors. For years we have always used better grades of lumber than needed.

Sam Foote Heads Rescue Squad

At the recent business meeting of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County Rescue Squad, Sam Foote was elected captain for the coming year.

Other officers elected were: William McDonald, 1st lieutenant; Drewery Beasley, 2nd lieutenant; Arthur Stallings, sergeant; Ned Langhorne, secretary; William Phillips, treasurer; Marvin Hines, public relations, and Arthur Murray, chaplain.

Senior officers were: E. B. Bayne, president; Hall Snellings, vice president; J. P. Holland, Jr., C. Leonard Fisher and Reuben Trant, trustees; Dr. J. A. White, Dr. Robert Webb and Mrs. William Dewalt, medical advisors; P. O. Miller, legal advisor.

Installation of officers will be held at the annual banquet on May 23 at the American Legion Club.

Representatives to the Council of Garden Clubs, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Burleson and Mrs. Barham.

New SCA Officers Are Installed

On Friday morning, May 13th, at 10:00 in the V. E. H. S. auditorium, the Student Council Association held its installation for the new officers of 1955-56.

With a procession, being led by Principal James A. Johnson, Jr., the members of the Student Council Association marched down the auditorium by candle light to the music of God of Our Fathers.

When all members were assembled on the stage — the audience, along with the high school chorus, sang the S. C. A. song after which Mr. Walter Parker, S.C.A. Sponsor, led the group in prayer. At the conclusion of the devotional services the chorus, led by Mr. J. William Miller, sang the song — "We are Lighting the Candles of the S.C.A." — while Mrs. Margaret Jeter, Assistant Principal, rendered the impressive candle light installation service.

Myrtle Woodward, S. C. A. President of 1954-55, Lena Hutenspieler — Vice President, Anita Cruser — Secretary, Virginia Humphries — Treasurer, blew out their candles signifying the year of 1954-55 coming to a close. Then in like manner the candles were relighted while Frank Tarrell, New S. C. A. President for 1955-56 took his oath of office along with — Bill Culverhouse — Vice President, Linda Hearne — Secretary, Gray Schaefer — Treasurer.

At the conclusion of this, Miss Jo Ann Johnson, a talented senior, sang "Follow the Glean" after which President Frank Tarrell rendered the S.C.A. obligation along with the entire school.

Mr. James A. Johnson, Jr. then presented the new officers with small pins to designate their new responsibility that they were so recently elected to. Lastly, in turn, the group all marched from the stage, by candlelight out into the audience.

With the program then being complete, Mr. Johnson thanked Mr. Walter Parker for all of the work he had done as S.C.A. Sponsor for the year and congratulated Mr. Parker on the successful year he and the S.C.A. group had accomplished.

The S.C.A. members for the 1954-55 school year have been: Eddie Bonney, P. B. White, Alice Savage, Joan Stephen, Tommy

AAA Safety Poster Urges Children To "Play Away From Traffic"

"Playing in the street is one of the greatest causes of death and injury to children under 14 years of age," John B. Dey, vice president, Tidewater Automobile Association, said today in announcing that the monthly AAA Traffic Safety Poster for May illustrates the very important rule: "Play Away From Traffic."

The colorful poster has been distributed to schools in the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County area by the Tidewater Automobile Association this month because with summer nearly here more and more

Eleanor Fulton Will Participate in Wellesley-Vassar Internship Program

A participant in the Wellesley-Vassar Internship program this summer will be Miss Eleanor Fulton, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Robert M. Fulton of 307 Cheswick Drive, Birdneck Point. Thirty girls from Wellesley and from Vassar Colleges, participating for the first time this year, will have a chance to gain a practical knowledge of the workings of the United States government by spending six weeks, from June 14 to July 23, in federal executive agencies, offices of members of Congress, and offices of special Lawyer Addresses Class in Gov't.

Mr. Richard Brydges, a prominent lawyer of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, gave a talk for the second bell Government Class on Wednesday, May 11, 1955. The talk was on civil government and local affairs — political wise.

Questions on his talk were asked by Maria Abernathy, George Sanderlin, Jack Mackey, and Don Moss. On some of these questions Mr. Brydges preferred not to give his view because of the idea it is not wise to speak for or against local political parties.

The talk covered all that we have been studying in Government Class this past six weeks. Much was derived from Mr. Brydges talk. Mr. Brydges went to high school in Lynchburg, Virginia, college at Notre Dame, and graduated in 1942. He attended law school at the University of Virginia and has been practicing law in Virginia since 1948.

The class considered themselves fortunate to have Mr. Brydges talk to them. Mr. Walter Parker is the American Government teacher at the City High School.

AAA Safety Poster Urges Children To "Play Away From Traffic"

children will be playing outdoors. Mr. Dey said that the poster "should help to have some effect on children, but parents should also repeat the warning just as often as possible so that the fact that playing in or near streets is dangerous is firmly planted in every child's mind." The motor club official also pointed out that this is a very good time for parents and local authorities to review existing recreation facilities to determine if there are ample fenced-in playgrounds. "Past experience has proven that unless children are given a good place to play, well protected from traffic, it is often impossible to keep them from playing in the street," Mr. Dey added.

The poster was designed by Jerry Thompson, a student at Idaho Falls High School, Idaho Falls, Idaho. Jerry's poster won first prize in its division of the Tenth Annual Traffic Safety Poster contest, sponsored by the American Automobile Association. Because of its striking simplicity, it was selected for reproduction by the AAA and for national distribution as an aid to safety education.

County Student Killed in Crash

A Princess Anne County college student was killed early Monday morning in a two-car head-on collision 10 miles east of Lynchburg.

The dead youth is Basil Squires, Jr., 20, foster son of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Squires. Injured in the crash were Mrs. Lois Thomas Squires, his wife, and Jeanette Thomas, 20. The Squire's 10-month old daughter was thrown clear of the car and escaped injury.

Driver of the second car was identified as William Jeffries, 19, of Forrest. He was admitted to a Lynchburg hospital for observation.

Surviving Squires, in addition to his wife, his foster parents, his father, and his sister-in-law are two half-sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Rawls and Mrs. Dorothy Ann Jennings, both of Hickory, and his step-mother, Mrs. Dorothy Kears Squires, of Hickory.

Janice Gregory Takes Honors At Horse Show

Miss Janice Gregory, of Virginia Beach, a freshman at Mary Washington College, Fredericksburg, carried off top honors in the school's horse show held recently.

Miss Gregory, a 1954 graduate of Virginia Beach High School, won two first places and received the achievement award for the year. She finished on top in intermediate equitation and advanced jumping. She was crowned reserve champion and placed fourth in hoof prints alumnae challenge trophy equitation.

The show was held at the Oak Hill stables in Fredericksburg.

Miss Gregory is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gregory, 33rd Street and Arctic Avenue. Night tours of its steel-making operations are offered visitors to the Ford Dearborn plant. These tours are the only regular evening visitor trips in the automobile industry.

Mrs. Addington is the former Miss Elizabeth Crowley, of Littleton, N. C. Mr. Addington is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Addington of Great Neck Road.

Miss Bettye Reaves Becomes Bride Of Kelsay Darst, Jr.

Trinity Episcopal Church, Portsmouth, was the setting last Saturday night for the marriage of Miss Bettye Jacqueline Reaves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton R. Reaves, of Portsmouth, to Kelsay Glendy Darst, Jr., son of Mrs. Katherine Old Darst, of Budeck Point, and the late Mr. Kelsay Glendy Darst. The Rev. Chauncey F. Minnick, rector of the church, performed the ceremony. Dr. Joseph Stephens played the wedding music and Henry A. Gilbert sang several selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of classic design, made of Chantilly lace in a mink shade. The skirt was gathered at the waistline and draped at the back to chapel train length. Her head-dress was a miniature coronet of Chantilly on satin, embroidered in seed pearls and sequins. She carried a prayer book topped with a purple-throated orchid, with satin ribbon streamers.

Miss Mary Moynihan was maid of honor and Mrs. Henry Gilbert was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William R. Pope, Jr., Mrs. Robert A. Craig, Jr., Mrs. Delores Bowen and Mrs. Anthony Hutchinson, all of Portsmouth.

Mrs. W. E. Hoffer, Jr., was mistress of ceremonies.

All of the attendants wore like gowns of floor-length spring green India silk. They wore head-dresses of matching net wide-brimmed hats and carried Colonial nosegays of Royal Iris with matching ribbons.

Dr. William B. Pope, Jr., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Thomas M. Scott, Charles Welkert, Dr. Weyland Andrews, Jack Perkins, W. E. Hoffer, Jr., Frank Cox, all of Virginia Beach, and Ray Reaves, brother of the bride. Sanford Cook was master of ceremonies.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Women's Club in Glenheath. Following a southern wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Darst will reside at Virginia Beach.

For traveling the bride chose a costume in gray tulle with matching duster, lined with white, hat and gray accessories.

NEW TUNA SALAD... SOUFFLE' STYLE

Ever since an inspired cook discovered how to make molded salads that would be ready to serve in an hour instead of half a day, homemakers have loved the dish that was named "Souffle Salad" because it is so light and delicious. Here's the newest version, packed with fine California tuna, real mayonnaise and other good things. This recipe provides a main dish for warm days with a minimum of time spent in the kitchen. Make it early and tuck it away, or make it "last minute" when the unexpected but welcome guest comes for dinner.

California

SOUFFLE SALAD

1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1/2 cup cold water

2 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 No. 1/2 can chunk style tuna
1/4 cup cooked green peas
1/4 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/2 teaspoon grated onion (optional)

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water, lemon juice, mayonnaise and salt. Blend well with rotary beater. Pour into refrigerator freezing tray. Quick chill in freezing unit (without changing control) 15 to 20 minutes, or until firm about 1 inch from edge but soft in center. Turn mixture into bowl and whip with rotary beater until fluffy. Fold in remaining ingredients. Pour into 1-quart mold or individual molds.

Chill until firm in refrigerator—not freezing unit—30 to 60 minutes. Unmold and garnish with salad greens and serve with additional mayonnaise if desired. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

For warm days, plan salad meals. The family will enjoy a change from the usual hot meals, and keep you out of the kitchen too. Here are some other salad suggestions:

SCARLET BEAUTY SALAD

1 quart tomato aspic
Salad dressing
2 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese
1 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons gelatin
Lettuce

Pour half the aspic into a ring mold and chill until firm. Blend 1/2 cup salad dressing into the cheese. Add next five ingredients, and the gelatin softened in 1/4 cup cold water and dissolve over hot water. Spread over firm aspic; chill until firm. Pour remaining aspic over cream cheese layer; chill again. When firm, unmold on lettuce; fill with small lettuce leaves and salad dressing.

GINGER ALE SALAD

1 pkg. lime flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup ginger ale
1 cup diced sweetened peaches
1/4 cup chopped nut meats
1/4 cup diced celery

Dissolve gelatin in hot water; add ginger ale and chill until mixture is slightly thickened. Fold in

Mrs. Paul Wyatt Elected Officer of Soroptimist Club

Mrs. Paul Wyatt of Alantown was elected recording secretary of the Soroptimist International Club of Norfolk - Virginia Beach last Monday night at the club's annual meeting held at the Downtown Club in Norfolk.

Other officers elected were Miss Annes E. Rich, president; Mrs. W. C. Hirtell, vice president; Mrs. H. C. Jordan, treasurer; Dr. Helen Taylor, board member to serve for three years, and Mrs. Bernice Thompson, regional delegate for two years.

The club plans to hold the installation of officers June 28 at the Princess Anne Country Club.

The club will inaugurate a reading program with books donated by the membership. This program will be held several times weekly in the Grandy Park Housing project and would be open to girls between the ages of 8 and 14. The club's annual trip to New York to visit the United Nations is planned for December 7.

remaining ingredients and turn into 1-quart mold or individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Serve with plain or whipped cream mayonnaise. Yield: Six servings.

By all means try the new apple-flavored gelatin—make a jellied Waldorf salad. It's grand—all you do is to follow the directions for making the gelatin and add 1 cup chopped apples, 1/2 cup chopped celery and 1/2 cup chopped nut meats. Serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise. Bye, now...

GARDEN GUIDE

By BARTON H. BRIDGES, JR.

AIR, WATER AND PLANT LIFE

We have heard it said that a plant depends 90% on air and water for successful growth. This might lead us to think that producing beautiful plants is simple, but not providing the air and water frequently causes unsatisfactory results.

Air is needed by the plants, not only at the above-ground area, where obviously no problem ordinarily exists, but the underground parts as well. But the air demanded should be available between the small soil particles. Large chambers of air will not promote root growth, in fact, they will usually prohibit it because the roots die from lack of moisture. In other words, in planting a tree, shrub or flower, chop the soil finely so that it will pack compactly around the roots without leaving air pockets.

If the underground part of the plant needs air and yet we should not leave air pockets, where does the air come from? It is in the spaces between the individual particles that comprise the soil. These vacancies make up what soil scientists call "pore space." A sandy soil, one that has comparatively large soil particles, has about 65% pore space but a clay soil is more tightly packed with smaller particles and has about 35% pore space. These particles which comprise our soil always are enveloped with a very thin layer of water—even "bone dry" soil from the field has moisture in it.

However, it is interesting to note that this moisture is not available to plants because it so tensely envelopes the soil particles that roots cannot exert enough pull to remove the water. Pore space left after water has been taken into consideration is where the air is found. Of course, extra water can fill these spaces. That is why good drainage is important. If the soil is saturated with water, no air is available to roots and the plant may be killed by water suffocation. It is not the water that is harmful, but the lack of air.

Water Plants
Perhaps the question arises, what about plants found in nature that live in water? They are adapted to utilizing the small amount of air that is dispersed in the water. Hydroponics or the science of growing plants in a liquid solution usually provides for aeration by bubbling air through the tank of liquid in which the roots are growing or by draining the tank periodically to briefly expose the roots to air.

Now that we have seen that air and water are extremely important to plant life, how should we make them available? Add sand to heavy clay soils to increase pore space. Add humus, top soil and/or clay to sandy soils to make them retain more moisture. Provide drainage so that air is made available, and when Mother Nature is shy about rainfall, get out the garden hose and water often and heavily.

In this area we have had several periods of drought the last several years and this spring has been quite dry, so the soil needs a lot of additional moisture.

Ground Observer Corps Post Set Up Atop FCDA Building

Highlighting the link between the Federal Civil Defense Administration and the Ground Observer Corps, a GOV observation post is now in operation atop the FCDA headquarters building in Battle Creek, Michigan.

The post is one of the thousands being set up in the 48 states by the Air Force through GOC to fill in the chinks in the radar and other warning networks that guard the country.

Periods of drought the last several years and this spring has been quite dry, so the soil needs a lot of additional moisture.

Already equipped with telephones, the post is scheduled to get sound detector equipment, needed when skies become overcast and the fog rolls across the heart of Michigan from the Great Lakes.

FCDA officials have arranged for the agency's security officers to approve passes for GOC observers, who must use the headquarters building's elevators to reach the observation post.

The first dial exchange in the Bell System was established at Norfolk in 1919.

Young Adult Singles Plan Sunday Night Services; Start June 12th

A Sunday evening group of older young people will begin its sessions at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church on June 12, according to the announcement of Roy R. Jackson, chairman of the commission on education of that church. The group will seek to serve the spiritual and fellowship needs of single young people in the community. The group will be open to all who wish to come and participate.

Commenting on the new group, the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, pastor of the church, said: "It occurred to us that this might be the very time to commence an activity at our church for young men and young women of the community. We know that there are thousands of service men at the various adjacent installations, some of whom would certainly be interested. We know that many young women come to our community for the summer months to provide services for our seasonal guests. The church is certainly an appropriate place for these young people to congregate to enjoy one another's company and to profit by a spiritual ministry. The Young Adult Singles is another step by the Methodist Church to provide a complete youth program for all young people who are interested."

Serving as hosts for the group are: Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Bavis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vander Meer, Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Hathaway, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Dalley. Also assisting the program are Mrs. Harvey S. Mulwee, Mrs. Carl M. Rau, Mrs. H. I. Palmer and Mrs. W. E. Welch.

DAR Meets On Saturday

The Princess Anne Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet Saturday, May 21, at 2 p. m., at the home of Mrs. I. W. Hardy, at Kempsville.

A report on the Continental Congress held recently in Washington, D. C., will be given by Mrs. Robert B. Tynes, Chapter Regent. Mrs. A. H. Bauman will give a review of her recent trip abroad. Music will be under the direction of Mrs. J. Bryan Dudley. All members are urged to attend.

Final Assembly Dance Friday

The final event of the current social season to be held by the Virginia Beach Assembly will be a cocktail-dance at the Princess Anne Country Club tomorrow, May 20, from 6 to 9 p. m.

A special dinner of seafood and tenderloin steak will be served after the dance. Beverages will be provided during the hours of the cocktail dance.

Lt. Whit Cross Top Man In Pistol Matches

Second Lt. Whitman Cross, II, Fort Story's pistol king and a recent member of the U. S. Army Pistol Team in the Tampa matches, has put another notch in his gun by copying first place in the Second Army Pistol Championships at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland.

As individual winner, the young Philadelphian fired the 45 caliber pistol for a score of 829 points out of a possible 900.

Cross swept the field despite stiff competition from 250 contestants. In three of the four matches he finished first, in the fourth he came in second. Later this month he returns to Fort Meade as a member of the Second Army Pistol Team which will fire for practice in preparation for the All-Army Pistol Championships at Fort Benning, Georgia, beginning June 12.

The Fort Benning trials will decide which team Cross will represent at the National Pistol Championships to be held at Camp Ferry, Ohio, in September. Already a member of the Second Army team, he stands a good chance of making the All-Army squad as he did last March for the National Midwinter Matches at Tampa.

Cross, a graduate of the University of Virginia, is assigned to the 612th Duke Company, a unit of the 54th Transportation Battalion at Fort Story.

Fireworks Will Mark Opening Of Seaside Park

Fireworks are being planned for the opening of Seaside Park on Saturday, May 28. In addition, fireworks are scheduled for Sundays, July 3 and September 4. The management might schedule other fireworks, depending upon the response of the viewers.

The ballroom this year, as in the past two years, will be under the management of Hal Welch and Al DeFanis and his popular orchestra will play throughout the season.

Princess Anne 4-H'ers Take Top Awards in Baby Beef Project Show

Walter Humphries—showing a 914-pound Angus—won Reserve Grand Champion of the show. Other winners by Princess Anne County were Margaret McConnell, Champion Hereford, and Douglas McConnell, who had Reserve Champion Hereford. Walter Humphries won Champion Angus in the show and later went on to Reserve Grand Champion honors.

The placing of all club members in the Angus class are as follows:

Name	bgng.	final
Margaret McConnell	600	1015
Walter Humphries	570	914
Douglas McConnell	530	945
Richard Basnight	445	758
Larry Johnson	530	810
Dan Humphries	545	867
Jimmy Basnight	535	869
Wayne Flora	545	900
Billy Oliver	580	889
Eddie Gilbert	480	875
Johnnie Williams	525	870
Danny Dudley	605	925
Jimmy Barrett	522	900
Al Basnight	480	822
Edwin Seymore	480	759

In the Hereford heifer class, Richard Basnight placed first in the class and won as first prize a registered Hereford heifer given by A. G. Pinkston of Land c' Promise Farms. The Angus heifer presented by Milton Mansfield and Edgar Winn was won by a member of the Norfolk County 4-H Clubs.

Dick Cockrell, County Agent, is certain that the Baby Beef project of 1955 has been a tremendous success and is looking forward to another prosperous year in 1956.

lows: Walter Humphries, first; Richard Basnight, second; Jimmy Basnight, third; Larry Johnson, fourth; Billy Oliver, fifth; Danny Dudley, seventh; Johnny Williams, sixth, and Jimmy Barrett, eighth.

The placing of all club members in the Hereford class are as follows: Margaret McConnell, first; Douglas McConnell, second; Dan Humphries, third; Wayne Flora, fourth; Eddie Gilbert, fifth; Al Basnight, sixth, and Edwin Seymore, seventh.

As economical beef production is an important factor in this Baby Beef project, the following is a summary of the work done by the Princess Anne members in the project:

Alice B. White Attends Virginia "Turkey Tour"

Dr. A. M. Hitt, president of the Virginia Turkey Association, and the members of the association, are hosts to Alice Brewer White, woman's director of WVEC-TV, and two score other newspaper, radio and television women personalities, today and tomorrow during the second annual "Turkey Tour," at the Big Meadows Lodge on Skyline Drive.

Heloise Parker Broes, Boston's famous "kitchen philosopher" known to thousands of New England listeners as Mother Parker, will disclose the secret of her culinary success in a talk this afternoon before members of the Virginia Turkey Association and their guests who are paying a visit to Virginia's "turkeyland." Association members want all the world to know about the revolutionary developments that have taken place in their industry to make it possible for the homemaker to serve delicious turkey in June and January as well as at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Speakers at the briefing session which will be held this evening will be Edwin W. Stillwell, Washington, D. C., president of Farm Market Relations, Inc.,

Insurance Loans Prove Popular

Virginia farmers are using nearly seven million dollars in long term loans made available by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. It was announced this week by A. H. Bennett, regional loan supervisor, from his headquarters in Raleigh, N. C.

At the end of 1954 there were 672 Equitable farm loans outstanding in the state, and of this number 134 were new loans made during the year to the farm community.

Stephen K. Uner, of the Poultry and Egg National Board, and Chester C. Housh, Elkton, Va., president of the National Turkey Federation.

The tour tomorrow will take the visitors through the biggest turkey producing center in the East, where they will observe the entire life cycle of the small family-size Beltsville White gobbler, which made its debut in Virginia just a few years ago and quickly won popularity throughout the country.

This will be Mrs. White's second visit to the famous "turkeyland" and her impressions, photos and interviews will be heard and seen on the Alice Brewer White Show on Monday, May 23, at 12 noon, over WVEC-TV, channel 13.

COLONY RESTAURANT FAME SPREADS AFAR

A couple from New England wrote a very complimentary note to the Colony Restaurant after enjoying one of their famous meals.

The couple, Dr. and Mrs. N. John Colombo, of Hudson, Mass., had this to say: "We were told 1000 miles away this food was good but the description was not adequate. Superb—what a steak!"

This is the reaction of practically everyone who visits Virginia Beach's outstanding Colony Restaurant. The Colony is located on Atlantic Avenue in the Jefferson Hotel Building.

The familiar "Blue Bell" emblem of the Bell Telephone System is 65 years old this year. The telephone was invented in 1876.

GOD WON'T — WE CAN

God will never give up on a man, but man can give up on himself. Once upon a time, according to the ancient story, God did get "fed up" with man. He wiped out the whole race except for one family. With that family He started over.

God soon came to see the futility of wiping out humanity and starting over. The trouble was that the new crop had the same failings as the old. So God promised He would never destroy mankind again. He put His bow in the sky as a seal upon that promise. God can be counted on to keep His word. He will never destroy the human race. But the human race can destroy itself.

The statement that men can destroy themselves — all of them — is literally true. It has never been true before, but it is true now. The devastation which atomic conflict could cause in urban areas is really only a minor phase of its potential destructiveness. The deadlines of the "fall out" from atomic explosions have been convincingly demonstrated by the death of men and the contamination of their food supply even when they were far outside the so-called danger area. These facts which the government originally tried to suppress are now generally known. The contamination of death can now be quickly spread over vast areas of the world's surface, or, indeed, over all of it.

We are within sight of a conflict which could bring death to all animal life and all human beings as well.

The Will to Live

Whether or not men will commit this final sacrifice we do not know. The point is that they now have the power to do it.

We must constantly hope and pray that men will decide to live rather than die. If they do choose life, however, they must have a reason for doing so. With men the mere instinct to survive is not enough. Animals struggle to live because they know nothing else. Human beings can and sometimes do commit suicide. We do not live to be living; we must live to a purpose or we die.

If, then, we are to go on living, we must have strong and clear in our hearts the reason for living. We must have a motivation so compelling that we shall close our ears to the siren lure of doom and drive courageously on.

The Way of Living

For what shall men live? "Labor

HYMN OF THE WEEK

BY REV. ERNEST K. EMURIAN

COME THOU FOUNT OF EVERY BLESSING

"Give her some liquor, boys," the young man said. The poor gypsy woman was already so drunk she could hardly stand on her feet. But the wild and reckless young man was determined to get her even more drunk.

"Pour it into her, and we'll get her to tell our fortunes," 17-year-old Robert Robinson shouted. The other piers her with more intoxicants until she agreed to predict their futures for nothing.

"She doesn't know what she's saying; she's drunk," one rowdy exclaimed, after she had prophesied.

not for the food that perishes," Jesus said. If we live for what perishes we shall perish, too. To labor and live for what perishes is obviously not worth the effort.

We are not to live for the world; we are to live for God's purpose at work in the world. The meaning of life is not in things; it is in our relation to what God is doing with them. Our God is marching on. We live that we may march with Him.

There is a great deal of talk these days about the importance of having God on our side. What really matters, though, is that we shall be on God's side. For all sides are comprehended in Him. To share the eternal purpose God's Son reveals, to see that purpose marching through history and ourselves marching with it — this is the only real sense there is to life, it's only sure motivation.

and that evil fortune awaited him.

"You ought to know," Robinson replied. "You gave it to her."

Turning to the self-appointed leader, the bleary-eyed gypsy pointed a quivering finger and said, "And you, young man, you will live to see your children and your grandchildren."

Robinson suddenly paled, and said, "You're right. She's too drunk to know what she's saying. Leave her alone. Let's go."

But her words haunted him the rest of the day. "If I'm going to live to see my children and my grandchildren," he thought, "I'll have to change my way of living. I can't keep on like I'm going now." So that very night, half in fun and half seriously, he took his gang to an open-air revival service nearby where the famous evangelist, George Whitfield, was preaching. "We'll go down and laugh at the poor deluded Methodists," he explained.

Message Sealed Him

But the spirit of God was already at work in the troubled heart and confused mind of the wayward youth. That night Whitfield preached from Matthew 3:7, "O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?"

The message sobered and frightened him at the same time. He felt that the preacher was speaking to him and only to him. On Tuesday, December 16, 1785, two years and seven months after he heard that sermon, 24-year-old Robert Robinson made his peace with God, and "found full and free forgiveness through the precious blood of Jesus Christ." He later wrote the preacher who had first convinced him of his sinfulness, "I confess it was to spy the nakedness of the land I came — to pity the folly of the preacher, the infatuation of the hearers, and to abhor the doctrine. I went pitiful the poor deluded Methodists but came away envying their happiness."

Joining the Methodists, and feeling the call to preach, self-taught Robinson was appointed by John Wesley to the Calvinist Methodist Chapel, Norfolk, England. There, for the celebration of Pentecost (Whit Sunday), in 1808, three years after his marvelous conversion, he penned his spiritual autobiography in these lines:

Come, thou fount of every blessing,
Tune my heart to sing thy grace;
Streams of mercy, never ceasing,
Call for songs of loudest praise.
Teach me some melodious sonnet,
Sung by flaming tongues above:
Praise the mount — I'm fixed upon it,
Mount of thy redeeming love!

Recalling that Samuel, after a battle in which the Philistine enemy had been routed, took a stone, and "set it between Mizpah and Shen, and called the name of it Ebenezer, saying, 'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us' (I Samuel 7:12), he felt that he should raise a spiritual Ebenezer in his own heart to commemorate the victory of God over Satan three years earlier. Realizing that it was only by God's help that he had been saved and dedicated to the ministry, he wanted that "symbolic stone" to remind him that "hitherto by thy help I'm come." So he wrote a stanza containing these lines:

Here I'll raise my Ebenezer,
Hither by thy help I'm come,
And I hope by thy good pleasure
Safely to arrive at home.

This hymn, published a year later in a volume entitled, "A collection of hymns used by the Church of Christ in Angel Alley, Bishopsgate," became the most popular one Robinson ever wrote.

In December of that same year, he wrote a Christmas hymn at the personal request of a lad in his congregation. With slight adaptations to make it appropriate for adults to sing, we know it as "Mighty God, while angels bless thee, May a mortal lip thy name?"

At various times a Methodist, an "open communion" Baptist, an Independent and a Unitarian, he is spoken of as a rare preacher who could say "what he pleased, when he pleased and how he pleased." The author of numerous books, he had to buy a farm and manage it one the side in order to provide for the needs of his growing family. He died as he wished to die, on June 9, 1790, at the age of 55, "soft, suddenly, and alone."

The American Cancer Society urges everyone to learn the seven danger signals that may mean cancer, and which should always mean a visit to the doctor.

Oceana PTA To See Operetta

The program for the Oceana Parent-Teacher Association meeting on Tuesday, May 24, should be of personal interest to many parents and entertaining to all. The fifth, sixth and seventh grades will present the operetta, "Polly Make Believe," directed by Miss Jane Branch, music teacher. There will be a short business meeting preceding the operetta. This meeting will start at 7:30, instead of the usual 8:00 o'clock. Mrs. E. C. Mansfield will report on the questionnaires sent out to parents last month.

GARDEN-FRESH FOOD ALL YEAR LONG!

AN ELECTRIC FOOD FREEZER is another definite step forward in woman's emancipation from household drudgery. When you have one it's almost like having a magic wand which can be waved over fresh foods with the command, "Stay just as you are until I need you!" For that, in effect, is what freezing does. It takes fresh foods at the peak of goodness and keeps them for weeks, months or even a year.

WHEN YOU HAVE AN ELECTRIC FOOD FREEZER you can eliminate the three-times-a-day grind of food preparation... cut food shopping trips to one a week, or one every two weeks... buy in quantity when foods are plentiful and prices are low. Even sales prices!

ACTUALLY you can pay for your Electric Food Freezer on what you save in food bills. So don't wait — see your Electric Appliance Dealer right away.

WORLD OF TOMORROW

It's a fascinating thing, that globe. As they twirl it, Ken and Johnnie speak of the places they'd like to visit, the things they'd like to do. All the wonders they've ever heard of come to life for them, and it's as if they could actually shut their eyes and see the Taj Mahal, in its Oriental splendor, and the Tower of Pisa slanting across the Italian sky.

But it's a frightening thing too, that globe, shadowed by war and the threat of war, intolerance, superstition. Out of its darkness, a single light burns brightly, the light of FAITH... kindled across its face by the Church. Ken and Johnnie... and all the other youngsters in their generation... need the guiding hand of the Church if they are going to succeed in making that globe a better world in which to live.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without it, man can survive. There are four reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For the sake of his community and nation. (2) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Lake Joyce Club Wins State Award

At the club meeting held on Wednesday of last week at the home of Mrs. W. F. Parker, Lake Joyce Club, Mrs. W. C. Griffin, hostess, it was announced that the club had won a blue ribbon award for flower show achievement on the fall flower show "Autumn Splendor" which was presented at the federation meeting held in Roanoke the preceding Friday.

Mrs. Robert L. Munn was welcomed into the club as a new member.

The Barbara Gifford Award went to Mrs. W. C. Griffin for her gold ribbon arrangement.

Mrs. Everett P. Seay won the Alta Griffin Award for the most blue ribbons during the year, and the Horticulture Award.

The club honored Mrs. J. B. Maddy, president, and Mrs. W. C. Griffin honored Mrs. Cecil H. Reed on the Garden Center Honor Roll by selling 100 bricks.

New officers elected for the coming year are: Mrs. Cecil H. Reed, president; Mrs. Everett P. Seay, first vice president; Mrs. M. K. Crockett, second vice president; Mrs. A. Vernon Watts, recording secretary; Mrs. Walter F. Parker, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert L. Beal, Jr., treasurer. The new officers will be installed at the annual June luncheon to be held June 9 at the Cavalier Club.

Those winning blue ribbons included Mrs. Everett P. Seay, Mrs. W. D. Brooks, Mrs. J. L. Jernigan, Mrs. Stanley Robishaw, Mrs. C. H. Cummings, Mrs. Cecil H. Reed, Mrs. A. Vernon Watts, Mrs. Walter F. Parker and Mrs. R. F. Rhodes.

Stars Of Newest Musical Film "Three For Show" Top Dancers

Sex appeal is no longer enough to sustain a screen star's reputation as a dancer, according to choreographer Jack Cole, who staged the spectacular dance routines in Columbia Pictures' Cinemascope musical, "Three for the Money," starring Betty Grable, Marge and Gower Champion and Jack Lemmon in color by Technicolor which comes to the Beach Theatre on Sunday for a three-day showing.

Cole, who heads his own concert dance troupe, stages the routines for such Broadway musicals as "Kismet" and creates the choreography for motion pictures, believes that film audiences today demand definite talent on the part of screen dancers.

"There was a time," says Cole, "when girls with gorgeous gams and shapely chests and boys with rugged physiques and oiled hair, could get by as dancers on the screen if they could do a simple time step without tripping. Those days are gone. A dancer has to have genuine talent and technique these days. Of course," Cole adds, with a smile, "if the girls also have good legs and figures like Betty and Marge and the boys are rugged, like Gower Champion and Jack Lemmon, those qualities are so much in the way of a bonus."

"At the beginning of talkies, Busby Berkeley attempted to get movement into dance films by geometric formation and pat-

Virginia Flanagan In Piano Recital

Piano pupils of Mrs. Anne Hame at Mary Washington College will be presented in a recital today at the Fine Arts Center of the college in Fredericksburg at 6:45 p. m.

Among the students are Virginia Flanagan of Princess Anne, Norma Skinner and Betty Coffey of Fredericksburg, Ellnor Plow of Arlington, Shirley Arrington of Grundy, Eileen Brillinger of Peekskill, N. Y., Edith Baldwin of Woodbridge, Conn., and Joanna Eden of Washington, D. C. The recital will be held in the choral room of Pollard Hall.

Miss Flanagan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Flanagan and is a freshman.

Then along came such people as Astaire and Kelly and progress was made.

"A hundred years ago Marie Taglioni first danced on her toes," Cole said. "Obviously people can't fly without mechanical means, so toe work carried a dancer to the utmost extent of his physical limitations. But the camera can and does give new rhythms and patterns to choreography, and so does Cinemascope."

The show is said to be packed with tuneful songs, and literally "stacked" with beautiful girls.

County Fair On Saturday

The Oceana Girl Scouts are having a "County Fair" on Saturday, May 21, between the hours of five and nine p. m. at the Oceana School gymnasium. According to announcements made this week there will be a grab bag booth, a fortune teller, and many games with prizes for all. In addition, there will be barbecue, hot dogs, cokes and baked goods for sale.

A square dance will be held from seven to nine o'clock.

The girls are looking for a big turnout from the community.

BOARD MEETS IN SPECIAL SESSION; ATTORNEY HIRED TO CIRCUMVENT NORFOLK

A special "annexation session" of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors Tuesday night resulted in the creation of a $50,000 fund and the employment of Norfolk Attorney William L. Parker to prepare for fight with the City of Norfolk over annexation of a part of Princess Anne County.

The Board's action Tuesday night was a major victory for Supervisor E. J. Herick, of the Kempville Magisterial District, which is the bulk of the territory the City wants to annex. The Board's vote to start an anti-annexation program was unanimous.

The City of Norfolk has under consideration at the present time a proposal to acquire some 41 square miles of Princess Anne County.

The Board's action Tuesday night came in the form of a resolution which also disclosed that anti-annexation studies have been quietly underway in the county for about a year. The resolution, in three parts, said:

"1. To request the Commonwealth's Attorney to retain William L. Parker as special counsel for the County to oppose the City of Norfolk's proposed plan for annexing part of Princess Anne, and to request counsel to proceed immediately to use all available means to block the proposed annexation plan of the City of Norfolk."

"2. To instruct the consultant engineer to bring the engineering study report relative to annexation up to date and present same to the Board of Supervisors as soon as possible."

"To make available immediately from the General Fund of the county the sum of $40,000, thus making a total of $50,000 to be used to oppose annexation moves against Princess Anne by the City of Norfolk."

The use of $40,000 in the General Fund was an addition to the war chest of $10,000 the board created when it recently adopted a new county operating budget.

The board said its annexation report is being compiled by Lubin McGaughey and Associates, engineering consultants of Norfolk. It disclosed that the firm was retained last year when the city showed signs it would take steps to expand again after Tanners Creek had been made a part of the city.

Budget Approved By Supervisors; Sewers Discussed

Sewerage problems and the possibility of a fight with Norfolk City over annexation occupied most of the time of the County Board of Supervisors at their regular meeting Monday in the Princess Anne Courthouse.

The five-man governing board voted an initial appropriation of $10,000 to be used in fighting any attempt by the City of Norfolk to annex territory now belonging to the county. The resolution pertaining to annexation was approved late in the day.

One of the main points of action taken by the Board of Supervisors was final approval of the 1955-1956 budget which amounts to $4,835,772.

The sewerage problem which has been causing concern for sometime took up much of the meeting time. The condition arises in rapidly growing localities of the county where septic tanks have grown to such numbers that the soil cannot absorb the waste.

A delegation from the Belle Haven section told the supervisors that septic tanks in their area had backed up and that sewage was standing in ditches and was backing up under houses. They said an inspector from the Veterans Administration had been in the area to study the situation.

Planning Commissioner J. F. Mason Gammas said that the Veterans Administration has standards which if followed by the county, he felt, would eliminate the present condition.

The supervisors named a committee to consist of Gammas, County Health Officer M. C. Owen, Deary and R. E. Dorner to study the problem for a long-range solution as well as offering temporary relief to the Belle Haven area. In past meetings, the supervisors have had delegations from other developments, including Kempville Acres and Kempville Manor, with the same problem.

The supervisors approved a preliminary budget for secondary roads of $318,897, including $78,428 of Federal aid. The big item in the secondary road budget calls for $169,830 for maintenance; (continued on page three)

"FATHER OF THE BRIDE"

"Father of Bride," Laugh Right, Will be Seen Monday, Tuesday

"Father of the Bride," the fun-for-the-family comedy by Caroline Francke, based on the novel by Edward Streeter, comes to the Virginia Beach High School for a two night run May 30-31. Final play of the Little Theatre's 1954-55 season, "Father of the Bride" is directed by Mrs. Arthur M. Mury and features Andy Reid in the title role.

Pat Wade, as Kay Banks, the bride, will shine in all her glory in a bridal gown loaned by Cynthia Lee, local consultant for the bride's salon. Ric's Pat has had a busy year with the Little Theatre. She has appeared in two other productions this year, "The Glass Mountain," and "Angel Street," in which she played the saucy maid. Playing the bride will call for a complete change of pace, but versatile Pat is said to take it in her stride. Her theatre background includes musical comedy work and opera, as well as professional TV appearances. She is also assistant production manager for "Father of the Bride."

Other members of the production staff are: W. Tyler, stage manager; Bill Trattner and Jean Arnold; Elaine Grandy and Elizabeth May, scenic artists; Ann Pennington, assisted by Mary Lou Edwards and Doris Arthur; stage settings: Miles Chappell, Carpenter; Janet Lawrence, props; Kitty Manby, costumes; Betty Munford and Ann McNamara, make-up; Don Peterson, lights, and Henry Arnold, sound.

Tickets may be purchased at Jardi's on the Virginia Beach High School, or may be reserved by telephoning 2488-W.

Rhae Adams Vice President Virginia Jaycees

At the annual convention held this past weekend, Rhae Adams of Virginia Beach was elected vice president of the Virginia Junior Chamber of Commerce. Rhae will serve under Jack Barnes of Portsmouth, who was elected president.

Adams' activities on a state level this year included chairmanship of state fund raising, chairmanship of starting American leaders (youth activities) and a member of the awards committee. Representing Virginia Beach at the convention in addition to Mr. Adams were Dr. Howard D. Kahn, local president; Howard Nations, local president-elect; John Taliaferro, state director; Lynn Clements, local vice-president-elect; Bill Robertson, local vice-president-elect; Bill Glets, local secretary; Bill Dodson, local director; Jack Bailey, Maurice Hunter, Grover Swain, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Kahn and Mrs. Taliaferro.

Citizens Committee Endorses Organization Slate; Cite Record

The four Organization candidates for constitutional offices in the July Democratic primary received the full endorsement of the Princess Anne County Citizens Committee at a meeting held in the Seaback Elementary School Tuesday night, according to an announcement by H. L. Robinson, the committee's secretary.

The committee meeting was presided over by W. Francis Taylor, Jr., chairman, and the group voted its full support to the four men running on the Organization ticket in the forthcoming election. These candidates are John E. Marr, for Sheriff; V. A. "Jack" Etheridge, for Treasurer; Ivan D. Mapp, for Commissioner of the Revenue; and Robert S. "Bob" Wabash, Jr., for Commonwealth's Attorney.

In addition to endorsing the Organization candidates, Secretary Robinson brought the group up to date on the accomplishments of the group and gave praise to county officials for the manner in which they have worked with the group.

Special words of praise were given the county school board for rejecting the 30-day clause in teacher's contracts. The group plans a door-to-door canvass of voters in support of the Organization before the July 12th election. It was announced.

Birdneck Point Garden Club Hears State Landscape Designer

The landscape designer for the Virginia Department of Highways, Miss Lily Thomason, of Richmond, was the guest speaker last Tuesday when the Birdneck Point Garden Club held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Lewis Johnson.

Miss Thomason presented many pertinent facts concerning the new boulevard along Laskin Road which will affect all residents in the Birdneck community. Safety above all else is the primary requirement of all road designing, but attractive entrances and roadside appeal are also of great interest to the Highway Department. For this reason the department lends its knowledge and gives a guiding hand to all clubs or persons interested in this type of beautification.

Club Plans Beautification Maps, statistics, sketches and actual photographs were shown to the members by Miss Thomason. Since the new road is expected to be completed past Birdneck entrance by November of this year, the members of the club can proceed with plans which will be correct as far as safety is concerned, but at the same time be attractive.

Officers Elected The primary matter before the club during the business meeting was the election of officers for next year. Mrs. R. A. Briggs, chairman of the nominating committee, presented Mrs. Cecil Mears for corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ashley Haycox for treasurer; Mrs. Everett Martin, recording secretary; Mrs. W. W. Johnson, secretary.

SHERIFF MALBON TOPS ALL CANDIDATES IN POLL TAX PAYMENTS TO SWELL VOTE

The practice of acting as "agent" in paying the poll tax of others has been employed by both factions in the present county political campaign, according to records maintained by County Treasurer D. Jonathan Vaughan.

Seven of the nine candidates for constitutional offices were shown to have served as "agent" in paying poll taxes in the block payment method.

The records reveal that Sheriff C. Roger Malbon, running on the anti-organization ticket, served as agent for more voters than any of the other candidates on either side. Malbon is shown as agent for 683 persons.

Another member of the ticket with Malbon, L. D. Walker, Jr. was shown to have signed authorization slips for nine voters and another candidate on this ticket, W. W. Oliver, Jr., signed the slips as a witness.

The "authorization slips" required by the Treasurer showed who had paid poll taxes for others and it appears that both the "Organization" and the "Ticket for Princess Anne" were active in the field. The record also revealed that Treasurer, Vaughan, treated each side alike in these payments.

Three of the Organization candidates were shown to have made block payment of taxes where their signatures appeared on slips. V. Alfred "Jack" Etheridge, candidate for Treasurer, was listed on 132 slips; Ivan D. Mapp, the incumbent commissioner of the revenue, 92 persons; and John E. Marr, running for Sheriff, 81 persons.

The independent candidate for Sheriff, J. Hugh Barnes, Jr., was shown as agent for 62 persons.

The two opposing candidates for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney, Robert S. Wabash, Jr., of the Organization, and James E. Heath, running with the Anti-Organization ticket, apparently did not sign any authorization slips, according to the record.

The practice of making block payment of taxes was brought into focus in the present campaign by the Princess Anne group when they decided the practice. The organization forces their revelation that the anti group had made the largest single payment in the county's history.

The anti-organization slate did not deny that they had made block payments but three of the four major candidates, in a statement, stated that only Sheriff C. Roger Malbon, of their ticket, had made such payments.

The records in the Treasurer's office shows that not only Malbon, but Walker and Oliver, of the anti-organization ticket, engaged in the practice either directly or indirectly.

C of C WILL MEET NEXT WEDNESDAY

A general membership meeting of the Virginia Beach Chapter of Commerce will be held in the Virginia Beach High School on Wednesday night, June 1, it has been announced by C. Hall Snellings, managing director.

Donald W. Striver, manager of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker. He will outline the value of a good, active Chamber of Commerce.

Snellings is expected to review the work of the Chamber since he became affiliated with the organization last December and future plans will be discussed.

Plans for Girl Scout Day Camp Are Completed

Openings for staff members at Camp Linkhorn, Girl Scout camp at 78th Street, Virginia Beach, have been filled and plans for the day camp sessions in July are completed, it was announced this week.

"We have been very fortunate in securing such highly qualified leaders for your young girls," Mrs. E. C. Mansfield, day camp chairman, stated.

Enrolled as staff members are: Mrs. Lewis Smith, director; Mrs. Lewis Snyder, assistant director, and Mrs. J. D. Gregory, nurse.

Camp activities are divided into groups with the girls working together in units. Unit leaders and assistants are: Mrs. C. A. Flanagan, Mrs. Deloris Bucknell, Mrs. Joseph Killen, Mrs. Pauline Whitaker, Mrs. George Bush, Mrs. D. J. Rasher, Mrs. Roy Newton, Mrs. Thomas James and Mrs. C. F. Kadas.

Camp Opens July 5 The camp opens on July 5 with a two-week session for the Intermediate or older Girl Scouts. The Brownies or younger Girl Scouts will begin their stay at camp on July 18, ending on July 26.

Reservations for the Brownie section of Camp Linkhorn are now closed, as the number who can attend has already been attained.

Openings in the older age group remain, however, and information about entering an Intermediate Girl Scout for the camp may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Lewis Smith at Virginia Beach 1671.

The day camp committee which has been working on camp plans since December, is composed of Mrs. E. C. Mansfield, Mrs. Kathleen Carter, Mrs. J. D. Gregory and Mrs. John Tucker.

Birdneck Point Civic League Votes Approval of Waterway Proposals

The Birdneck Point Civic League voted Monday night to give their sanction to the "Lynhaven Waterway Improvement Plan" provided certain minimum requirements are taken to protect against property damage that would be caused by this proposed plan.

As every member entered the Cavalier Country Club for the semi-annual meeting Monday he was presented with a concise outline of the plan, its effects, benefits, estimated cost and objections to the plan. Mr. Spencer Lott, President, reviewed the League's stand and the action they had taken from 1949 to the present date.

Charts and graphs showing maximum water stages, tides and speeds of the water as it is now, was explained by Mr. C. J. Robin of the Army Engineer Corps. He compared these with what would happen if the plan went through and what would happen if a check dam was placed at the Narrows.

Mr. Harry McCoy, a Norfolk Attorney, who is also attorney for the Lynhaven Waterway Development and Improvement plan explained why it was felt this plan necessary and the difficulties they had encountered to date.

After lengthy discussion by members pro and con the following resolution was given a majority vote "With respect to the Birdneck Point Community League's position on the proposed Lynhaven Waterway Improvement, your Board of Directors has received an additional study on this subject dated January 12, 1955 prepared by the Corps of Army Engineers, Norfolk District. After careful consideration of this report, the Board of Directors

Fund Being Raised to Aid Fire Victim

Friends of Mrs. Ella McAllister, 15-year-old Negro who was severely burned last February, have come to her aid in a financial way.

A fund has been started for Mrs. McAllister by Walter T. Russell, attendant at the Virginia Beach Hospital, and the fire victim's church, the Union Baptist Church at Kempville, made the initial contribution of $100 to help Mrs. McAllister and her husband with the mounting expenses the accident has brought on.

Mrs. McAllister has received more than 25 pints of blood since the near fatal accident back in February and her medical and hospital expenses have reached to $2,500. Russell reports that anyone wishing to donate to the McAllister fund may do so at the Virginia Beach Hospital.

Veteran-Made Poppies on Sale Here Saturday for Memorial Day

Buddy poppies will be on sale in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach Saturday.

Virginia Beach Post 1166, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will conduct the sale in conjunction with Memorial Day, Monday, May 30. Volunteer workers from the post and the Ladies Auxiliary will be on the streets conducting the sale, proceeds from which are used solely for VFW welfare work for disabled veterans, widows of veterans and orphans of deceased veterans.

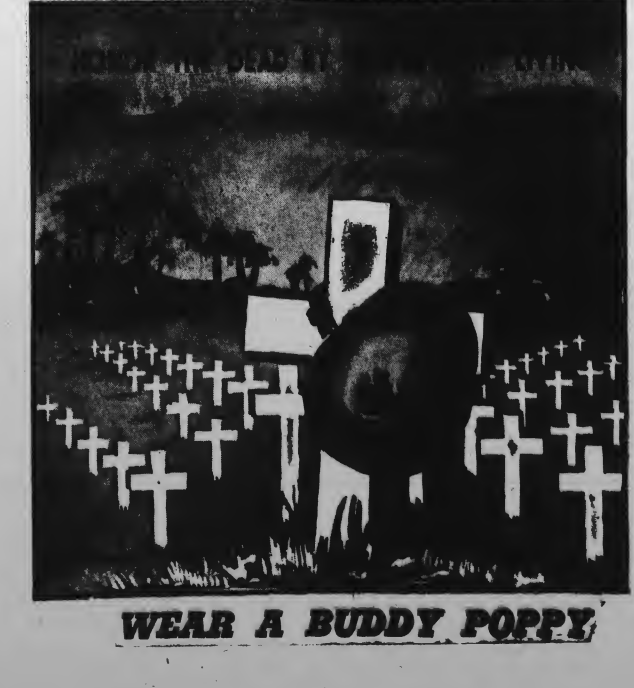

The buddy poppy is a hand-made item, manufactured not by machine, but by disabled veterans in veterans' hospitals.

A good share of the proceeds from the buddy poppy sale will go, along with proceeds from sales all over the nation, to the support of the Veterans of Foreign Wars National House at

THOSE POLL TAXES

The practice of serving as an agent in paying the poll taxes of others has been made an issue in the present political campaign in Princess Anne County and while such practice is not illegal and has been practiced for some time, we believe the organization candidate for commonwealth's attorney, Robert S. Wahab, Jr., "hit the nail on the head" recently when he stated that the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting is subject to too many abuses which can be effectively prevented only by the complete abolishment of the poll tax law.

The statement by Wahab is in line with the thinking of all of the organization candidates and it shows clearly once again that this group of candidates is anxious to face up to the issues at hand and to deal in facts.

However, repeal of the poll tax cannot be accomplished by a group of political candidates but it should be an item of utmost importance to members of Virginia's General Assembly in its next session. At that time the State's lawmakers should come forward with a law whereby the poll tax is abolished as a prerequisite to voting.

The payment of poll taxes for others has been made an issue in this campaign by the "Dunn Machine" candidates, who have attempted to use every method possible to take the spotlight of truth off themselves. Their records cannot stand up under public scrutiny. The Dunn candidate for sheriff, Roger Malbon, has particularly tried to blame others for practicing the payment of poll taxes as agents of other individuals.

It is apparent from the record that Malbon, more than any other candidate, has engaged in this practice of paying poll taxes and has used this practice most.

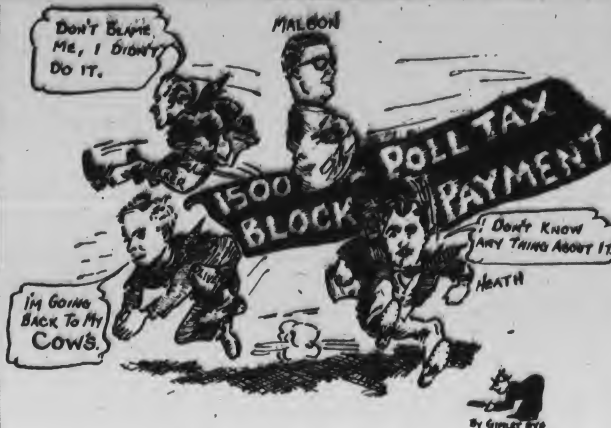

ANNEXATION

Princess Anne County's Board of Supervisors are ready for the impending fight with the City of Norfolk over annexation of any part of Princess Anne County. When the announcement came the other day about Norfolk's intentions it came as no surprise to Princess Anne County officials.

The county's Board of Supervisors has been laying the groundwork to fight such a move by Norfolk City for some time and the Organization candidates for office in the forth-coming Democratic primary have been alert to the impending encroachment on Princess Anne territory. These candidates announced in their original platform their objective to oppose annexation of any part of the county unless such annexation was voiced by the will of the people residing in the area to be annexed.

The Board of Supervisors included in the budget some time ago the sum of $10,000 for preliminary work in fighting annexation and Tuesday night appropriated an additional $40,000 for the fight. The Board also employed a Norfolk attorney with wide experience in annexation matters to work with the Commonwealth's Attorney.

There are two sides to every question and it is true that a city should not be stymied in its growth. On the other hand when fine citizens such as we have in Princess Anne County move to the county because of the attractiveness of that area they nor the county should be stymied in its growth through annexation by a city. Such annexation in this case would be against the overwhelming will of the people, who have selected Princess Anne County to live because that county has provided them with excellent schools, roads and streets, garbage collection, street lights, and other fine services.

AROUND

The Cracker Barrel

Two weeks ago the Cracker Barrel asked Old Willie Dunn a very simple question which seems to have irked Willie. At least it would appear that he did not like the question since he came back with a lot of "ifs" and no answer at all.

We asked Willie if he had ever visited Mrs. Blackie Saleebay? We put it into the form of a question again and we ask Willie just to give a plain, straightforward answer to the question. We wonder if that is too much to ask of this man.

Cracker Barrel actually never thought all readers would like what appeared in these columns, but we certainly never realized that so many persons would dislike us. However, all complaints seem to stem from the Dunn Machine group which is understandable, yet is a little bit contradictory.

We have always attempted to deal with the truth and present factual matter in these columns. The Dunn Machine group has always maintained that "the truth shall make you free." Yet, when we speak the truth through these columns it has been known to make some of the Dunn crowd wince and it is reported that one of the Dunn candidates actually dreads each Thursday when this column appears giving factual information about his past deeds and background. The truth must be painful to this candidate.

The report taken from the records would indicate that the Dunn Machine candidates did not make a true statement a few weeks ago when three of the members of that ticket said, in effect, that only Roger Malbon had taken part in the block payment of poll taxes.

A review of the records in the Treasurer's office shows that Lit Walker, the Dunn candidate for Treasurer, acted as agent in paying the poll taxes of nine voters and that W. W. Oliver, Jr., the Dunn candidate for Commissioner of the Revenue, served as a witness on the slips turned in by Walker. It looks like Walker needs to put a "tape recorder" on his own devices.

We wonder how the Dunn Machine candidates can expect to get the confidence of the people when they make public statements about themselves that turn out to be entirely false. They blame Roger Malbon as the only "bad" one of the crowd because he acted as agent in paying poll taxes then the record shows that both Walker and Oliver participated in the practice. What manner of men are these Dunn Machine candidates?

Emergency Radio Network Topic Of Air Spot Announcements

Spot announcements to make the public "Conelrad conscious" are being beamed at radio stations.

Unlike most commercials, these lively, 30-second "spots" could be a life or death matter. For their purpose is to publicize the Federal Civil Defense Administration's Conelrad radio system for warning civilians of impending aerial attack and how to survive it.

In rural areas especially, where people are scattered and fast communications are difficult, the knowledge of the Conelrad frequencies of 640 and 1240 would be like being able to listen in on a huge party line whose sole purpose was to keep the country folk informed of the situation in an H-bomb blasted city. At the same time, it would warn them to take cover or evacuate if necessary from areas threatened with heavy radioactive fallout.

What is Conelrad?

Nat. S. Linden, director of the FCDA radio and television section, with Louis E. Altkin, a member of his staff, found that the cosmopolitan personnel at FCDA headquarters provided an ideal cross-section of voices and accents from all parts of the U.S. to dramatize the question: "What is Conelrad?"

Conelrad, an abbreviation of "Control of Electromagnetic Radiation," is actually more technical than dramatic, however. It is a special system to make possible broadcasting of Civil Defense instructions over standard radio stations, even while the enemy bombers are approaching, without allowing them to follow the radio beams into their target. During World War II all radio stations had to go off the air as enemy planes approached.

Since radio stations in the Conelrad cluster will broadcast only at 640 and 1240 kilocycles on the radio dial, FCDA officials hope to make those numbers as familiar to citizens as their own telephone numbers. Already almost all new radios for the home and most of the new cars, have dials specially marked at 640 and 1240 to indicate the emergency Conelrad frequencies.

To fix these important numbers in people's minds, Altkin, a one-time opera singer in Chicago, begins and ends each announcement with a unique tune, sung to the words "640-1240, Conelrad."

In one version, his singing is interrupted by a smooth, southern drawl. An FCDA secretary from Columbus, Ga., wants to know: "Conelrad? What's Conelrad, mister — some kind of Yankee talk?" He replies with the message on Conelrad.

Other stylized voices vary the routine. The cheerful voice of a housewife in one of the "spots" offers variety from the gruff voice of the labor leader or the voice of a child (played by an FCDA secretary).

Other voices represented in the announcements are those of an "old timer," a "farmer," a "teen-age girl," a "Brooklyn office girl" (her home and accent are from nearby Staten Island, N. Y.), and the sharp, quick tones of a "businessman."

All the voices are deliberately stereotyped, for they are planned to be used later as the voices of cartoon characters in a series of Conelrad "spots" for television.

DEATHS

MRS. HATTIE GOFFIGAN

Funeral services were conducted on Wednesday, May 18, at two p. m. for Mrs. Hattie Goffigan, of Great Neck, who died Sunday morning, May 15. The services, held at the First Lutheran Baptist Church, were conducted by the Rev. Jesse Smith, pastor.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, Shepherd Goffigan, are one sister, Mrs. Mary J. Whitehurst; three brothers, Americus, Enoch and Johnson Morgan, and many nieces, nephews and other relatives.

Interment was in the Morgan family cemetery at Seaboard, with W. Francis Taylor, Jr., funeral director, in charge of the arrangements.

Little League
'Kickoff' Friday

A Little League "kickoff" program will be launched at the Virginia Beach Memorial stadium on Friday night, June 3. It has been announced by J. T. Dalley, president of the National League and founder of the Little League in Virginia Beach.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch is scheduled to participate in the program and he will introduce Dalley and the president of the American League.

The presidents of the leagues will introduce the sponsors of the various teams as well as the umpire-in-chief for league play. The teams will play an exhibition game with each team playing two innings.

National League teams include the "Pipers," "JC Hawks," "Thunderbirds" and the "Little Giants." In the American League the teams are the "Cubs," the "Rotarians" and the "Sports."

The National League games will be played on Monday and Wednesday evenings starting June 6 and the American League games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday evenings starting June 7.

Diamond Insignia
Will be Awarded
N & W Veterans

Thirty diamond insignia honoring fifteen hundred years of railroad building will be presented to as many men at the annual gathering of the Norfolk and Western Veterans Association in Roanoke on Saturday, May 28.

N&W President R. H. Smith will award the emblems before an audience of more than 2,000 veterans of more than 20 years with the railroad. A special all-Pullman train and extra sleepers attached to regular trains will bring veterans from more distant points to the 19th yearly meeting. In addition a special coach train will be operated from Bluefield to Roanoke.

Maynard E. Sensesbrenner, mayor of Columbus, Ohio, will address the morning session which opens in American Legion auditorium at ten. Association President B. T. Haislip will preside. The first emblem will be presented to Herbert H. Williams of Roanoke, the oldest man in point of service, a conductor on the Powhatan Arrow, whose record will show 52 years, 10 months and 25 days with the N&W.

Entertainment in the afternoon will be provided by General Electric's "House of Magic" show, famous popular science presentation brought to Roanoke especially for the meeting. An afternoon snack will follow. All restaurants in Roanoke will honor meal tickets for food.

CONQUERING
CUTWORKS—

What gardener has not had the sad experience of strolling into the garden one fine morning only to find his newly transplanted cabbage, broccoli, tomatoes or flowers tipped off at the ground? The nocturnal operation villain is one of the many varieties of cutworms.

Until the advent of chlordane or preparations containing chlordane, the only protection was the laborious placing of paper collars or bands around the stems of the plants, or putting out dangerous poison bait. Now all you need to do is mix a little chlordane with each gallon of transplanting water or starter solution. The manufacturer's package will tell you how much to use per gallon.

SET THE PLANT, cover the roots with soil, then pour a cupful of the solution around the plant so that it will permeate the entire soil depth from surface to the roots. When the cutworm crawls up through the soil, and comes in contact with the chlordane-treated area, his hours are numbered. Another method of cutworm control is to sprinkle a chlordane solution — or use a chlordane dust — on the soil surface around the newly set-out plants. It can be worked very lightly into the top half-inch or so of soil.

THESE PROCEDURES are just plain good insurance with a very low premium rate. Another good thing about the chlordane method — it also controls the troublesome maggot that eats roots of the young cabbage plants.

HOT DYE WILL RENEW RUGS—

An application of hot dye will make it possible to renew the surface of an old rug. For best results, select a medium shade of the dominating background color of the rug. If the rug is patterned, the application of dye will not cover the pattern, but the two will blend into a more pleasing effect. A neutral color may be dyed one of the warm, popular colors in a medium shade.

DISSOLVE three packages of the color chosen in 1½ gallons of boiling water. Boil five minutes to be sure all the dye has been dissolved. Add one cup of salt and stir until dissolved. Use only one-half the solution at one time, keeping the other half hot. Protect the floor with newspapers and brush dye on with a paint or scrub brush. Brush with the pile. If a hard surface, such as a porch floor, can be used, the dyeing can be done more quickly with a broom. Apply the dye just as hot as possible. A second coat of hot dye will give better results. At least 24 hours should elapse between applications.

AFTER YOU GET the color you want, go over the damp rug with a medium hot iron to help set the color. Then go over the rug with a damp cloth to remove any loose dye, and to prevent the color from cracking. Upholstery can also be dyed by this method. About six hours later, go over the surface with a stiff broom and brush the pile in the opposite direction. It will then finish drying in an erect position, which gives a velvety richness to the color. After a rug is dyed it usually needs to be re-sized. Cotton wovens, braided and chocked rugs can be dyed easily in the washing machine.

MAKE CUT FLOWERS
LAST LONGER—

Research has disproved that flowers cut in early morning will last longer. They explain more nutrients are retained in flowers cut in the later afternoon. Nutrients are necessary for a long life of a cut stem. These nutrients are used up rapidly at night when plants make their fastest growth. Plunge the flowers after cutting into warm water until they freshen up, then into cold water until you are ready to arrange them.

FT. STORY
TELLINGS

Troops and DUKWs from Fort Story led military and naval units in Norfolk's Armed Forces Day parade that swung through the city's downtown area. With the commanding officer of the 5th Transportation Battalion, Lt. Col. James F. Wolaver, as Commander of Troops, the marching units and amphibians made a trim and colorful showing in the long procession which enjoyed ideal weather. In nearby Portsmouth, Fort Story was represented by DUKWs and troops of the 46th "Barbarous" Transportation Company, commanded by Capt. Thomas M. Lawler, Jr.

Memorial Day also will have Story in the Norfolk parade that additionally observes the holiday. For this occasion the 46th, a 54th T Battalion unit, again will represent the post with DUKWs and foot troops. The 100-man marching detachment will be commanded by Capt. Thomas M. Lawler, Jr. as in the Portsmouth parade.

Soldier of the Week at Story, for the second time in less than a month, is 28-year-old SFC Robert R. Collins, Signal supply sergeant in the Post Signal Section. Collins, whose home is in Homestead, Pa., is a member of Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command B.

Sergeant Collins, as Soldier of the Week, again shared the reviewing stand on the post parade ground with staff officers at the weekly garrison review. In the absence of the post commander, Col. Edwin A. Deagle, the Assistant S-3, Maj. David A. Duffy, served as Reviewing Officer, with Maj. George L. Williams and Capt. Warren L. Green as members of his staff. Commander of Troops was Lt. Col. James F. Wolaver, with a staff composed of Maj. James A. McCaffrey, Capt. John P. Myrdak and 1st Lt. Robert Kimura.

Best Marching Unit at this review was judged to be the 66th DUKW Company, a unit of the 5th T Battalion, commanded by 1st Lt. Nathaniel R. Thompson. Award of the guidon streamer to the 62th DUKW Company, a 54th T Battalion unit commanded by Capt. William M. Dean, was made by Maj. David A. Duffy in recognition of its marching performance for the previous week.

Letters of Congratulation from

Truck Industry Staging Special
Safety Program

The Trucking Industry in Virginia has announced a safety campaign, "Partners in Safety," as a co-operative effort in the "Slow Down and Live" campaign of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee.

The special drive will extend from Memorial Day Through Labor Day, says W. E. Brinson, safety committee chairman for the Virginia Highway Users Association.

Each fleet operator has been requested to sign a company pledge, and have company employees at headquarters and each terminal sign individual pledges to exercise special safety precautions during the campaign period in addition to normal safety activity.

Signed safety pledge roster's will be displayed in company buildings. The American Trucking Associations is supplying a billfold size certificate of participation for each employee.

Company and employee owned cars and trucks will bear 4 x 14 inch bumper stickers emphasizing "Slow Down and Live" and "Partners in Safety" as reminders to motorists and pedestrians to be ever alert to accident prevention. Brinson said.

At the conclusion of the campaign every truck fleet that has co-operated and used all of the material will receive a Citation of Merit. Each driver of cars and trucks will receive a billfold Citation for Safe Driving upon completion of the period without a chargeable accident.

The Army Chief of Staff, General Matthew B. Ridgway, have been received by two Story basketball stars who were members of the Fort Bastis Basketball Team which recently won the 1955 All-Army Basketball Championship held at Fort Benning, Ga. They are Cpl. Gene Musolf of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 54th T Battalion, and Pvt. Albert A. Antinelli of the 3d AAA Group. General Ridgway's letter came down to the two men through command channels with congratulatory messages from Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, Commanding General of the Second Army; Brig. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln Jr., Commanding General of Fort Bastis, and Story's commanding officer, Col. Edwin A. Deagle.

Story's three beaches open this week, and members of the command again have been reminded of the hazards involved in any violation of swimming regulations. Each beach will be manned by a Special Services lifeguard and a DUKW for emergency use, and will be open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. The three beach areas are situated behind the Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers Clubs and the Bachelor Officers Quarters area.

Juanita Aldridge Being Entertained

Mrs. Juanita Aldridge, whose marriage to Midshipman Pintard Magruder Dyer, III, will take place on June 11, is being entertained at several parties.

Mrs. Henry R. Weaver entertained last Thursday evening at eight o'clock at a linen shower in Miss Aldridge's home. The party was given at Mrs. Weaver's home on Hamilton Avenue, Norfolk, and guests, in addition to the guest of honor, numbered 18.

Mrs. William Alton Carswell, aunt of the bride-elect, entertained Tuesday evening at her home on Hanover Avenue, Norfolk. The affair was a kitchen shower, and guests numbered 25.

Tomorrow evening, Mrs. Ethel C. Carswell will entertain at a miscellaneous shower in honor of her granddaughter. The party will be given at Mrs. Carswell's home, Mayfield Cottage, Atlantic Avenue, and guests will number 25.

Mrs. Aubrey N. Holmes will entertain Saturday at coffee, honoring Miss Aldridge. The party will be given at Mrs. Holmes' residence on Baltic Avenue, and the guests will number 16.

"Hole-In-One" Party Enjoyed

On Sunday afternoon, May 22, 150 guests enjoyed the "Hole-In-One" Tournament and barbecue at the Princess Anne Country Club. Afternoon showers caused both events to be held indoors, but did not dampen the festive affair.

Winners in the "Hole in One Putting Contest" held on the "tricky" course of the living room rug were: Cmdr. R. W. Schuman, Jr., first prize in the men's division; Nere E. Day, Jr., second prize in the men's division; Mrs. Alma Bratten, first prize in the ladies' division; Mrs. William R. Hunnicutt, second prize in the ladies' division.

The barbecue table held pork barbecue, chicken barbecue, deviled wrabs, assorted salads and liquid refreshments.

Local Clubs Send Delegates To Meeting of Garden Club of Va.

Mrs. E. C. Raguet and Commander and Mrs. Oscar Smith, representing the Princess Anne Garden Club, and Mrs. Henry B. Lewis and Mrs. Carl Forsberg, representing the Virginia Beach Garden Club, attended the 35th annual meeting of the Garden Club of Virginia, held last week in Lynchburg.

Highlight of the meeting, over which the president, Mrs. Thomas E. Thorne of Williamsburg, presided, was the GCV's decision to publish its own periodical, replacing Garden Gossip, formerly sponsored by the organization. The new publication will be edited by Mrs. Roger L. Mann, former editor of Garden Gossip, and will be published by the Dietz Press. Details of publication, policy, number of issues, material and eventual name will be left to the editor and the new standing committee appointed to supervise the publication, which will be headed by Mrs. Robert M.

Jeffress of Richmond, second vice president of the Virginia Club. Gross receipts of $35,564 for Historic Garden Week, 1955, were given by Mrs. Halliwell Dickinson of Richmond, chairman. Satisfaction was expressed with this figure, an increase of $2600 over last year, considering the unusually bad weather throughout the state at that time. An unusually large percentage of out-of-state visitors was reported, with many foreign countries and 45 of the 48 states being represented among the 20,000 visitors.

Restoration and reconstruction progress at Woodlawn, the present project of GCV, was given by Mrs. A. E. Kendrew of Williamsburg, chairman. Former restorations at Kenmore and Stratford were also improved, during the past year.

The Franklin Garden Club was welcomed into the organization, the recommendation being made by Mrs. C. James Andrews, Norfolk, chairman of the admissions committee.

State-wide approval has already been felt of the bestowing of the GCV coveted Massey Medal Award to Hunter Perry and his sister, Lillian Perry Edwards of Charlottesville for their timely action in preserving historic Goshen Pass for Virginia, when its timberlands were threatened by a lumbering company.

At the final business session, Mrs. Charles P. Holden, Alexandria, and Mrs. Junius P. Elshburne, Roanoke, were elected to the board, replacing the outgoing directors.

Local Clubs Honored
The GCV, in session, sent a telegram to Miss Elizabeth Gregory Hill, long-time president of the Princess Anne Garden Club, ex-

Baccalaureate Service June 5th

Forty-eight seniors are scheduled to receive diplomas in commencement exercises to be held June 8 in the Virginia Beach High School auditorium.

The main address to the seniors will be delivered by Lewis W. Webb, Jr., director of the Norfolk Division of the College of William and Mary.

James A. Johnson, Jr., school principal, will present diplomas to the graduates. Johnson stated that the vast majority of the graduates this year plan to go to college. Last year approximately 42 of 60 seniors went on to higher educational institutions.

Lena Katherine Hutsenpiller is the class salutatorian and Judith Ann Taylor is the salutatorian.

Members of the school board as well as members of the faculty have been invited to march with the seniors.

Baccalaureate Services

Baccalaureate services will be held in the school auditorium at 8 p. m. on June 5, with the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, pastor of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church, scheduled to address the senior class. Music for both affairs will be provided by the school's mixed chorus under the direction of J. William Miller.

The school's junior-senior prom will be held Friday night at the American Legion Club on Laskin Road. Sponsor of the Class of 1955 is Mrs. Frances Everton.

NIKE, ANTI-AIRCRAFT MISSILE, BELL PRODUCT

Nike, the first anti-aircraft guided missile now being installed by the army, was developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories, the Douglas Aircraft Corporation and Western Electric Company.

After graduation Lankford will go to Baltimore where he has accepted a position with the Esso laboratories and where he will do graduate work at Johns Hopkins University.

The award, which was established in 1930, is made each year by the Alpha Chi Sigma Society to an outstanding student in chemistry or chemical engineering. It carries a year's junior membership in the American Chemical Society.

Mrs. Van Buskirk Chosen To Head Music Club

The final meeting of the season for the Virginia Beach Music Club was held at the home of Mrs. W. F. Crockett, on Pocahontas Drive, with Mrs. W. R. Hunnicutt as co-hostess.

Election of officers for 1955-56 were as follows:

Mrs. Earle Van Buskirk, president; Mrs. E. H. Church, vice president; Mrs. Maclin Simmons, recording secretary; Mrs. Lowery Finley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. F. Crockett, treasurer.

Following the business session a musical program was enjoyed.

Mrs. Hunnicutt, pianist, played the following selections: "Etude in A Flat Major, by Ezerny; "Prelude in C Sharp Major," Chopin, and "Theme and Variations in A Minor," by Haydn.

Miss Rita Piller, clarinetist, a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory, and member of the Norfolk Symphony, and Mrs. C. Stanley Lowell, vocalist, graduate of Peabody Institute, were guest solists.

Plans for the Civic Concert Association were discussed and Mrs. Roland Thorp announced that letters with subscription blanks for membership tickets for next season's concerts have been mailed to all former members.

A spokesman said that the whole-hearted support of the community will be appreciated and that tickets may be obtained by mailing subscription blanks with checks to Mrs. Thorp at 201 78th Street, Virginia Beach.

The Rev. A. B. Blount, pastor of the Kempsville Baptist Church, has been in Miami, Fla., for the past week, attending the Southern Baptist Convention. This week he, with other pastors, will visit mission fields in Havana.

Mr. Blount will return this week and will occupy the pulpit Sunday morning.

Artists for the coming concert season are now being interviewed and will be announced as soon as selections are made.

Chaplain Addresses Woman's Club And Tells Of Leadership Training

A series of moral and spiritual leadership training programs is now being developed for the fleet of the United States Navy, according to Capt. R. E. Bishop, chaplain of the Atlantic Fleet, who spoke at the 15th birthday luncheon of the Kempsville Woman's Club given by Comdr. and Mrs. R.

R. Garriott May 17 at the Little Creek Officers Club.

The Chaplain discussed the history of the Chaplain Corps and cited the three-fold ministry of the "clergymen in uniform": religious, personal counseling and character education.

He stated that programs for moral and spiritual training are already underway in recruit training centers and service schools as part of the regular class program. Mrs. Lyman Clarke, president of the club, announced that the club will enter the Community Achievement Contest of the General Federation of Women's Clubs with Mrs. James R. Land as chairman. She also announced that Mrs. Swindell Pollock will be in charge of the "book shelf" to be set up this summer at the Community House.

Reporting on the dental clinic which the club has provided at the Kempsville Elementary School with proceeds from the annual horse show, Mrs. Clarke said that 903 people have been treated this year at the clinic. She also announced that the club plans to give a $200 scholarship at the Princess Anne High School and awards to outstanding art students at the school.

Comdr. I. P. Goodwin, RN, gave a humorous recitation and the club heard Charles Williams, soloist, accompanied by Miss Patricia Goodwin.

Special guests at the birthday celebration were Mrs. James A. Woodard, president of the Tidewater District, Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. H. D. Cole, secretary of the Tidewater District; Mrs. E. J. Gerloff, president of the Cavalier Junior Woman's Club; Mrs. W. W. Connell, Jr., president of the Cape Henry Woman's Club; Mrs. R. G. Holmon, president of the Ocean Park Woman's Club; Mrs. E. A. Hudson, president of the Chesapeake Woman's Club, and Mrs. Aubrey N. Holmes, president of the Princess Anne County Woman's Club.

GIRL SCOUTS RALLY SET FOR SATURDAY

On this Saturday, May 28, at 2:30 p. m., in the Kempsville Elementary School, there will be a rally for the Girl Scouts of the Kempsville neighborhood.

Mrs. J. D. Gregory, neighborhood chairman, and Mrs. W. P. Phillips, co-chairman, have planned a very interesting program, with Brownie, Intermediate and Senior troops taking part.

Invitations have been sent to the district committee and the neighborhood chairmen of Princess Anne County, and to the Norfolk council.

The Rev. M. Douglas Newman of the Community Methodist Church, will give the invocation. Mrs. Lyman Clarke, president of the Princess Anne District, will present awards.

All friends of Scouting are invited to attend.

AT CONFERENCE

The Rev. M. Douglas Newman leaves for Richmond today to attend a meeting of the Conference Board of Missions.

Club Members Complete Course In Art Work

The Kempsville Woman's Club recently invited members of the Cavalier Woman's Club to participate in an art course given by Mrs. Charles S. Deaton, Fine Arts chairman of the Kempsville club. The lessons ran for six weeks and the class worked in oils, painted on canvas and also on velvet. The work consisted mostly of flower painting and some still life.

Mrs. Deaton, who will open her own studio for art instruction in the fall, minored in Fine Arts at Washington State College and has taught art in high school and grammar school. She worked with the Newport, R. I., Art Association, studied in San Diego and also with Greta Matson locally.

Mrs. Deaton is particularly gratified with the work done by the club members and feels that many people surprise themselves when they learn to "get out of their own way and let their natural ability come forward."

LAYMEN FILL PULPIT IN PASTOR'S ABSENCE

Sunday morning, May 22, in the absence of the pastor, H. H. Shillet, a Norfolk layman, filled the pulpit at the Baptist Church.

Sunday night, H. A. Culpepper, chairman of the board of deacons, was in charge of the service, and four men of the church gave most interesting talks.

Dean Polk gave appropriate scriptures on "The Christian and His Home." Don Meadows talked on "The Christian and His Church." Charles Pitt discussed "The Christian and His Public Life." Final talk was by H. F. Tyler, who spoke on "A Christian Using His Talents."

The Youth Choir sang an arrangement of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

Lions Club Hears Address On Rehabilitation

The Bayside Lions Club held its regular meeting Wednesday night of last week at Charlie's Restaurant, Shore Drive. The president, George Lyon, presided.

The speaker of the evening was "Jim" Martin, who is with the Norfolk newspapers and who has lost his sight. He talked to the club on his rehabilitation and how he is determined to lead a normal life despite his handicap. His talk was particularly interesting to the club, since the primary work of Lions clubs is with the blind.

J. Hugh Barnes, chairman of the "Accent" and light bulb sale, reported that his committee had done very well on this sale and that exact figures would be given shortly.

BAYSIDE PTA ELECTS OFFICERS FOR NEW YEAR

The Bayside PTA held its regular meeting Monday night, May 16, at 8 p. m. at the school. Mrs. Charles Hodgman, president, presided at the meeting.

The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers for the 1955-56 school year: Mrs. Albin Reedy, president; Mrs. R. E. Drumwright, first vice-president; Mrs. A. N. Murrell, second vice-president; Mrs. Robert Laird, secretary; and Mrs. M. M. Parker, treasurer. The new officers were installed at the meeting, following their election.

A program on "Our American Music" was presented by the 4th grade under the direction of Miss Betty Landers, music teacher.

MEN'S CLUB DANCE POSTPONED UNTIL JUNE

The Men's Club of Chesapeake Beach held its regular monthly meeting last Thursday night at the Chesapeake Beach Community Center. The president, R. J. Webber, presided. It was decided that the dance which the club had scheduled for May 26 would be postponed until some time in June, due to the fact that so many of the members of the club are attending the Lions convention in Roanoke.

The club is planning a mass meeting at the Chesapeake Beach Community Center for Thursday night, June 2, to see what can be done about the pending annexation of this area. All persons in Princess Anne County who are interested in this issue are urged to

Aug. 1 Final Date For ASC Wheat Allotments In PA

A date of August 1, 1955, has been established as the final date on which the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee may accept requests for new 1956 wheat allotments. W. F. Hunger, chairman of the Princess Anne County ASC has announced.

A meeting to acquaint wheat buyers with the provisions of the wheat marketing quota program will be held in the Norfolk County ASC office, 58 Commercial Place, Norfolk, at 10 a. m. tomorrow, May 27.

In speaking of the 1956 allotments, Mr. Hunger said that under the program a "new farm" is one on which no wheat was seeded in any of the years 1953, 1954 and 1955. To apply for an allotment the farm operator must file an application with the county ASC office. Blank application forms are available for use in filing these requests.

To be considered for a new farm allotment, farmers will be required to furnish certain information for the consideration of the county committee. Such information would include the reason for requesting an allotment, why wheat should be produced rather than some other small grain, why no wheat was seeded during the past three years, and an explanation of the crop rotation system. Also the operator must expect to derive at least half of his livelihood from the farm. Mr. Hunger explained that any wheat allotments granted to new farms must come out of a small reserve which the county committee will establish for that purpose.

Coffee Price Cut Effective Here

A nation-wide reduction of four cents a pound on its own brands of coffee was announced Monday by A&P food stores.

These reductions, company officials said, bring premium coffee prices down to the lowest point in approximately five years. Just a year ago A&P coffee was selling for as high as $1.17 a pound.

The new prices per pound, effective since Monday in all A&P stores, are: Eight O'Clock, 75c; Red Circle, 78c; and Bokar, 81c. The company's own brand of A&P vacuum-packed coffee is reduced from 88c to 85c a pound.

MERRY MATRONS

By Misses X

MRS. GRAYSON WILLIS, who is fondly known as "Pinky" by all of her many friends, is approaching the club woman's activities in a most sensible manner. Recently she has become more active as a member of the Princess Anne Woman's Club. She made it a point to attend the recent convention of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs at the Hotel Chamberlain, Old Point, and also made a point of watching, listening and absorbing it all because it was her first such convention and she felt she could be a better club member in so doing. She studies a lot at home, too, and is serious in giving of herself and her talents to the club, as well as getting much out of her membership.

To your Allie, this is an excellent plan. How many club women do you know who attend meetings of the various clubs hereabouts and never bring away from a meeting any more than what some of the gals were wearing?

MRS. AUBREY HOLMES, president of the Princess Anne Woman's Club, is up to her pretty ears with plans and huddles with W. G. Swartz's MARY HOWELL, for the club's annual Fall Fashion Show which will be given at the Cavalier Beach Club the Wednesday after Labor Day. The male jury of fashion was so popular last year 'tis rumored they'll "of-ficiate" again.

MRS. EDDIE LACHMAN, African Violet Society member, is letting her violets play second fiddle to fishing these warm days. She is not only an excellent fisherman but gets a real bang out of the sport on the fishing pier.

MRS. WILEY HARRELL's own ideas in interior decorating will add much to the stunning decor of the new Harrell house on Birdneck Point. There's be a happy house-warming in June.

MRS. WILLIAM J. HARRIS is a wonderful example of a successful career woman and devoted mother. Each school morning you will see Doris driving her sons, Billy and Ricky, in to Norfolk's Sacred Heart School, and then to her own secretarial position with a prominent Norfolk insurance company. Weekends "Mom" and her boys are bee-busy landscaping their grounds in Bay Colony. They are three of the best stump-diggers in Princess Anne County, too!

WHO'S BETTER DRIVER?

CITY MAN — OR FARMER?

Are farmers worse drivers than city folks? Nobody's sure yet, but the Virginia Rural Safety Council says the reports received so far indicate that about one farmer in a thousand was involved in a fatal motor vehicle accident in 1952. The national rate for other drivers was about one in 1,500. It is nothing to be proud of, the Council says.

When you're on the highway with heavy equipment, the truck, or the car, the Council says drive with care — everywhere.

Production of nickel by the free world in 1954 reached an all-time high estimated at 390,000,000 pounds — about 50,000,000 pounds greater than the 1953 total and about 50% above the pre-Korean output.

ENJOYED THE FOOD AT COLONY RESTAURANT
"We enjoyed the food very much. The service was excellent. We would like to come again some time." These were the words of Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl Cooke, of Clinton, Iowa, after a meal at the Colony Restaurant.
This is the type of reaction most patrons of the Colony have after eating in the famous Virginia Beach restaurant. —adv.

State's Chemical Industry May Use Automation Fully

The chemical industry, which last year invested some $71 million in new plant facilities in Virginia, may become the first major industry to fully "automatize" its manufacturing operations.

This region's chemical growth, among the nation's top ten states in 1954, reflects the industry's progress toward maximum automation, according to an analysis of the South's technological trend made by Minneapolis-Honeywell. On a nation-wide basis chemical growth is rated second only to steel, expanding annually at a rate of 10% as contrasted to the over-all industrial average of only 3%.

Chemical plants in Virginia, the report indicated, are becoming increasingly self-sufficient as management encourages the use of more and more automatic equipment while continuing improving continuous-flow methods of production. The industry was described as one of the heaviest investors in automatic instruments, purchasing one out of every five such instruments sold.

With this kind of support, today's chemical worker turns out some $26,000 worth of material, while his 1939 statistical counter-

Hangar Rats And Spam Cans

A picturesque dialect is springing up in the air force, according to Norman Brown in the New York Times. A jet plane is called a blowtorch. A Saboteur fighter is a bentwing, which is exactly how it looks. A jet engine that fails in flight is a flameout. The mechanics who repair the planes are called hangar rats. To a jet crew, an old-fashioned propeller plane is a spam can — a term that suggests a slight professional condescension.

A parachute is called a jump sack, and a crash helmet is a brain bucket. Hostile aircraft are called handies. A clumsy pilot is called a plumber; a blundering student pilot is a wobble-head. The throttle is called a go-handle; to get away fast is to bug out.

part found some $15,000 his best effort.

Ranking ahead of Virginia in chemical plant expansion in the South were Texas, with $371 million invested; Florida, with $238 million; Louisiana, with $232 million; and West Virginia, with $74 million. Following Virginia came Kentucky, with $62 million; Tennessee, with $44 million; Georgia, with $41 million; and Mississippi and Alabama with $37 million and $30 million respectively, to round out the first 15 states.

GARDEN GUIDE

RED MAPLES

There seems to be quite a bit of confusion among gardeners as to just what is a red maple. When they come into a nursery for a red maple and someone asks what kind do you want, they immediately say, "Oh, is there more than one kind?" Yes, there are several kinds of these trees, and we shall attempt to categorize and describe them in the language of the average gardener, so that perhaps we can clear up some of the misunderstanding.

Common Red Maple

The most common of all is the woods maple or swamp red maple (Acer rubrum). This is a relatively fast-growing tree that is found in damp places, especially along river and canal banks. It is native to this area and is extremely common. The leaves are entirely green, not red, with three to five lobes. They have a slightly paler green undersurface than the above surface. The tree has beautiful red flowers in the spring, hence its name. There is one growing in the low area along the north side of Laskin Road just east of the Golf Ranch Motel. It is a fairly good-sized tree and flowered quite colorfully this spring. The foliage turns red to orange in the fall and is quite attractive.

Patented Varieties

The common red maple has at least two patented varieties that, though rare in this area, are more common in other parts of the U. S. One is the Schwedler maple (Acer rubrum schwedleri), a plant that comes out with red leaves in the spring and gradually turn bronze in the summer. We feel that the tree is not too attractive, and it is not particularly adapted to the average landscape plan.

Another variety of the common red maple is the Crimson King maple (Acer rubrum schwedleri nigra). This is a true red-leaved tree that retains its color during the entire summer. It is very striking in appearance and should be used with care.

Japanese Red Maple

Of all deciduous trees, the Japanese red maple is probably the most interesting and varied. The best Japanese maples are grafted plants. They have a blood-red leaf that holds its color all summer. Frequently they are dwarfed trees that grow only a few feet tall and spread several times their height. Specimen trees of this kind many years old are worth hundreds of dollars and are highly prized by their owners.

The seedling Japanese maples vary widely in growth characteristics and leaf color. They may be semi-dwarfed and spreading or fully upright. Whether seedling or grafted, all of the trees are small in size. The seedling varieties frequently vary in color to the point that the leaves eventually turn green and lose the predominant red color.

Do not be misled into false economy if you plan to purchase one of these trees, for the better grafted trees are not inexpensive.

Growing pains? Horticultural questions sent in by our readers will be promptly answered in this column.

Sweet Sixteen

How proud Mother and Dad are of their lovely young graduate. They bask in the glow from her fresh beauty and quite understandably feel a sense of accomplishment. Raising a baby daughter and seeing her attain this threshold is an achievement.

But hold on there, Dad, before you burst with natural pride. What have you given this daughter other than the physical necessities of food and clothing? What have you done about her spiritual needs?

And, Mother, you who have often denied yourself for this beloved girl, what inner endowment have you passed on? Have you enriched her soul with faith and understanding?

How about it, parents of this lovely graduate, have you given your daughter the religious training and habit of regular church attendance that will help her more than all else to meet life's problems with tranquility, to make the most of her promising future?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

EVERYDAY RELIGION

By C. Stanley Lowell Minister,
Virginia Beach
Methodist Church

POINT OF VIEW

What there is to be seen is important. The place from which we look is important, too. Natural Bridge offers no view from the top. You can actually be standing on the span of the bridge and have no idea it is there at all. You must drive back a mile or two, take a walk down the valley. Then you look, and behold, the wonder of the bridge. The point of view is important.

One of the differences between us and God is that we see only a part and God sees all. We see the tiny cubicle of time and space we are in. God sees it all spread out like a scroll. If we could see contemporary events as they appear even ten years from now, we might have quite a different idea of them. So much depends on the perspective.

Time and Tide

There was a time when ministers preached sermons against women bobbing their hair and wearing short skirts. Today I know of no preacher who would do so. We have a different viewpoint about such matters. Indeed, I recall that when long skirts came back following World War II a clergyman friend of mine denounced them as immoral because the extra material was needed to clothe the naked of Europe!

The fire of London destroyed most of the old city. It made possible the rebuilding of the city on a superior plan. So great was the improvement that historians now write of the great fire almost as though it were a blessing. Yet at the time it was a terrible catastrophe and brought suffering to many thousands.

The stupidities of George III helped to bring on the American Revolution. The brightest jewel in the British crown was lost. But out of that disaster the British learned a lesson that was to prove invaluable. They learned that the tyranny of George III must never be repeated. From this tragic experience was born the idea of the British Commonwealth of Nations, a novel notion in empire.

The wars of religion following the Protestant Reformation were among the most stupid and brutal conflicts of all time. Yet out of these wars came the great principle of religious toleration. Nobody wanted that principle at the time. All participants came to it through grudging acceptance. Yet today many regard religious toleration so highly as to say that these wars were worthwhile if they could make such a benefit possible.

As God Sees

It is important to see things inclusively before we pass judgment. What is this more inclusive viewpoint? Or rather, whose is it? It is God's. With God the end is as the beginning. We see only a part and the part we see may distress us. But God sees all. What seems to us an unrelieved disaster may appear to Him as an integral step toward a great achievement.

The best person who ever lived died the death of a criminal. From our viewpoint nothing could have been worse. In the divine perspective Calvary was the key to the world's redemption.

We must strive in so far as we can to see life clearly and to see it whole. We must strive to see not from the angry partialities of little men but from the inclusiveness of God. Perhaps that is what Jesus meant by that puzzling imperative: "You, therefore, shall be perfect even as your Heavenly Father is perfect."

Dr. Bond Back From Convention

Dr. W. G. Bond, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Virginia Beach, will return to his pulpit next Sunday after attending the meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention in Miami, Fla.

With the use of an opaque projector, the congregation Sunday evening will be able to visualize a meeting of such a convention. On the screen will be shown pictures to portray the gathering of thousands of people in a deliberative body. Newspaper clippings and other material will be used to give those present a view of the issues before the convention.

Don't be surprised if a recorded voice answers your telephone call to a doctor or business firm. The C&P Telephone company is now marketing a mechanical secretary which answers the telephone and records a short message which the subscriber may hear when he returns to his office.

A few drops of camphor oil added to each gallon of paint used on porches and outdoor furniture will serve as an insect repellent.

S. Paul Brown Will Attend Assn. Meeting

The National Association of County Officials will meet at the John Marshall Hotel in Richmond July 17-20.

Among members from this area to attend will be S. Paul Brown, chairman of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors; and G. A. Treake of the Norfolk County Board. Mr. Brown is a member of the NACCO Civil Defense Committee and Mr. Treake is treasurer of the group and immediate past president.

The organization, which has never before met in Virginia, is composed of county officers from all over the United States, and includes in its membership judges, clerks and recorders, county commissioners and supervisors, sheriffs, county attorneys, treasurers, tax collectors, highway officials and others.

GEORGE E. MOTT, III, TO TAKE SUMMER CRUISE

Midn. George E. Mott, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Mott, Jr., of 900 Norfolk Avenue, Virginia Beach, will be among the 56 Duke University NROTC Midshipmen to participate this summer in a training cruise to England and Spain.

Scheduled to leave Norfolk June 6 are 1,700 Naval Academy midshipmen and 1,400 NROTC midshipmen from Duke and other universities. They will return August 3.

GOD BE WITH YOU TILL WE MEET AGAIN

The white minister who was to become president of a great Negro university picked up a dictionary in his study at the First Congregational Church, Washington, D. C. He thumbed through the pages until he found what he wanted, and then made some notes on a pad at his side: "Farewell — fare thee well. Wherever you go, whatever you do, however circumstances affect you, may you fare well." Another volume furnished an interpretation of the slang expression, "So long," and hinted that it was possibly an Testament and found these references: Acts 15:29, "Fare ye well"; Acts 23:30, "Farewell."

From the original Greek, he discovered that these words have a wide variety of meaning, including "God make you strong; but strong; be well; be firm; enjoy good health; rejoice; be joyful and be full of joy."

Since his Sunday evening congregations were growing, the resourceful pastor, the Rev. Jere-

English corruption of the Islam greeting, "Salaam Alaiikum." — or "Peace be with you." Noting that the French "farewell," "Adieu" or "Au revoir," means "Till we meet again," he then looked up the word "goodbye." He jotted down these notes: "Goodbye — God be with you. Can God go with everyone? Suppose they don't want Him to go with them? Is this not a parting word for Christians only?"

With that he looked up the various "farewells" in the New English Bible (1828-1904) featured evangelistic singing. He had already edited a book of gospel songs two years earlier, "Gospel Temperance Hymns" having been published in 1878. Even before that, some of his original hymns had been included in "Songs of the New Life" published in 1869.

This particular Sunday night in 1860 he wanted to close the service with a farewell hymn. The only good one in the standard hymnals was John Fawcett's "Blest be the tie that binds." But Rankin wanted something different, more of a lifting gospel song than a dignified stately hymn. Not finding what he wanted and with the results of his recent study of the dictionary and the Bible in his mind, he sat down and wrote the first stanza of his own "farewell hymn."

God be with you till we meet again.

By His counsels guide, uphold you;

With His sheep securely fold you

God be with you till we meet again.

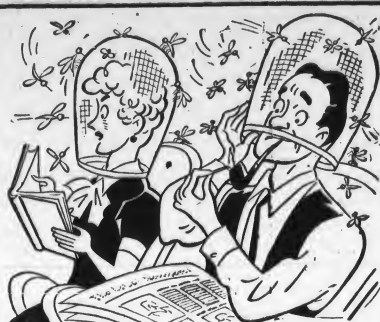

He sent the words to two musicians, asking them to try their hand at composing an appropriate tune for the stanza and chorus: "Till we meet at Jesus' feet. God be with you till we meet again."

The tune that suited him and seemed to express the spirit of the words was sent in by William Gould Tomer, at that time school teacher in Carpentersville, N. J. The music so pleased the poet that he wrote seven additional stanzas to complete his new hymn. It is interesting to note that Mr. Tomer had been at one time on the staff of General O. O. Howard, after whom the great Negro institution of higher education, Howard University, in Washington, D. C., is named. Later Dr. Rankin himself was to serve as president of this university for seven years.

Dr. John W. Blischoff, blind organist of the author's church, revised the new tune slightly, and it was sung for the first time by the poet's Sunday night congregation.

It is fitting for an age which says "thanks" when it means "thank you" to be reminded that the word "goodbye" is saying a prayer, "God be with you."

EASY ENTERTAINING

Well, here we are again — and I thought today we'd chat about easy ways to entertain.

When the club meets at your house you'll find this "Club Luncheon Sandwich" a big success. You're likely to say "why didn't I think of that?"

FOR THE BASE of the sandwich use a slice of pumpernickle or rye bread. This is topped with lettuce, then a slice of Swiss cheese. Next comes a slice of ham, on top of that, two slices of tomato (and we'll soon be getting home-grown ones, won't that be wonderful?). Garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs and strips of crisp bacon. Served with thousand island dressing, this is a flavorful as well as an attractive combination. You'll need to add only coffee or tea to the main course and then for a luscious dessert, Fudge Pie or some other favorite sweet.

HOW MANY TIMES have you been called on to act as chairman of the refreshment committee of the PTA or your church group?

The next time you are, remember that some of the ready-to-serve meats make a nice change from sweet, cookies and the like. You can use sliced ham, pimento loaf or a chipped beef and cream cheese mixture. Cut the sandwiches into different shapes. You may use cookie cutters to shape your sandwiches.

DEEP WHIRLS add a gay touch to the sandwich tray. Carefully spread thinned creamed cheese over slices of chipped beef and roll. Chill and slice into bite-size pieces.

Another tasty tid-bit is BACON and PEANUT BUTTER PIN-WHEELS. Cook bacon until transparent, then cut in 2-inch strips. Spread with peanut butter, roll. Just before serving, slip the pin-wheels under your broiler to heat.

IF YOU ARE GOING to use the ready-to-serve meats, choose from the wide range of flavors... meats to suit each person's taste. Also pick meats with color in mind. Include lighter loaves such as veal and bologna, the darker salami and corned beef. It's interesting, also, to have different shapes and sizes of meats. Choose from among the large and small rolls and the varied-shaped loaves.

WHEN STORING ready-to-serve meats in your refrigerator, keep them closely wrapped. Use several thicknesses of wax paper, plastic wrap or aluminum foil, whichever you prefer.

FUDGE PIE

Here is a delicious and devastatingly rich, crustless pie. Make it and see for yourself.

1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2 ounces chocolate
2 cup flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
Vanilla ice cream

Cream sugar and butter until very light. Beat in egg yolks, chocolate (melted and cooled), the flour and vanilla. Mix thoroughly and fold in egg whites (stiffly beaten with salt).

Bake in a greased 8-inch pie plate about one-half hour at 325 degrees. When ready to serve top with ice cream.

ASBESTOS PIPE LIKE NEW AFTER 17 YEARS' SERVICE

A 15-in. asbestos-cement water line installed 17 years ago by the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad recently was subjected to exhaustive tests by Chicago city engineers. They found it showed no physical deterioration, even under difficult operating conditions. An engineer said a section removed for the test looked as new as the day it was installed and would be kept on hand for re-use in case of emergency.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR IN COTTONS

Designer Paul Farnes has used a variety of new and interesting cottons for his newest summertime creations. He has chosen cottons that are crinkled or plain, woven in new patterns: checked gingham, chambray, cotton Honan, cottons blended with silk, plain, patterned, or embroidered.

Second in his fabric choice are the perennial sheer flat crepes, sheer Irish linens, and silk shantung. Therefore, femme shoppers can have a real time of it in making selections for wear at home, in the country, at the beach or for traveling.

Colors as well as fabrics are cool — with mint green, grey, yellow, as well as black, combined with white in checked designs. There are creamy and light yellow tones, too, and much pale grey throughout the Farnes summer collection. As a matter of fact, never before in many years has grey been so summer-popular!

Black, pink, white and blue — ranging from star sapphire thru violet shades to navy — are all to be found in the cotton fashions in our shops at the moment. Trimming, wherever used, is light and airy with narrow satin pipings and little shoe-string bows or big splashy ones, flowing chiffon handkerchiefs, fragile bits of white or black lingerie, sparkling buttons; and many plain, pleated or corrugated bands of fabric, touches of velvet, and gay bountonniers.

SUNBONNET GINGHAMS...

Many of the smartest traveling suits are fashioned in checked sunbonnet gingham or woven cottons. These are ideal for vacationers. There are cotton suits with skirts, and ensembles composed of dress and jacket or dress and bolero. Paul Farnes features chiffon cotton, used for one or two-toned dresses with full swirling skirts, slender bodies and low, cool necklines. These airy frocks are piped with matching or contrasting satin, adorned with whiffs of satin bows, or are trimmed with tucked or pleated or lattice bands of fabric that are typical of the fine custom order detail for which Paul Farnes is noted. (Home sewers can get many a fine idea from taking a peek at a Farnes creation.)

Early in 1949 at Marysvale, Utah, about 163 miles south of Salt Lake City, a prospector discovered radioactive minerals while examining some old mines, and gave the U. S. its first important source of primary uranium.

BLACK IS HERE AGAIN...

For those of you who are planning on vacation trips to the Big Town, don't forget that a real guarantee for "coolth" on the hot pavements is a neat daytime or night-time frock in black. Summery black frocks in sheer crepes, Irish linen and silk or cotton shantung make stunning hot weather aids for that chic appearance.

MEN'S LAST WORD

IN SUMMER TOGS...

Deep greys and blues are to be popular for men's wear this summertime. There will be trim cotton jackets with medium width shoulders. Slim cotton slacks will be seen in solids, and in checks, and in stripes. Just-below-the-knee cotton socks will be worn with the new khaki or corduroy shorts and cotton knits will be very popular with hime men folks for sports shirts. Lots of cotton sports shirts are being purchased in bold - prints, bright checks and other colorful designs. LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON...

For boys, it will be a "like father, like son" summer styling. Boys' cottons are high-styled in denim, broadcloth, flannels, satinet, madras, chambray, gingham and corduroy.

WHITE, WHITE GLOVES...

While there are lots of colored gloves — in brilliant hues as well as pastels — still in all, there is nothing like a spanking white pair of gloves to really complete a chic-looking costume. However, be sure your white gloves are always immaculate. It's a good idea to keep them in a plastic freezer bag. They'll always be ready for use and clean and fresh. They'll also retain their shape, whiteness and appearance much longer, too. Wear your white gloves only once and launder at once. It's a good plan to have at least one extra pair, so that it will be easier to keep both pairs neat and clean.

BUSINESS REVIEW SECTION

Ideal Simplified Bookkeeping And Tax Records Have Many Features

Norfolk Stationery Company, located at 113 Brooke Avenue, Norfolk, recommends the Ideal System as the most complete line of simplified bookkeeping and tax record system now on the market. This system offers many features which makes it most practical, simple and easy to use.

Specimen sheets, which are included in each book, show practical facsimile reproductions of proper entries. Another appreciated feature is the depreciation charts which give average life and depreciation rates of furniture, equipment, buildings, etc.

Each Ideal System has ample loose leaf sheets for one year or more. New fillers and sheets are always obtainable. The size of the book is convenient for any safe or desk. Complete instructions are printed in each book and all forms are self-explanatory.

The sheets are loose leaf, punched in three colors for easy to tell, with headings printed in black type on high-grade, water-marked No. 1 white Ideal System ledger paper.

The sheets are punched for the Ideal System binders with two quarter-inch round holes and 7-16ths center and with two 5-16 shot holes 7 and 1-8 inch centers for other standard binders.

Clear plastic reinforced index tabs are printed on both sides, securely fastened to strong No. 1 buff Ideal System ledger sheets.

New fillers or sheets are always obtainable in any quantity.

A sales or income section provides for a record of your total sales or income, cash received and distribution of sales or income each day. It reflects your progress at a glance.

Expenses and purchases section are listed in these sections in self-explanatory columns headed according to tax requirements. All cash and checks paid out are properly accounted for here, placing "out go" of a business before the user at a glance.

Monthly totals from the preceding sections are transferred to a "Summary" section which gives the user a clear picture of his business and shows profit of loss monthly and yearly. Indispensable in the preparation of income tax and other necessary reports.

Other and special sections vary according to the particular Ideal System. They provide proper payroll record forms, social security tax, withholding tax, fixtures and equipment, depreciation, etc., records for quick reference. Each form is simple and self-explanatory.

Local Motorists Urged To Drive Replica Of Speedway Pace Car

The Clark Chevrolet Corporation this week invited the public to see and drive a colorful replica of the 1955 Motorama Chevrolet recently chosen as official pace car for this year's 500-mile speedway classic at Indianapolis, Ind.

The unusual offer is being made in honor of the part Chevrolet will play in the historic race on May 30, L. L. Clark said.

The official car, a flashing Bel Air convertible in beige and red, will lead 33 of the world's fastest race cars on the starting lap of the May 30th classic.

It is equipped with Powerflite automatic transmission and the optional 180-horsepower "Super Turbo-Fire" V8 engine which includes a four-barrel carburetor and dual exhaust system.

In extending the invitation to Chevrolet to pace the Indianapolis race, Speedway Board Chairman Anton Hulman, Jr., said:

"The 1955 Chevrolet V8 is a 'natural' as pace car this year in view of the fact that the car and engine represent latest developments in the industry."

Mr. Clark stated: "We want to give the public an opportunity to compare the improvements Mr. Hulman mentioned in his invitation. The pace car replica will be on view in our showroom at 600 17th Street until May 30."

PRECIPITATION

The following figures include both rain and snow, on the basis that ten inches of snow are equal in water content to approximately one inch of rain.

Driest state: Nevada, with yearly average of 8.8 inches.

Driest spot: Greenleaf Ranch, Death Valley, Cal., with annual average of 1.35 inches.

Average for U. S.: About 29 inches.

Wettest state: Louisiana, with yearly average of 55 inches.

Wettest spot: Wynoochee Ox-bow, Wash., with a 13-year annual average of 150.7 inches.

Largest rainfall in 24 hours: 23.22 inches at New Smyrna, Fla., October 10-11, 1924.

Home Demonstration And 4-H Clubs Are Active With Projects

By Mrs. Elizabeth Deal
County Home Agent

Last week the Home Demonstration women in the county held a lampshade class on covering lampshades with fabric. We had twelve women and the class was taught by Mrs. Hopkins from the Ocean Park Home Demonstration Club.

Another event of importance was the 4-H Achievement on last Wednesday when in the home-making projects the following prizes were awarded to the girls:

Carolyn Clarke, first place, Junior Achievement contest; Betty Ann Lee, second place, Junior Achievement Contest, and first place in Junior Room Improvement contest; Marlene Macwell, first place in Junior Ironing contest; Mary Ann Vetter, fourth place, Junior Foods Achievement; Betty Ann Lee, third place, Junior Foods Achievement; Sue Fentress, second place, Junior Foods Achievement; Barbara Watts, first place, Junior Foods Achievement; Betty Ann Lee, first place, Junior Clothing Achievement; and Doris Humphries, first place, Senior Clothing Achievement.

In many of the projects the girls had not had an opportunity to complete their work, so we did not have as many participating to the extent of completing the work and sending in a record book to be judged. This was due to the change in the club year which has been brought about by the matter of a change due to the situation in Princess Anne becoming more urban. However, in years to come this will take care of itself as the girls can begin the work at the close of the club year in May, carry it through the summer and on through the year.

We are at present attempting to organize summer groups for work and play and have made a beginning along this line. In the girls' projects it is important if they are contest-minded that they present a record year after year in the same project and in related projects. National winners are chosen on the basis of the amount of work done by the girl according to the time that she has been in club work, her age and her situation.

Great Progress Made

We feel that the girls in Princess Anne County have made great progress in the seven and a half years that they have had a home agent in the county, since it is impossible to carry these projects without the assistance of a home agent. They have shown up well in the contest in which they have participated when in competition with girls from counties which have had home agents for as long as 25 to 30 years.

Naturally, we believe in our club motto of "Making the Best Better" and we are looking forward to a continuation of improvement in the girls' projects, and a real desire to one day have a National winner from Princess Anne County.

At the Achievement Program the attendance was very good, we thought. We were most graciously welcomed by Mrs. Margaret Fisher, the principal of Shelton Park School, and Pat Lupton, president of the 4-H County Council, presided very efficiently. The entertainment for the program was provided by the winners of the "Share the Fun" contest which was held earlier in the month.

The winners in the Junior and Senior Division were Lois and Violet Furlough, and they sang "Melody of Love," accompanied by Mrs. O. L. Smith; and Betty Ann Melvin, the Junior division winner, sang "Bless This House." In addition to this entertainment the awards for the club projects and the agricultural projects were made by Dick Cockrell, county agent, and the Home Economics winners listed above were presented their awards by the home demonstration agent.

Also present to deliver the H. W. Ozlin Awards to the outstanding boys and girls in both Junior and Senior divisions was Mr. Ozlin, retired county agent, who is the donor of these awards.

They went to Floyd Waterfield, Jr. and Violet Furlough, of the Senior group, as the most outstanding boy and girl. Junior winners were: more outstanding boy, Gene Bridgitt, Creeds School, and most outstanding girl, Carolyn Clarke, Court House.

We had present John O. Hart, former county agent, who was presented and thanked for his leadership under which part of this program had been carried on.

Malathion Good All-Purpose Insecticide

● The chemical malathion is being boosted as a good all-around insecticide.

It is a close relative of the powerful and poisonous, commercially used parathion. It has many of the same insecticidal properties, but at the same time is less toxic to men and warm-blooded animals.

Reports of 1954 and previous years indicate malathion to be an effective weapon against a wide range of insects affecting ornamentals, vegetables and fruits — scales, aphids, lacebugs, mealybugs, some leaf miners, and most leaf-chewing insects.

It seems to come about as close to an "all-purpose" insecticide for home garden use as anything now available. Malathion is on sale at most garden supply stores, under various trade names. Several companies are using the basic chemical in formulating their garden insecticides.

When using it, read the statement on the package and follow directions. The odor is offensive to some people; it is somewhat expensive; it should not be applied to fruits or vegetables later than 10 to 14 days before harvest; and it is poisonous to man and animals and should be used with caution.

Prevention of Milk Fever Studied by VPI Scientists

● It may be possible to prevent milk fever by feeding a low calcium — high phosphorus ration during the month or so before a dairy cow calves.

Dr. W. A. Hardison, dairy researcher, in a preliminary report on a study underway at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station, declares to date 10 animals with histories of previous attacks of milk fever have been fed a ration consisting of equal parts of a grain mixture (containing shelled corn, wheat bran and a phosphorus supplement) and oat hay. Blood samples for calcium and phosphorus were taken at designated times. None of these animals developed clinical symptoms of milk fever at calving, and the blood levels of calcium and phosphorus of all the animals were within the normal range.

The largest volume of asbestos used in the United States goes into the making of asbestos-cement shingles and other building products.

More Men Are Bringing Their Wives Here For Dinner

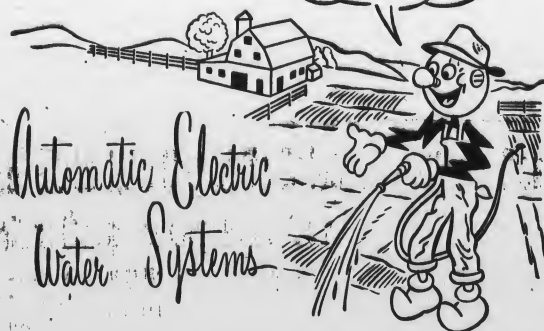

"It's the only way I can get her out of the kitchen over the week-end," said one of our patrons last week. And wives do love to dine down here at the Shore Drive Inn . . . they enjoy the fine fillet mignon steak dinners, the pleasant and comfortable dining rooms and the quick, polite service. Come on down and bring your wife, give her a break this week-end. We have facilities for 200 guests, private dining rooms for special parties and we're ready on a minute's notice.

Open Saturday and Sunday 'til 2 a.m. Other nights 'til 12.

On Memorial Day

Americans remember well:
They came from far and near;
The patriots who, fighting, fell . . .
We hold their memory dear.

Our thoughts are with them all, today.
Their earthly strife is past . . .
We bow our heads and humbly pray
That they know peace at last.
